Cobalt Hoist Room
committee
preparing space

Darlene Wroe

Speaker Reporter

COBALT - The committee is getting ready to roll up their sleeves to prepare the new Hoist Room space in Cobalt.

“Things are coming along well,” said committee chair Angela Adshead at a committee meeting Tuesday, April 16.

“We have come up with a solid plan to begin the renovations for the Hoist Room. We’re going to be beginning demolition this week and on the weekend, and the next step will be constructing what we need to construct, and relocating the equipment.”

Adshead added the committee will be coming up with fundraising ideas.

They are still looking for volunteers. Those interested can leave their names at the town office or they can contact Adshead at aadshead@cobalt.ca.

The space next door to the town office was, most recently, a doctor’s office. Its dimensions are approximately 19 feet by 83 feet. Walls will be removed to open the space up for the gym area and one area lends itself to a higher ceiling which can be used for activities that need more space.

DID YOU GET THE Speaker THIS WEEK?

Here are some of the stories in our April 17 edition...

- The path to use the Englehart and Area Community Arena Complex for the Ag Society has been paved smooth by minor hockey.
- The Ministry of Transportation is not in favour of a European model of highway design for Highway 11 north.

- A change of venue has the mobile blood donor clinic being held at Ecole secondaire catholique Sainte-Marie on April 24.
- He was a big thinker and lived large and this was reflected in his artwork and athleticism. Who was this flamboyant man?

- The Earlton Farm Show attracted thousands of people to the Earlton arena last weekend.
- How is Climate Action Temiskaming moving and shaking the discussion around climate change? Read all about it The Speaker this week.

There will be an accessible doorway at the front estimated to cost $2,400.

Occupancy sensors will be installed to ensure lights are not left on and costs can be controlled.

MOVING PLANS

Adshead informed the committee Cobalt Car Clinic has offered use of its flatbed, and also has a loader that can reach to the window of the old arena where the equipment is currently stored. The loader can be used for smaller pieces such as bars and dumbbells, said committee member Ian Duval.

Other things will have to be disassembled, said committee member Brian Walker.

"The major equipment has to go down the stairs," Duval commented.

Adshead said a quote is needed for a new FOB system and for security cameras.

Electrical outlets will also be needed for fans, Adshead pointed out.

Fundraising will be needed for additional equipment, such as an elliptical bike, she said.

The age limit for use of the Hoist Room will be 16 and over. Teenagers 16 to 18 will require parental consent. The restrictions are due to liability costs.

Discussions took place on allowing reduced rates for seniors.

The committee also discussed having the Hoist Room available to users 24/7.

A contest for a new logo is also being discussed as is fundraising such as a barbecue, a yard sale, t-shirts and hats.

Flood watch for North Bay district

DISTRICT (Staff) — The Ministry of Natural Resources and Forestry (MNR) advises there's a flood watch in effect in the district, including South Temiskaming, until Tuesday, April 23.

The MNR will be closely monitoring the weather and developing watershed conditions as the North Bay District is expected to receive between 20 to 50 millimeters of rain over the next three days with higher amounts possible in isolated areas.

A U.S. based weather system was expected to move in April 17 bringing significant precipitation in the form of rain across the district.

The precipitation is expected to begin by Wednesday evening and then die out by Saturday.

Thunderstorms are possible and may produce additional rainfall of 5 to 10 millimeters in isolated areas.

I Miss You

Sometimes when I first awake
I think that you're still here
And for a fleeting moment
The clouds all disappear.

for you brought endless sunshine
Until you went away,
And now I miss you desperately
Each minute of the day.

You would not like to see me sad
So what I try to do,
Is live a bright and happy life
In memory of you.

For though I'll always miss you
And it's dreadful being apart,
I haven't really lost you
You're still here in my heart.

We are cathedrals

The world watched in horror this week as parts of the iconic Notre-Dame de Paris cathedral went up in flames.

This all leading up to Easter weekend, one of the holiest events in the Christian calendar.

This cathedral was a powerful symbol of Catholicism.

Just recently the Cross of the Evangelization arrived at Ecole secondaire catholique Sainte-Marie. I saw the excitement and joy in the faces of the students, staff and locals when the cross arrived.

Videos posted on social media show the 850-year-old spire of the cathedral collapsing in a ball of flames.

Thank goodness no lives were lost and we wish the best for the injured firefighter caught in the blaze.

It didn't take long for the haters and the conspiracy theorists to come out of the woodwork.

And yes, they blamed Muslims and even Catholics for the fire.

People professing to be Christians took to social media turning the tragedy into a way to espouse their anti-Catholic, anti-Muslim, anti-immigration, anti-gay agendas.

It was definitely disturbing to see people turning this horror into self-righteous vitriol.

I was listening to U.S. presidential hopeful Pete Buttigieg, an openly gay man, talking about religion and how it is being used to promote hate in America.

He said, "My problem is when religious beliefs are used as an excuse to harm other people."

People wrongly blamed this tragedy for everything from the decimation of the environment to the harm done to Indigenous peoples.

Sue Nielsen

I don't believe Jesus, Buddha, Deva or Allah would play the blame game in this instance.

Rather they would unite and uplift humanity.

My understanding is deities or higher powers are centered in love.

I have a deep and abiding respect for spiritual symbols.

While I may not attend church, I feel I am religious as I seek the beauty that is found in the natural world.

My cathedral may be a mist-covered lake in the early morning light and my pew the stern of my canoe as they bring profound meaning to my life.

The walls of my church are forest green and water blue. Even just a small dose of nature allows me to awaken the sacred within. When I am on the water in my canoe I call it "soul work."

Too often in this hurried, harried world we easily forget who we are and what is important to us.

It's how we treat each other that reveal our true godliness.

We are all shining cathedrals and love is the true light and the way.

Happy Easter everyone!

IT'S THAT TIME OF YEAR - BE PREPARED

EDITORIAL

Happy Easter!

It is Easter weekend and family and friends will be getting together to celebrate over a meal.

A great way to celebrate the holiday is to take the kids out to the various events held in the region, some at libraries, to make crafts together, enjoy face painting and egg decorating with other children.

Easter weekend marks the holiest observance of the year for Christians, a time to reflect on the death and resurrection of Christ.

Let this holiday weekend be a time for reflection about how fortunate each one of us is to be alive in this beautiful region.

Please remember to avoid drinking and other drug usage over the holidays if you are getting behind the wheel of a car. Remember to obey all rules of the road including wearing a seat belt and avoiding distracted driving.

Also, be extra careful around fast moving rivers and creeks as the spring thaw continues.

The snow is melting and summer is just around the corner, hurray!

The Temiskaming Speaker and Weekender wish everyone a safe, happy Easter weekend.

The cutting edge

Doug Ford campaigned on a promise to reduce the provincial deficit and to streamline government.

The Progressive Conservatives have just revealed their first budget and it is a stinging one in terms of cuts that could affect life in the north.

We are seeing just how Queen's Park plans to reduce the health care budget as it was announced public health units in the province would be pared down from 35 to 10 new regional hubs.

We may see our local Timiskaming Health Unit become integrated with a regional Northeastern Ontario-wide health unit entity.

This could very well mean job loss and loss of services to our communities here in South Temiskaming.

Ford has eliminated the 14 Local Health Integrated Networks coordinating health-care services at the local level as well.

These changes are leaving public health officials scrambling to understand the full impact of these cuts.

The Ford government intends to eliminate $200 million from the public health care budget by 2020.

We will have to wait and see how the reduction in funding and the budget constraints will play out for the health and well being of Temiskaming residents.

The important take away is we will be watching and preparing to hold the government accountable for any adverse fallout from these extreme budget cuts.

Human remains found in Coleman

COLEMAN (Staff) – Investigation continues into the discovery of human remains in Coleman Township earlier this week.

Temiskaming Ontario Provincial Police say officers were notified shortly before 2 p.m. April 15 that remains had been found south-east of Cobalt.

As of April 17, the identity of the deceased person had not been confirmed.

Police said a post-mortem examination will be conducted at a later date.

In a news release, police said the investigation is continuing by the Temiskaming OPP, with the help of the OPP’s Forensic Identification Unit, Crime Unit and Emergency Response Team.

The investigation is under the direction of Detective Staff-Sergeant Kurtis Fredericks of the OPP Criminal Investigation Branch.

The Office of the Chief Coroner for Ontario and the Ontario Forensic Pathology Service are also involved.

Police say they’ll provide further information as it becomes available.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Climate change is no April Fools’ joke

Dear editor,

Re: Weekender editorial Carbon Tax April 5.

The carbon tax is stirring up lively discussion. Hopefully, we can all agree on one thing: we want our children to be healthy and realize their full potential. Climate change threatens that. And so we must act.

The carbon tax is one of many policies that reduces carbon emissions. Experience elsewhere shows carbon taxes work without dragging on the economy. The purpose of the tax and rebate is to provide a financial incentive to reduce every day fossil fuel use.

While we still need to heat our homes and drive cars, we can combine trips and buy the most fuel-efficient car possible, buy local, turn down the thermostat and increase insulation. If we make small changes now and bigger changes over time, we’ll end up ahead. Governments can and should help make those changes possible and affordable.

The program returns 90 per cent of all revenues directly to families, and Timiskaming residents will get an extra 10 per cent on their Climate Action Incentive. This means four out of five Ontario families will get more back than they pay in carbon tax even without making changes. A family of five in Timiskaming will get $380 this year, and $880 by 2022. If you take steps to reduce fossil fuel use, you’ll end up even further ahead and build a healthier community. The remaining 10 per cent of tax collected will go to schools, hospitals, municipalities and small businesses to help them increase energy efficiency and create good local jobs.

Of the 195 countries in this world, Canada is one of the wealthiest and a top-ten emitter of greenhouse gases. By any reasonable measure, Canada must act.

Sincerely,
Maria McLean, Paul Cobb, Erin Little, Kirsten Bildfell, Amanda Mongeon

City building activity on par with ‘17

TEMISKAMING SHORES (Staff) – Building activity in the city in 2018 was on a par with that of the previous year, judging by building permit statistics.

The annual report detailing building permit data by type of construction and its value was presented to Temiskaming Shores council March 19.

In 2018, the city issued 103 building permits for projects valued at $9.1 million.

That was a little ahead of 2017, which recorded permits for almost $8.87 million in construction.

In 2018, the commercial and institutional sector was the busiest, with permits issued for $4.4 million in renovations and $650,000 in new starts.

Permits for single residential construction accounted for just over $1 million in renovations and almost $1.4 million in new starts.

On the multi-unit residential side, permits were issued for $1 million in new construction and $194,500 in renovations.

On the industrial side, there were no permits for new starts.

Permits were issued for $466,000 in renovations.

Is it just leg pain... or Peripheral Arterial Disease?

PAD is a term used to describe diseased blood vessels that are not related to your heart. It results from a build-up of plaque in the walls of blood vessels (arteries). This reduces or blocks the flow of blood to your legs and other organs. PAD is most commonly seen in the legs.

Did You Know?

- 50% of people living with PAD do not show signs
- People with diabetes are two to four times more likely to have PAD

The signs of PAD are:

Cramps in the leg muscles (but-tocks, thigh or calf) that occur during activities like walking or climbing stairs

Colour Changes in the skin of the feet, including paleness or blueness

Pain in the legs and/or feet while at rest or that disturbs sleep

Lower Temperature in one leg compared with the other leg

Sores or Wounds on toes, feet or legs that heal slowly, poorly or not at all.

Poor Nail Growth and poor hair growth on toes and legs.

How is PAD Diagnosed?

Your health care provider may check: the pulse in your legs and feet to see if there is enough blood flow; the colour, temperature and look of your legs and feet; and signs of poor wound healing on the legs and feet. Your provider may also perform a series of simple tests:

- Ankle brachial pressure index (ABPI) – this test compares the blood pressure readings in your ankles and arms.
- Doppler ultrasound test – this test uses sound waves to measure the flow in blood vessels in your arms and legs.
- Transcutaneous oxygen measurement – this test measures the oxygen level of tissue beneath the skin.

Ask to be tested if:

- You are over 70
- You are over 50 and have other cardiovascular risk factors such as high blood pressure, diabetes, high cholesterol
- You are a smoker or a former smoker

Committed to keeping you as healthy as possible!

New equipment provides new look at point of care

Diane Johnston
Speaker Reporter

TEMISKAMING SHORES – New diagnostic equipment is now available bedside at the Temiskaming Hospital.

A portable ultrasound machine can be wheeled into the emergency department or to a patient's room for an immediate scan.

It provides access at the point of care to a quick diagnosis for anything from trauma to pregnancy-related conditions, "even to eye injuries," said physician Jean Corbin.

It can check for internal bleeding or build-ups of fluid, scan internal organs such as the liver or kidneys after a collision, or check someone experiencing cardiac problems, said Sharla Brookfield, the hospital's clinical nurse manager.

"We use it on a daily basis," she said.

The new ultrasound device was acquired with a $100,000 grant from the Frog's Breath Foundation.

"We were happy to continue to support the hospital," said Susi Johanson, the foundation's executive director.

The equipment will complement health care services for everyone in the communities served by the foundation, she said.

It was pleased to help the hospital acquire a piece of necessary equipment in frequent use, said Rheo Hacquard, a director of the foundation and its treasurer.

The new equipment arrived at the end of January.

Brookfield said it provides high-resolution images and has proven to be easy to use.

A new portable ultrasound unit is now in regular use at the Temiskaming Hospital. The equipment was purchased with the help of $100,000 from the Frog's Breath Foundation – from left, foundation director and treasurer Rheo Hacquard and executive director Susi Johanson; physician Jean Corbin; Sharla Brookfield, the hospital's clinical nurse manager; Erin Montgomery, chief nursing executive and director of patient care; and hospital CEO Mike Baker. Speed limit drops in Coleman

Speaker Reporter

COLEMAN – Highway 11B drivers at the north end of Coleman will be slowing down.

Coleman Township's request to lower the speed limit from 80 kilometres per hour to 60 km/h has been approved by the Ministry of Transportation, said Mayor Dan Cleroux.

The lower limit will be implemented on a stretch of Hwy. 11B between the township's boundaries with Cobalt and Temiskaming Shores.

While the change will affect only about two kilometres, "it's a busy area," Cleroux said.

It includes access to a couple of side roads, entrance to a cemetery and a bus stop.

He anticipated that the actual implementation of the new speed limit will occur when weather permits the installation of new signs.

Making time for the bats

Darlene Wroe
Speaker Reporter

COLEMAN TOWNSHIP/COBALT - The plan to restrict mine tours at the Colonial Mine in Coleman Township to two months this summer should be enough to avoid disturbing the bats, said Ontario Ministry of Energy, Conservation and Parks spokesperson Gary Wheeler.

Commenting in an email, Wheeler said the ministry does not have accurate information when it comes to the number of bats at the site, and said there may be bats in the mine during the summer, but it cannot be stated as a certainty.

"As bats are nocturnal, people may see them at dusk and in the evening," he commented.

"The mine's features are consistent with other mines where bats live, so we were not surprised that bats would be at the site. Bat activity was first recorded at the mine in 2011."

Guided tours to the Colonial Mine will be conducted by the Cobalt Mining Museum from June 15 to August 15.

The tours help to provide revenue for the mining museum operation.

Who doesn't like to squirt a little water? Dana Sloss of Temiskaming Shores and her two-old son Gage took advantage of the chance for a little messy play at the first session celebrating the same at the EarlyON Child and Family Centre in Haileybury.
