

Funding hitting the road in South Temiskaming

Diane Johnston
Speaker Reporter

TEMISKAMING SHORES - Almost $8 million in funding has been announced for a new bridge and busing in South Temiskaming.

The Larose bridge in Coleman, which links the township to the north end of Cobalt, will be rebuilt, at a total cost of $4.8 million.

The Temiskaming Transit system will receive $3.12 million over 10 years for five new buses as well as improvements to bus shelters and a modernized fare payment system.

"This is going to get people where they want to go, when they want to get there," said Vic Fedeli, Nipissing MPP and Ontario's minister of Economic Development, Job Creation and Trade.

But the support wouldn't have been possible without "the partnership and collaboration" of the federal, provincial and municipal governments, Fedeli said.

He was among the provincial, federal and municipal leaders who took part from a variety of locations in the funding announcement August 28.

million, is the conversion of the Larose bridge from one lane to two.

The federal government is providing $2.93 million; the province, $1.6 million; and Coleman Township more than $332,000.

The new bridge will improve safety and reliability for motorists, cyclists and pedestrians, Fedeli said.

"This new bridge will support better traffic flow, reduce service interruptions and improve emergency response times," he continued.

The bridge was built prior to 1909, and provided an important link in those early days between the silver mines and the towns of Cobalt and Haileybury, said Coleman Mayor Dan Cleroux.

Today, he said, mining exploration is focused on cobalt and the potential for diamonds, in both Coleman and neighbouring Latchford.

The area's unique geology attracts scholars from post-secondary institutions in Ontario and Quebec, he said.

What is Gout and What Can You Do to Better Manage or Prevent it?

What is Gout?

Gout is a type of arthritis caused by a surplus of uric acid in the body. This excess can trigger the formation of urate crystals in joints, cartilage, tendons, and bones, causing inflammation, swelling and pain.

While many people associate gout with being overweight, and this does increase your risk, but gout is also linked to kidney disease, drinking large amounts of alcohol, and eating foods that are high in purines (e.g. meats, seafood, peas, beans, lentils, spinach). The risk of getting gout increases with age and men are at a higher risk than women.

Treatment options

Treating gout involves a two-pronged approach that combines medications and lifestyle changes. Medications for gout ease the pain and inflammation of acute attacks and control uric acid levels to prevent future attacks.

Self-Care

Adopting healthy lifestyle habits is a key part of an effective gout treatment plan. Eating a healthy diet, getting regular physical activity and losing weight (if needed) can lower your risk of repeat gout attacks, as well as the chances of developing heart disease, which is common in people with gout.

Diet

Developing a lifelong eating strategy that focuses on following a heart-healthy diet should be the goal for people with gout. This diet includes all of the food groups, especially vegetables, whole grains, plant proteins such as nuts and legumes and low-fat dairy.

The following foods are known to trigger gout attacks:

- Red meat and organ meats (liver, tongue and sweetbreads)
- Shellfish such as shrimp and lobster
- Sugary beverages
- Excessive alcohol (more than one alcoholic drink for women and two for men within 24 hours)

Physical Activity and Weight Management

Being physically active is an important part of managing weight, but getting started on losing weight or being active isn't always easy. A health care provider can help set realistic goals and choose appropriate exercise.

If you are a patient of the Temagami Family Health Team, are experiencing gout and would like to see a health care provider to discuss treatment and/or lifestyle changes, please call the office at (705) 569-3244 to schedule an appointment.

Committed to keeping you healthy!!

The existing Larose bridge in Coleman Township will be replaced by a new two-lane structure, thanks to funding from the federal, provincial and municipal governments. (Staff photo by Jamie Mountain)

For local residents, he said the new bridge will provide "reliable infrastructure" for use by firefighters and ambulances.

It will also improve access for visitors to the Heritage Silver Trail, he said.

BUSING

On the transit side, the federal government is providing $1.28 million and the province $1.04 million. The municipal contribution is pegged at more than $832,000 over ten years.

The funding will enable the purchase over time of five new low-floor buses and the replacement of four bus shelters and the addition of two more. A new fare payment system enabling contactless payment with reloadable cards will also be installed, and a software app will let riders track their bus in real time.

Many smaller communities in the North have disbanded their public transit system, commented Temiskaming Shores Mayor Carman Kidd.

The city administers the bus system, which is shared with the Town of Cobalt.

Public transit is "vital" to the local economy, Kidd said.

"We recognize the need to get our people to their jobs and back home, to get our students to Northern College, to allow our seniors to go out and buy groceries, and to get patients to their medical appointments," he said.

By investing in new buses, better service and improved service delivery, "we have seen a steady increase in the ridership over the years," he said.

The new funding will ensure that the much-needed transit service continues and helps the economy grow "as we work our way out of this pandemic," he said.

ADAPTATION

"These are unprecedented times," commented Nickel Belt Liberal MP Marc Serré, who also participated in the announcement.

As efforts continue to "cautiously but gradually" open the economy, he said governments are looking at collaboration to deliver services and support Canadians.

At the federal level, he said the government is adapting its infrastructure program and others to be open to more projects and more funding. He said Nipissing-Timiskaming MP Anthony Rota and the Northern caucus "fought hard" to increase the federal portion and reduce the municipal contribution for shared-cost projects.

Rota, for his part, was pleased to see funding go to smaller communities.

They too have needs, he said, "and this is a prime example of where all three levels see the importance of smaller communities, and what we contribute to the province and to the country."

Hive removal sees workers bee-ing diligent

Darlene Wroe
Speaker Reporter

TEMISKAMING SHORES - A heavy presence of honey bees at one of the pumps behind the New Liskeard Husky/Esso station on Highway 11 resulted in a very careful and conservation-minded effort to relocate them.

The bees had settled in one of the vertical pipes which comprised one of the columns under the canopy behind the truck stop.

Wagg's Petroleum Equipment Ltd., which had constructed the pumping area 13 years ago, was called in from North Bay.

Angelo Collinassi and Maurice Montreuil arrived on scene August 13 to attempt to locate and remove the beehive.

Local beekeeper Felicity Buckell also took part in the effort, and brought bee suits if they were needed.

An electrician was also called in later to turn off the power to the pillar area.

A Toronto trucker, who was refuelling his truck when the bee removal efforts were underway, commented that about ten days earlier, the site had been alive with bees.

"It was (like) the Pearson International Airport," the trucker (who did not wish to be identified) commented, "They weren't aggressive. They were just on a mission."

The Husky/Esso had put up fences around the pump as well as a sign warning people about the presence of bees to ensure no one got stung.

A pile of dead bees had accumulated beneath one of the pipes, and it was hypothesized that they might have died as a result of a rain downpour.

After some inspection and banging on the pipe, and almost no reaction from any bees, Buckell guessed that the bees had already moved to another location, "which would be great."

Enough of the column was dismantled to allow Montreuil to cut through a thick plastic pipe. The ends were capped to contain the bees within the pipe. Once removed, Collinassi and Buckell carried the pipe to a nearby field where the caps were removed. Buckell said there was only a small beehive that was in a very early stage of construction.

EDITORIAL

Without judgment

There is a public health crisis happening in our country and communities that came before the COVID-19 pandemic and in many ways will last long after the pandemic ends.

And it will likely continue to take the lives of thousands of people and destroy families and entire communities.

We are dealing with an overdose and opioid epidemic of huge proportion.

Overdose Awareness Day on August 31 was a day to remind us of the seriousness of the situation when it comes to the overdose crisis in Ontario.

We know that the people who use drugs are our family members, friends and co-workers.

We have seen how quickly governments have pooled resources and funding to address COVID-19 in hospitals, at health units and in public places.

The speed at which public health and governments have acted in terms of the virus clearly indicates it can and should happen the same way when dealing with addiction.

Deaths from drug use are entirely preventable and if enough action is taken lives can be saved and people can go on to lead healthy, happy lives.

Since 2016, 15,000 Canadians have died from overdoses and the death toll continues to rise.

We must remove the stigma surrounding drug use as a personal failure. This assumption is killing people and causing people to not seek the treatment they so badly need and deserve.

The biases around drug addiction need to be challenged and removed.

People's lives are at stake.

Let us advocate for more mental health and addiction treatment options in our communities.

Let us create safe places for the delivery of harm reduction treatment options. People who use drugs must have access to addiction services without fear or judgment.

Most of us know someone who has dealt with or is dealing with addiction.

Understanding and compassion goes a long way when people feel heard and respected, not judged and demonized.

We are all in this together.

Rise up

"There may be times when we are powerless to prevent injustice, but there must never be a time when we fail to protest." Elie Wiesel

As someone who values activism and speaking up to make positive change, I view the recent riots around the world with a mixed bag of emotions.

The American protests over police brutality are grabbing the headlines these days, it seems.

How many people would trade places with a police officer? Would you be willing to lay down your life for another in the line of duty?

There are horrible police officers just as there are horrible bosses, teachers, politicians and on and on.

But the majority of police are good and equally upset about the shootings of black people.

When you have a "right to bear arms" in the U.S. anything can and will happen and in my mind, there are way too many people with weapons.

And it seems like the leader of the free world is inciting violence and fear rather than unifying people.

The real concerns lie in the fact that more people died from the coronavirus over some weekends than died on 9/11.

This is what people should focus on and hold their leaders accountable for.

What do I know about the Black Lives Matter (BLM) movement?

I know I am white so I have no understanding of what it means to be a black person these days.

Sue Nielsen

If I was black I would be terrified and angry right now.

The George Floyd killing re-ignited the BLM movement and then bang, it happened again.

Another black man was shot in the back at point blank range seven times while his children watched.

I just don't understand how a white 17-year-old calmly struts down the streets of Kenosha, Wisconsin, with a long gun randomly murdering people and isn't arrested on site?

Protestors in Montreal pulled down a statue of Sir John A. MacDonald from its pedestal knocking off the statue's head.

It is well known that MacDonald created policies to starve First Nations people and take away their land to push the railroad through to the west coast.

The history of Canada isn't boring, but it has been ugly and racist.

I might have cheered when that statue came down had I been Indigenous.

Why not auction off the head and give the money to First Nations for clean drinking water systems?

There are currently 105 First Nation communities living under boil water advisories.

At the end of the day, all the riots and protests hopefully will change a system that has been inhospitable to so many.

Remains of missing hiker found southeast of Latchford

TEMISKAMING SHORES (Staff) – Human remains found near Latchford late last month have been identified as those of a missing hiker from Pickering.

Temiskaming OPP say that remains located August 25 have been identified as Raymond Chan, 60.

Chan was reported to have last been seen in the Latchford area in December after embarking on a cross-country hike late in the year.

Foul play is not suspected, said Constable Jennifer Smith, community safety and media relations officer at the Temiskaming OPP detachment.

Temiskaming OPP say they were informed that Chan was missing July 20.

On August 25, human remains were found southeast of Latchford in a search effort involving members of the detachment, the OPP Aviation Service and the OPP Emergency Response Team.

Identification was made following a post-mortem examination at the Centre of Forensic Sciences in Toronto August 31.

Investigation is continuing, and involves the Temiskaming OPP, the OPPcrime Unit and OPP Forensics Identification Services Unit.

Anyone with any information is asked to contact the OPP at 1-888-310-1122.

Individuals can also remain anonymous by contacting Crime Stoppers, at 1-800-222-8477 or online at www.canadian-crimestoppers.org/tips, where they may be eligible for a cash reward of up to $2,000.

Temagami throwing its support behind canoe project

By Jamie Mountain
Local Journalism Initiative Reporter

TEMAGAMI – There is a group that is working to create a landmark in Temagami - a 50-foot long canoe, which would become the world's largest wood canvas canoe.

Temagami council agreed to support the project in principle at its Thursday, August 27, meeting.

The municipality has worked with the Ontario Ministry of Transportation and have a potential location for the canoe in front of the train station.

Temagami's understanding is that there is sufficient community interest in the project that all the costs will be covered through donations.

Since the municipality would be the benefactor of this project, donations made through the municipal office are eligible for a tax receipt that can be used by the donor as permitted by the Income Tax Act.

"The whole idea of the 50-foot canoe was that the community would get behind it and it wouldn't actually cost the municipality anything," treasurer-administrator Craig Davidson said at the Aug. 27 meeting.

"Municipalities are able, through the Income Tax Act, to issue receipts for donations to municipal projects. Any costs for the project would be paid out of the donations received and if there's cost overruns, then the organizers need to figure out how that's going to be paid."

In order to ensure these costs and donations are segregated from the rest of municipal operations, Davidson noted that council had a pair of options.

They could set up a reserve account or a trust fund for the project.

A trust fund would have a separate audit, at an additional cost, while a reserve account would be included with the accounts examined during the annual financial audit.

Council agreed to establish a reserve account for the purpose of receiving donations from the community for the canoe project and that costs for the project would be paid through those funds.

New chapter Temiskaming Shores library set to open to the public

Darlene Wroe
Speaker Reporter

TEMISKAMING SHORES - The Temiskaming Shores Public Library plans to reopen in its new location Tuesday, September 8.

Now at 285 Whitewood Avenue West in New Liskeard, the building once housed the New Liskeard medical centre.

The new library space incorporates the collections of two branches, which have both now been closed.

"There's quite a bit more area for us to be able to do the tasks we have to do behind the scenes for the library in our new location, so we are really happy about that," library chief executive officer Rebecca Hunt commented.

An agreement has been reached with Northern College to allow the public to access an area at the Haileybury campus for books, but the opening of that site will be dependent on the reopening of the college, possibly in the next term of classes.

The new Temiskaming Shores Public Library is expected to open to the public on Tuesday, September 8. (Staff photo by Darlene Wroe)

The new two-level library space in New Liskeard is fully accessible with an elevator and an exterior ramp.

The children's section and office areas are located on the upper floor while the adult section is located downstairs.

Throughout the building the art collection from both branches of the library has been carefully displayed by representatives of the Temiskaming Art Gallery.

An important local collection of the works of well-known New Liskeard area artist Ernest Sawford-Dye (1873-1965) have made the transition from the New Liskeard branch to the new location, and are well displayed for public appreciation.

OFFICE SPACE

The upstairs includes an office for Hunt, a shared office for staff, a kitchen area, a staff workroom, and a storage area.

A room has been set up for the digital creator space, and Hunt said she is "really pleased with the way this room turned out."

There is more space available for the program's green screen, used for the gaming, and for the 3-D printer, although the printer has not yet been set up.

"I am not sure when this program is going to start up again," said Hunt, but she is hoping the intern will be able to return in the fall, after it is determined how things are going with COVID-19 requirements.

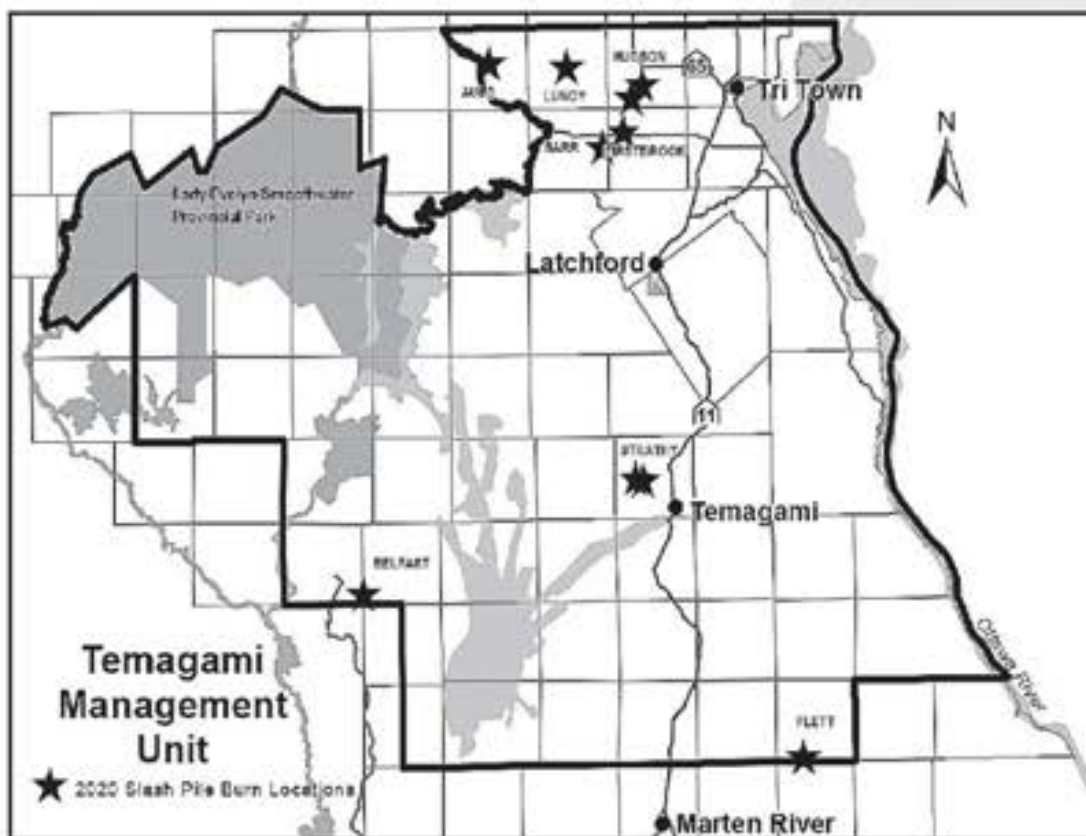

Hunt noted the digital creator space program is provided in partnership with Near North Mobile Media Lab. She is hopeful small groups will be allowed to gather for the digital creator space sessions.

A study room and boardroom are also available at the new

LIVE, LOVE, CAMP!

BUCKE-ROO CAMPING

By Robert Ritchie

Late summer camping has its special moments and unique opportunities to enjoy nature in the changing weather, sky, stars, and cloud formations, other things that change are the color of the leaves, water levels and grass growth. The changing weather in late summer in Temiskaming reminds us to layer our clothing, starting off in the mornings with our hoodies, pants, socks and running shoes till the sun comes out, warms things up to the point where campers can again enjoy their shorts, sandals and T-shirts. As the sun slowly descends, the air starts to get cooler and the campers again don their socks, running shoes, pants and hoodies while gathering around the campfire and notice the stars have shifted slightly in the sky and the clouds are scattered and heavy looking.

The great Canadian maple trees are the first to start to change colour with their bright crimson red that stands out from a backdrop of fir trees of green and blues. Poplar and birch trees are the next to change to warm oranges and yellows that start dominating the landscape, and some how muting the greens and blue greens of the spruce, tamarack and pines.

This is the time of year that Tom Thompson and a few members of the Group of Seven searched for new motifs in Northern Ontario. A few of them made it as far as Temiskaming, painting in the surrounding areas, in towns like Cobalt and Haileybury.

The Temiskaming Art Gallery is celebrating the Group of Seven's great achievements in art as well as acknowledging their accomplishment of creating a Canadian art movement that united Canadians and Canadian art from coast to coast giving Canada its own art identity in the world.

We in Temiskaming are incredibly lucky to have the opportunity to gaze upon some of the art works of the Group of Seven at the Temiskaming Art Gallery this September.

So, campers while enjoying the changes in nature, spread the word and visit Temiskaming Art Gallery to see a wonderful exhibition of Canadian art. You can send comments to buckaroo.camping@gmail.com.

location, and a new microfilm reader is being installed. There will also be an enclosed space for tutoring or for proctoring of exams.

Public access computers are set up, but at the time of this interview, Hunt was not certain whether they would be hooked up in time for the opening.

Seating is available throughout the library, along with portals for recharging devices.

Each level has two washrooms, with an accessible washroom on each of the two levels.

A drop box is available for after hours use.

COLLECTION BULK

"The lower level is where we ended up putting the bulk of our book collection because they deemed it was too heavy to put it up on the upper level," explained Hunt.

On the lower level the public can access the library's local history area, audio books, biographies, junior fiction, young-adult fiction, and junior non-fiction books.

The main fiction collection is also located there, along with large-print paperbacks, and the French-language fiction collection.

On the lower level there are areas for the DVDs, a custom-made storage area (made by Three H Furniture) for snowshoes, backpacks and other similar items that are available for borrowing through the library.

"I was really pleased with how that turned out," she commented.

Haileybury fire photos have been displayed near the elevator entrance on the lower level.

"People were fascinated by

INSPECTION

Inspection of MNRF-Approved Prescribed Burn Plan for Slash Pile Burning – Temagami Management Unit

The Ontario Ministry of Natural Resources and Forestry (MNRF) invites you to inspect the MNRF-approved prescribed burn plan for slash pile burning that will be carried out in the Temagami Management Unit (see map).

As part of our ongoing efforts to regenerate and protect Ontario's forests, some recently harvested areas have been selected to be burned under the guidelines of the MNRF's Prescribed Burn Manual. The prescribed burn will reduce the area covered in slash piles while increasing the area available for regeneration and reducing the fire hazard. The burn is scheduled for ignition between October 1, 2020 and December 31, 2020.

The approved prescribed burn plan for slash pile burning, including specific locations and maps, is available electronically for public inspection by contacting First Resource Management Group (FRMG) and on the Ontario government website at www.ontario.ca/forestplans until March 31, 2021, when the Annual Work Schedule expires.

Interested and affected persons and organizations can arrange a remote meeting with MNRF staff to discuss the prescribed burn plan. For more information, please contact:

Reconstructed public washrooms in Englehart

Darlene Wroe
Speaker Reporter

ENGLEHART - Englehart's Centennial Park has always been an attractive centre for the town, but has been receiving even more improvements this year.

A new public washroom is nearing completion. Englehart Public Works Superintendent Ryan

Vickery says there has been significant work done on the washrooms.

The previous washroom was entirely removed.

Speaking at Englehart's regular council meeting Wednesday, August 26, Councillor Jillian Plaunt also commented positively on the appearance of the inside of the Centennial Park.

Councillor Twyla Wilson commended the work of gardener Tammy Harkness, an employee of Rosie's Gardens, who Wilson said has brought plants to the park and donated her own time to work on the flower beds there.

"She's doing a really good job," Wilson said.

Vickery said the adjoining washrooms "will be ready for next year if things turn back to normal."

PPE HELP FOR HOSPITAL

Temiskaming Hospital's bill for personal protective equipment has been offset by a $2,500 donation from Grant Fuels-Petro-Canada. The corporate donation comes from a Petro-Canada initiative supporting community efforts to get back to business, said Steven Stinkowji, sales and operations manager at Grant Fuels. Presenting the donation were, from left, Stinkowji, Grant administration staffers Sam Semple and Kate Wylie, to hospital CEO Mike Baker. (Staff photo by Diane Johnston)

TIME FOR RETIREMENT

The old Savard Consolidated School bus is about to make its last run. The enclosed wagon was drawn by a team of horses in the early pioneer days of the region, transporting school children to and from Savard Consolidated School on Route 5. The bus, which is rotting out, will soon be removed from the front of the Englehart and Area Historical Museum. It has been determined that the structure is no longer sound. Its final destination has not been determined. (Staff photo by Darlene Wroe)

With more wall space, and the opportunity to carefully consider where the artwork should be displayed, the art is carefully displayed, and includes copper engravings depicting World War II, received from the estate of Alf Holmes.

A portrait of May Ball, whose legacy fund still assists the library in purchasing books, hangs in clear view.

Art works by Eleanor Huff, who had been active in the history of the Haileybury library, are also clearly displayed.

There are cameras installed throughout the library to ensure security.

The library employees five full-time staff members and a substitute staff person to fill in on vacations and sick days. There are also two library pages. Hunt said the library has reduced its staff numbers by one full-time position, but the library will be open longer hours.

The library will return to being open on Mondays from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

It will be open Tuesdays, Wednesdays, and Thursdays from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. On Fridays and Saturdays the library will be open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

If you wish to be notified of Council's decision on the proposed Zoning By-law Amendment, you must file a written request with the Director of Corporate Services of the City of Temiskaming Shores. If a person or public body does not make an oral submission at the public meeting or make written submissions to the City of Temiskaming Shores before the proposed zoning by-law amendment is passed, the person or public body may not be added as a party to the hearing of an appeal before the Local Planning Appeal Tribunal unless, in the opinion of the Tribunal, there are reasonable grounds to do so.

LA PAROISSE SAINTE-CROIX nous invite à prendre conscience et réfléchir sur notre relation personnelle avec Jésus Christ par les 7 sacrements offert par l'église catholique: le Baptême, la Confirmation, l'Eucharistie, la Confession, l'Onction des malades, l'Ordination et le Mariage. Par ses sacrements, une alliance est établie entre Dieu et nous dans nos cœurs, comme l'annonçait le prophète Jérémie (31, 31-34): « Je mettrai ma loi, au fond de leur être, je l'écrirai sur leur cœur. Ils seront mon peuple, Je serai leur Dieu ». Tél.: 705-672-3295 / Adresse: 341 Sutherland Way, Haileybury, ON
