PLANNER & GUIDE

A carefully planned
seating chart

A seating chart is essential if you want your guests to be able to find their seats quickly and easily at the wedding reception. A seating chart is also an easy way to show the wait staff where children’s meals have to be served and which of your guests have allergies or special diets. It also allows you to strategically place the guests of your choice close to the head table.

1. Seat guests in a logical fashion. Place families, colleagues, and groups of friends close together; keep separated couples, or guests who don’t get along, as far apart as possible.
2. Pregnant women and parents with young children should be positioned close to the exit and the bathrooms, but well away from any loudspeakers. If some tables might be moved after the meal in order to create more dance floor space, reserve the tables that will not be moved for these people. Find out ahead of time if high chairs or booster seats will be needed.
3. Try to seat guests with at least one person they already know. You can seat strangers at the same table, but do your best to ensure that they have common interests or will get along with each other.
4. Try to have an equal number of men and women at the same table.
5. Children nine years old and younger should be seated with their parents. You could reserve a table for 10- to 17-year-olds, but be sure that it is situated towards the back of the room, as younger guests usually pay less attention to the speeches and prefer talking among themselves.

The completed seating chart can then be printed and positioned at the entrance of the reception hall, or you can give to someone dependable the task of directing guests to their tables.

A guide to WHOLE-BODY HEALTH

Head, shoulders,
knees and toes

Their business: your health

Health professionals are your allies. With the start of a new year, their expertise can be an invaluable asset when it comes to reaching your goals. Whether it's to heal an old injury, maintain your mental health, lose weight, quit smoking or learn to relax, there are all kinds of doctors and medical specialists who can help.

It's never too late to make your overall health a top priority. Regular checkups with your doctor, coupled with a good understanding of your body, can help prevent a variety of medical problems. And if something does go wrong, it's far better to catch it with an early diagnosis. Call the experts to maximize your chances of stopping serious illness before it happens.

For your health and the health of your family, trust the professionals. After all, there's nothing more important than your well-being.

We provide a stable, challenging and rewarding environment for professional growth and development.

The successful applicant will be responsible for providing leadership and supervision to the crew. Administrative duties will include tracking quantities for payment and tracking production as well as participating in the planning and scheduling process. The ability to handle high pressure situations is required in order to deal with employees and clients in a professional and productive manner while being flexible with work assignments and resources. The successful candidate will be reviewing completed work and responsible for the appropriate documentation. You must comply with corporate health and safety policies and conduct 'tail gate' safety talks with the crew.

If you have a G license, knowledge of civil construction practices and equipment and have the ability to work out of town, flexible work shifts, long hours and some weekends, you are invited to submit your resume to Sara Fawcett, Human Resources Supervisor at sara.fawcett@millergroup.ca or via facsimile at (705) 647-3954 no later than 5:00 p.m. on April 16, 2018.

We would like to thank all the applicants; however only those selected for an interview will be contacted.
Accommodations available upon request.

Ron Wight was raised on a farm near Arkona, in Lambton County. In 1984, Ron and Dorothy moved to a farm in Brethour Township, bringing their 400 ewes with them. Ron took a leadership role in the sheep industry, serving as a provincial director for District 11 of the OSMA from 1986 to 1995, and again from 2004 to 2007. He also served as a director of the Ontario Stockyards Board. Ron always made time to talk about sheep, to promote the industry, and to help out new producers with advice and locating breeding stock. Come celebrate his legacy and learn more about this valued pioneer over breakfast.
