April is Canadian Cancer Society's Daffodil Month
 Buy a daffodil pin to support Canadians living with cancer

Daffodil Month, held every April, is a national fundraising campaign of the Canadian Cancer Society. During the month, volunteers are involved in numerous activities to raise vital funds for the fight against cancer.

In 2015, the combined efforts of dedicated CCS volunteers and staff raised more than $4.8 million. During Daffodil Month, you can support Canadians living with cancer in many ways:

- Buy and wear a daffodil pin throughout April
- Donate when a volunteer canvasser knocks on your door
- Donate online at cancer.ca

Daffodil pins will be sold in Temiskaming Shores from Thursday, March 31 to Friday, April 1, 2016. For more information, please call Sue Dukovac at (705) 647-7147.

Money raised during Daffodil Month helps local patients and their families. Donations fund life-saving research, support services and other important work that means fewer Canadians will be touched by the disease.

THE IMPACT OF DONATIONS*

Each year, thousands of Canadians become Cancer Fighters. Did you know that you can hold your own fundraising event? It is as simple as deciding what activity you will do, using our fundraising tools to start raising money and then celebrating your success. For more information contact Susan Plamondon at 705-472-9072 ext. 3733 or visit cancer.ca/holdyourownevent.

We Need You

Volunteering with the Society is a great opportunity for you to make a positive impact in your community, be part of a team, share your experience, learn new skills and develop lasting friendships. Volunteers are critical to our accomplishments and we wouldn't be able to support, inform and empower those touched by cancer without you. For volunteer opportunities in your area please contact Debbie Marson at 705-472-9072 ext. 3737 or email mmarson@ontario.cancer.ca.

About the Canadian Cancer Society

The Canadian Cancer Society is a national community-based organization dedicated to preventing cancer, saving lives and supporting people living with cancer through research funding, services and advocacy. An indispensable seed bank

In 2008, the largest seed bank in the world was opened in the Norwegian archipelago of Svalbard, 1,110 km from the North Pole. The Svalbard Global Seed Vault is a truly international granary that stores millions of plant samples in optimal storage conditions (-18°C). Countries from around the world have already sent more than 100 million seeds that can be used for replanting if disaster strikes — wars, epidemics, insect infestations, threatened natural environments — and thus help preserve global biodiversity.

The idea is simple. Svalbard functions as an archive of the world's seeds where our planet's crop diversity can be carefully collected and preserved. As an example, when a January 2012 fire in the Philippines destroyed some unique varieties of bananas, sweet potatoes and other fruits, scientists were able to duplicate them in the laboratory before they were replanted at the site of the fire. Another example: among the seeds found in this veritable Noah's ark are some from the Pamir Mountains in Tajikistan, including specimens of rare wheat that only grows at high altitudes.

The Svalbard vault, built to withstand all types of natural and man-made disasters, was dug directly into the permafrost (permanently frozen ground). At 120 metres below the surface, this fail-safe seed storage facility can store an estimated 4.5 million varieties of crop seeds. At the time of its inauguration, 676 boxes of seeds were received, weighing a total of 10 tonnes. In 2009, 430,000 unique cultivars had already been sent to Svalbard.

This endeavour is funded by the Rockefeller Foundation, Monsanto Corporation, Syngenta Foundation and the Gates Foundation as well as several national governments and private organizations.

Did you get The Speaker this week?

Here are some of the stories in our April 27, 2016 edition...

- Questions about the process of forming an airport authority dominated the meeting of the Earlton-Timiskaming Regional Airport Municipal Services Board (MSB) Thursday, April 21.
- When spring arrives in April in Temiskaming Shores, you may want to tap your feet, square dance, eat delicious food and celebrate all things French Canadian.
- A Haileybury man was charged with trespass-related offences at the skatepark in New Liskeard on the weekend.
- Suds and sales are helping families of seriously ill children who must stay in Toronto and Ottawa for medical care.
- Robins, ants, track meets. Sure signs that spring has returned and, for student athletes, the most important of the three is undoubtedly track and field season.
- The Great North Midget League (GNML) is coming off a 2015-16 campaign that saw some big adjustments from the previous season.
- Our C-front this week features a story and photos on the 9th annual Spring Pulse Poetry Festival.

Join the majority and read Temiskaming's Paper of Record, the national and provincial award-winning Temiskaming Speaker.

A paper produced in Temiskaming by Temiskaming residents for Temiskaming residents.
