From wheat to honeybees: eight fast facts about agriculture in Canda

The agriculture and agri-food industry contributes more than $50 billion every year to Canada's gross domestic product, which is more than the national GDP of some countries.

Check out these interesting facts:

- 1. Canada produced 6.7 billion eggs, which would provide enough protein for everyone in Manitoba and Saskatchewan for one year;
- 2. Our total beef and veal supply was enough to give each Canadian a hamburger a day for a year;
- 3. Canadian dairy farmers also produced enough milk (that is used in the process of butter, cheese, yogurt, skim milk powder, etc.) to fill 1,916 Olympic size swimming pools;
- 4. Just under 3,000 farmers made sure you had enough sweet corn for your family corn roast;
- 5. Dairy farmers produced enough milk to provide each Canadian with 311 cups of milk (2 per cent, 1

- per cent or whole) a year;
 - 6. Canada produced enough wheat flour for every Canadian to have nearly 7 slices of whole wheat bread every day;
 - 7. There were 561,297 colonies of honeybees producing 38 million kilograms of honey, and;
 - 8. Less than one per cent of Canadians are farm operators. They feed us as well as people from other countries through export.
- No wonder the twice-a-decade Census of Agriculture is so important. The census provides farmers, farm organizations, policy makers, stakeholders, and citizens with relevant information about the future of the Canadian agricultural sector and helps them make informed decisions regarding agricultural practices in this country.

DID YOU KNOW...

The more stuff you have in your freezer, the less energy it has to use to keep things cold - all the more reason to make sure you utilize that space well!

If you find you have extra room, put ice cubes in plastic bags and pack them in the nooks and crannies. That also comes in handy if there is ever a power outage.

Most of the food you freeze will last for up to a year, including fresh meat and poultry. However, cooked meat won't last as long.

Light, air, and water all contribute to how long your food will last. So, in general, the more air and water-tight a container, the better off your food will be.
