

Councillor wants Carnegie building discussion reopened

Darlene Wroe
Speaker Reporter

TEMISKAMING SHORES - Temiskaming Shores council will be considering whether it wants to revisit its decision on calling for tenders for the sale of the Carnegie building in downtown New Liskeard.

Councillor Patricia Hewitt has given a notice of motion that she would like council to consider whether it is willing to review its decision on the building which housed the New Liskeard branch of the Temiskaming Shores Public Library.

The motion at the city's October 6 council meeting will ask only if council is willing to review its decision.

If council approves revisiting the decision, the actual discussion about the building will take place later in October.

Hewitt's interest in reopening the discussion opened a review of the city's procedural bylaw, and the changes that were recently implemented in the bylaw. Hewitt had been absent from the council meeting when the decision was made to sell the building. Under the former guidelines of the procedural bylaw, a decision made by council cannot be revisited in that same calendar year unless one of the voting council members decides to reopen the issue for reconsideration.

Under the revised bylaw, however,

Hewitt can bring a motion to the table to have it reviewed if the mayor gives his consent to the motion. Kidd did give his consent to allowing the question to be brought to the council table.

A majority vote to reconsider the decision would be needed before the matter could proceed to the next council meeting where discussion would be held and a vote would be taken again on whether the city intends to sell the Carnegie building.

Hewitt noted that the city received a letter from the Ontario Centre for Archaeological Research and Education (OCARE), and that letter has been since revised and has "new information" which deserves to be considered.

The revised letter was sent by OCARE chair Ryan Primrose on August 28, while council's decision to proceed with selling the Carnegie building was taken on August 11.

BUCKE-ROO CAMPING

By Robert Ritchie

The shadows are growing longer now in the cool mornings in Temiskaming, everything is wet with dew, fewer birds singing, the noise of squirrels and chipmunks claiming their territories. Then you stop, listen and you hear loud clear honking, you look up in the sky and it's the great Canadian geese in their all familiar V formation, flying overhead to their winter homes in the south. You look around and more leaves have changed colors, some are even on the ground. You know what this means for some, the pickerel are biting again offshore.

September and October are great months to fish offshore in Temiskaming at your campground. The pickerel, pike, bass, and other game fish are coming once again back to shore as the rocks, land and water cool off. The bait fish start clinging to the shore for their food and hiding places amongst the rocks.

The bait you use can be more diverse than just your minnows. Many people use worms, crayfish, and leeches to give themselves a variety of catches ranging from bass, whitefish, and sheepshead which can be smoked for a delicious change of pace from frying.

Some of the campgrounds in Temiskaming offer boat rentals. Campers and other tourists without ownership of a boat, can venture out on the waters to find that magic hole that is the home of their favourite game fish to catch.

With hunting season coming up campers and hikers have to be aware of where they are in the Temiskaming bush and should wear colourful clothes of fluorescent reds and oranges if they can, so they stand out and be safe from the possibility of an accident happening.

It has been great to bring some of my thoughts on camping in Temiskaming to the readers of the Temiskaming Speaker, I hope you the reader enjoyed it also.

So, grab your fishing rod, your hiking boots and enjoy the changing sites around your Temiskaming campgrounds. Comments can be sent to buckaroo.camping@gmail.com.

The archaeological organization is expressing concerns about the way council's decision was made to sell the building through a Request for Tender. The administrative report had suggested more than one option, which included "explore and negotiate" with OCARE, the letter continues.

OCARE has an interest in using the Carnegie building as a space to provide public access to archaeological collections with over 100,000 artifacts, a library corner, and other community resources. They have been in discussion with the city about the vision for the building and its goal to provide educational programming at the site, "while preserving the heritage character and posterity of the building," according to the letter.

OCARE had already sought federal funding for repair and upgrade of the building, the letter noted, and had received some approval in principle for the funds. It made clear that OCARE would own the building and assume full liability for its operations. Under OCARE's proposal, if it ceased to operate, the building would revert back to the city's ownership.

"During the Council meetings of June 2nd and August 11th, it was apparent that there persisted a misconception by the Mayor and some members of the Council that OCARE's proposal suggested the City would retain ownership of the building and its associated liability," said the organization.

"This is not, and never was, the case. Despite continued efforts to correct this misinformation, this issue of ownership was brought up (again misrepresented) as one of the reasons to not pursue OCARE's proposal; this incorrect information should not have been a consideration, yet it appeared to have influenced the decision to move immediately to a Request for Tender," the letter stated.

OCARE also noted the public support that has been given for its proposal to operate the building as a public space and retaining its heritage designation.

"A key component of OCARE's proposal has been, since the first public announcement, that OCARE will not only assume full ownership of the building, but will work to carry out accessibility upgrades and necessary repairs to the building."

ESCSM challenged by leaky roof and damaged gym floor

Sue Nielsen
Speaker Reporter

TEMISKAMING SHORES — A major hail storm and heavy downpours have seen water pour into classrooms, hallways and the gymnasium at Ecole secondaire catholique Sainte-Marie (ESCSM) in New Liskeard.

The extensive damage to the school's gym floor has caused the school to seek out other facilities in the region to host gym classes.

"We had a bad hail storm at the beginning of July and our roof sustained damages and this is causing problems," said ESCSM principal Annik Boucher.

"Our gymnasium floor has been damaged and will need to be redone so we are going to use the New Liskeard Community Hall as our gym. The amount of rain we've had lately isn't helping either," she said in a telephone interview.

She reached out to Temiskaming Shores council to ask for permission to use the New Liskeard Community Hall to host gym classes for her Grades 9 to 12 students.

"We have some classrooms right now that we are using for strength training and physical activity, but the students will be able to actually play games at the Community Hall, with all social distancing and COVID-19 precautionary measures in place."

All of the damage to the school's roof and gym floor is covered under insurance, noted the principal.

"A contractor was to begin repairs to the roof ... on September 14 but because it has been wet and rainy that has been backed up," noted Boucher. "The roof repairs depend on dry conditions. We have been flexible and adapted our schedules to this challenging situation."

CITY APPROVAL

At its regularly scheduled council meeting September 15, the City of Temiskaming Shores directed staff to prepare a bylaw to lease the New Liskeard Community Hall from September 21 to December 18 to Sainte-Marie.

Councillor Mike McArthur noted the use of the community hall by the students would not interfere with other user groups.

The estimated completion date of the school gym repairs is December 2020. The lease with the city includes an option to extend the lease agreement up to an additional 120 days at a cost of $1,000 per 30 days, accompanied by liability insurance documents from the user and COVID-19 precautions.

It was deemed that city staff would incur additional cleaning hours to accommodate the school usage and this was estimated at eight hours per month.

The overall lease agreement with the city and ESCSM is for $3,000 plus HST.

Dementia Awareness

Dementia is an overall term used for a set of symptoms that are caused by disorders affecting the brain. Symptoms may include memory loss and trouble with thinking, problem-solving or language, severe enough to make it hard for a person to carry out everyday activities. A person with dementia may also experience changes in mood or behaviour.

Dementia is progressive, which means the symptoms will gradually get worse as more brain cells become damaged. Dementia is not a specific disease. Many diseases can cause dementia, the most common being Alzheimer's disease and vascular dementia (due to strokes).

Some treatable conditions can produce symptoms similar to dementia, for example, vitamin deficiencies, thyroid disease, sleep disorders, or mental illness. It's very important to arrange for a full medical assessment as early as possible. Getting a timely diagnosis can help you access information, resources and support, benefit from treatment, and plan ahead.

Normal Aging	Dementia
Not being able to remember details of a conversation or event that took place a year ago	Not being able to recall details of recent events or conversations
Not being able to remember the name of an acquaintance	Not recognizing or knowing the names of family members
Forgetting things and events sometimes	Forgetting things or events more frequently
Sometimes have difficulty finding words	Frequent pauses and substitutions when finding words
You are worried about your memory, but your relatives are not	Your relatives are worried about your memory, but you are not aware of any problems

If you are worried about your memory and are a patient of the Temagami Family Health Team, talk to your primary care provider about a referral to our Memory Clinic. The goal of the clinic is to provide early diagnosis and treatment for problems associated with memory loss.

It's important to know when to see your primary care provider about memory concerns but it's equally important to know that forgetting someone's name doesn't necessarily mean that you are getting dementia.

Melanie's still missing

It's been over two decades since an athletic, bright and energetic 15-year-old went missing. Without a doubt it is every parent's worst nightmare that his or her child will go missing without a trace.

Melanie Ethier walked home after being at a friend's house in the early morning hours of September 29 and hasn't been seen or heard of since. We hope someone, somewhere, finds it in his or her heart to come forward with information to help solve this missing person case.

How heartbreaking and traumatic her disappearance has been for Melanie's mother, Celine, and her sister and extended family. We hope that Celine Ethier will eventually find peace and solace from knowing what happened to her beautiful daughter all those years ago.

And it has been equally difficult for this community as we all wish for a positive and peaceful ending for this missing person case. And we thank law enforcement for keeping the case on their "investigative" radar.

Wave that flag!

It's Franco Ontarian Flag day this Friday, September 25. The green and white flag symbolizes the widespread heritage and culture of Francophones in the province.

A day set aside to recognize the contributions of Ontario's Francophone community for their "joi de vivre" and contributions to life in the province. On this day, Francophone youth, adults and seniors can show their pride in having a French-language heritage.

In 1975, the Franco Ontarian flag was first raised on September 25 at the University of Sudbury. We salute and thank all the Francophone residents of this region.

Speaker pride

This month marks my 15th year as a Speaker reporter. People have often said to me, "We don't guess what you are doing these days as you tell us in your weekly columns."

The day I began working at The Speaker was on my mother's birthday, September 7, 2005. I don't tell you all the details about my life, but I tell you some parts of it.

I remember my first assignment was doing "streeters" asking locals about what they thought of this and that. You, the reader, will know that I love my daughter and her husband with all my heart and soul.

I needed five comments and accompanying photos. As I pointed my camera at one gentleman, he said, "I don't want my picture taken" and he ran away. And you surely know I love nature and my canoe and my community of Cobalt.

I thought to myself, "Is this the hard hitting, life-changing journalism I'm in for?" I must tip my pen to the present owners of this newspaper who keep the lights on and people employed despite the mega challenges facing newspapers these days.

The Temiskaming Speaker has withstood the test of time as we compete with social media and people who believe fake news is more interesting than real news. I've heard a reporter's motto involves the three Gs: Get it done, Get it first and Get it right.

With the help of my editor, Steven Larocque, hopefully I get it done, get it first and get it right. I must note there are three female journalists in the editorial department of this newspaper and we aren't an "old boys club."

I am extremely grateful for my coworkers, all award-winning journalists and highly professional people meeting weekly deadlines with style and class. The part I enjoy the most, as a Speaker reporter, is I am constantly learning and meeting new people.

No two days are ever the same in a reporter's life. Finding material for a story could involve attending a press conference, holding interviews and then putting it all together to hopefully make the story thought provoking and interesting. I've learned a great deal about life as a reporter as you become a mini-expert on whatever you are covering.

Will print media survive? If you value what local people are doing the answer is yes. You can find out what Trudeau and Trump are up to on a thousand different websites and pages but where else can you learn about your local taxes, roadwork, the fall fair, local sports or see your grandchild's picture published?

Latchford Fire Hall expansion project coming along

By Jamie Mountain
Local Journalism Initiative Reporter

LATCHFORD – The Latchford Fire Hall expansion project is progressing nicely.

“(We) just got the roof done this weekend, that should keep the rain out and (we’ll) be working on the soffit and fascia next,” Latchford Volunteer Fire Department Chief Mike Beaupre said in an email message.

“So, it’s coming along.”

There’s a lack of space in the current hall and the expansion was needed to house all of the vehicles and equipment.

Members of the fire department raised funds for the project for the last 10 years.

With Latchford council’s approval, and with some lumber provided by EACOM Timber, the fire department was able to move forward with their plans.

“We obtained our building permit for a 30x60-foot concrete pad in October 2018,” Beaupre had told The Speaker.

He said that the weather turned cold too fast, so the department had to postpone the project to the spring of 2019.

Then on April 1 of last year, a train containing oriented strand board (OSB) and other lumber derailed just north of Latchford.

“After some phone calls with (Ontario Northland Railway) personnel, the Town of Latchford Fire Department was given the salvage rights, giving the fire department the funding boost it needed,” said Beaupre.

With the funds from the sale of the OSB and lumber totalling $75,441 and with a $35,000 donation from the Latchford Volunteer Firefighters’ Association, the department was now good to go ahead with the expansion project.

The concrete pad was poured this spring and the construction was carried out over the summer months.

Beaupre said that if all went well with the project the fire department would be able to move into the new hall this fall.

Lemonade sales generated a $160 donation from nine-year-old Cassie Williams, at left, to the Pavilion Women’s Centre in Haileybury. “The young leader said that her goal was to help people who have no home or nowhere safe to go,” said Pavilion executive director Melanie Ducharme, right, in a news release. Williams has also raised funds for Temiskaming Hospital and Zack’s Crib. The Pavilion extended “a big thank you” to Cassie and also her mother for supporting “this young girl with big ideas and a big heart,” Ducharme said. (Supplied Photo)

Temagami water projects delayed until next spring

By Jamie Mountain
Local Journalism Initiative Reporter

TEMAGAMI – Work to repair Temagami’s water towers has been delayed until the spring of 2021.

Each year, the Ontario Clean Water Agency (OCWA) provides recommendations regarding capital repairs to Temagami’s water and wastewater systems.

With the amended Environmental Compliance Approval being approved by the Ministry of the Environment Conservation and Parks, the municipality is required to have its ultraviolet filtration system operational by April 30, 2025.

There are also repairs needed at both the north and south water towers, which brings the municipality up to a cost of $1,650,000.

The repairs were originally expected to be carried out in October, but in his report to council at their September 17 regular meeting, treasurer-administrator Craig Davidson said that they now will be completed next spring.

“OCWA has brought in another company to review Landmark Municipal Services’ reports and they’re doing a couple of comments and they did a brief site visit and one of the first comments they had is if we’re looking at an October time for the (repair) job, that it might not give enough time to when we have freeze-up,” Davidson explained.

“The present plan now is to spend some time this fall and early winter to make sure that we are looking at the work that needs to be done and then complete it in the spring. That way, the paint has more time to cure inside the towers. Where the paint was bubbling, this company said that probably last time there wasn’t enough time for the paint to cure before it got refilled, so that’s why it was blistering.”

LONG-TERM DEBT APPROVED

In the absence of external funding or the acquisition of long-term debt, some of the repair projects were beyond the ability of Temagami’s water and wastewater systems to pay.

Council agreed at their August 6 meeting for the municipality to apply for long-term debt through Infrastructure Ontario, which Davidson said at the Sept. 17 meeting had been approved.

But prior to any debt being accessed, Davidson noted that there will need to be a bylaw considered by council.

“There will be a bylaw (that council will have to pass) at some point in time, but we don’t need to look at a bylaw until we’re going to be requesting advances in the money,” he said.

“It hasn’t left the radar screen, it’s just now if we’re not going to be doing the water towers next month, we don’t necessarily have to pass the by-law but we do have the approval in place.”

Rolling along in style with the Cruisers

Darlene Wroe

Speaker Reporter

ENGLEHART - Throughout the pandemic, hobbies have helped people stay happy and involved while passing the days.

One of the hobbies that keeps many area people interested and contentedly puttering away or rolling along the streets is that of classic, antique or special interest vehicles.

The local Road Legends Cruisers is the organization to be part of if this is your hobby.

Organizer Reg Perron and his wife Mary have been organizing this local group for the past ten years and, prior to this, in Oshawa when they lived there.

One of their final cruises of the year took place September 17 and approximately two dozen unique vehicles were gathered in the parking lot of the Old Towne Inn in Evanturel Township Thursday evening.

The convivial atmosphere saw many enthusiastic conversations spring up among owners and spectators about the vehicles and related topics.

It’s not as many as the Perrons saw when they were organizing the event in Oshawa between 1983 and 2010, where 350 to 500 vehicles would show up on a Sunday night, but a local event still can fill the parking lot at the Old Towne Inn.

The organization also raises money for local youth slo-pitch through its 50/50 draw.

Sponsors also help the organization with its costs.

“There’s no charge to anybody,” said Reg Perron. “It’s all free - the spectators and the people with their cars.”

It’s been difficult in this year of the pandemic to bring people together.

“We only had three cruise nights this year because of COVID-19,” said Perron, and all the main events have been postponed until 2021.

But there still has been plenty of opportunity to get out, show off the cars, and enjoy some interesting discussions with like-minded people.

The parking lot was an array of colour as owners lined up their vehicles.

Perron had brought his 1984 Dodge Rampage, a car that was only made from 1982-84. He purchased his from Medicine Hat, Alberta, and he said the car is “totally rust free.” It has had a paint job, helping to preserve it from the same fate as most other Dodge Rampage cars.

“The interior is all original,” noted Perron. His favourite features of the four-cylinder front-wheel drive car is that it is “cheap on gas and everybody looks. They don’t know what it is. They’ve never seen it because there aren’t that many around.”

Another local enthusiast is Mario Cormier of Thornloe. He owns a 1975 Dart Swinger, a 1971 Charger, a Z28 Camaro, a 1971 Challenger and a 1971 Duster.

His first car, actually under his father’s name, was a 1968 Dodge Monaco.

“It’s a passion I always have had,” he said.

His ’75 Swinger is the one he likes to take to car shows, he said. Cormier enjoys the vehicle for its handling and driving. He also likes the colour. Each of his cars is a bright colour, he noted.

Cormier said he has always had a passion for fixing cars, and has also worked on some of the other vehicles which were displayed in the parking lot.

The cruise nights attract people from across the district.

Jean Gagnon of Kirkland Lake brought his 1978 Chevrolet Nova to show. He restored it himself, he said, along with the interior.

“I do upholstery as a hobby,” he commented. He had other cars in the past but while he has let some go he has kept his Chevrolet Nova.

“You keep the baby,” he said. “I had it a long time and I just like the look of it. It drives down the road just like a new car.”

Parents staying positive in early days of school

Sue Nielsen
Speaker Reporter

DISTRICT — As teachers and students headed back to school last week, there were mixed feelings about safety and security due to the COVID-19 pandemic.

“Personally, I think the return to school plan has gone fairly well,” said New Liskeard parent Chuck Durrant.

Cobalt parent Shannie Christo said her daughter Irelyn is happy to be back in class in Grade 6 at St. Patrick School.

“She said she was very happy to be back. She missed her friends a lot. Wearing the mask hasn’t seemed to bother her. So overall, it’s been successful for her and hoping it stays that way.”

Ontario was the first province to shut down schools last March as a precautionary measure due to the COVID-19 pandemic.

A substantial number of parents have opted for virtual learning.

Elementary school students who have returned to classes have seen class sizes unchanged and some high school students will follow with a hybrid model of in-class and online learning available.

Durrant believes the back-to-school process has been good for his daughter Brynn who is in Grade 10 at Timiskaming District Secondary School.

However, he has concerns about busing and overcrowding.

“It will be interesting to see how the Octomester system is going to work out for the majority of high school students.”

Such a system would see students take one subject all day for up to 20 days.

“I think some will flourish and others will flounder under the compressed system,” said Durrant.

“My main worry for students of this area is busing.... We’re lucky that our daughter’s school is on the way to work. But I feel that buses will have no choice but to be overcrowded,” he said.

“As the year goes on and we head into cold and flu season and the second wave, it will be interesting to see how robust the safety measures put in place actually are. We have been fortunate to have so few cases so far. But always in the back of my mind, is that it takes one person not following protocols to cause our area to become a hot spot. I’m hoping it doesn’t begin in a classroom.”

NORMALCY

Parent Jamie Lindsay believes the staff at New Liskeard Public School (NLPS) are doing their best under some challenging circumstances where her son Gerard is in Grade 3.

“As far as NLPS is concerned, the staff have been wonderful. They’re trying their best to monitor the students, schedule their day and still follow protocols surrounding COVID-19,” said Lindsay.

“Gerard came home on day one and although he was incredibly nervous to go back, he had a great day. They’re doing their best to keep us parents informed. They are respectful of all of us approaching them with our concerns at varying standpoints on the return to school,” she explained.

But she hasn’t had issues so far with how it has all gone for her son.

“I’m happy with everything so far. District School Board Ontario North East has some dedicated educators and staff in their roster. I’m grateful for all of the individuals that make Gerard’s day any easier. It’s a whole new world for everyone behind those doors.”

She believes the school year will resemble a roller coaster ride in that children will be sent home if they are exhibiting any symptoms of COVID-19.

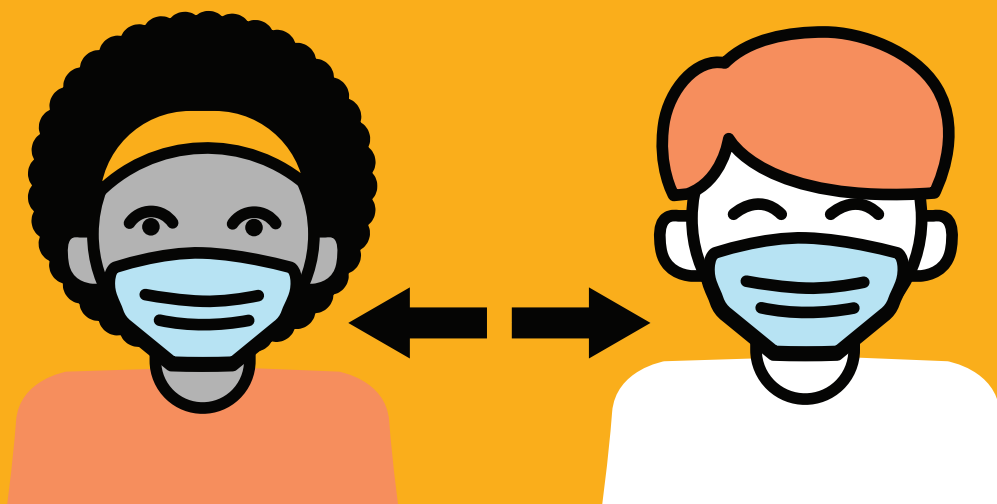

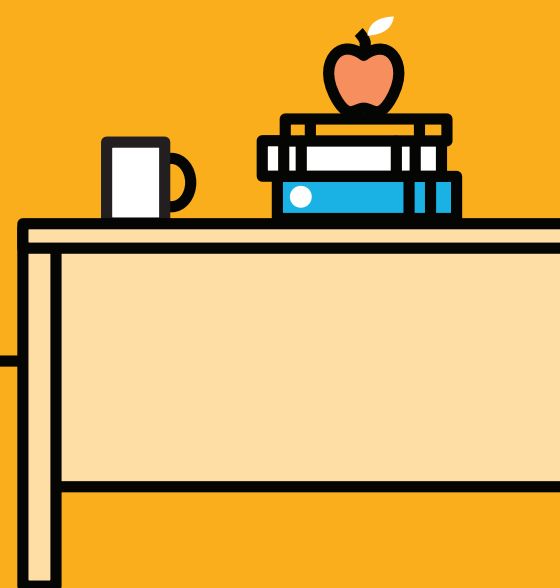

“Obviously a necessary precaution but a hurdle for the parents for sure. We take it day by day. Any shred of normalcy we can extend to our kids right now, I’ll take it. School being one of them.”

She is hopeful the rest of the school year will be a positive experience for her and her son.

Reopening schools safely matters to everyone

That's why the government of Ontario has worked with health officials, school boards and educators to develop a comprehensive plan to keep kids and staff safe.

- Physical distancing measures will be implemented such as desk separation, signs, floor markings and one-way hallways.
- Face coverings will be required for staff and students in Grades 4-12.
- Hand hygiene will be enabled with hand sanitizer and hand washing.
- More nurses will be in schools.
- School cleaning will be enhanced.

FedNor support announced for Northern ag

DISTRICT (Staff/Special) – A Temiskaming agribusiness is among the recipients of FedNor support to Northern Ontario’s agricultural sector. A repayable contribution of $420,000 was recently announced for Reliable Elevators in Harley Township to purchase and install a high-capacity grain handler dryer. In a news release, FedNor said the equipment will respond to consumer demand in the Earlton and New Liskeard areas while enhancing yield quality, increasing exports, and creating jobs. Collège Boréal was also awarded FedNor funding for crops research. It will receive $363,170 to hire an agronomist and agricultural technologist for a three-year period to assist with projects developing and selecting plant varieties suited to Northern Ontario’s climate. The Town of Cochrane received almost $661,000 for construction of a grain handling and storage facility to support expansion of the district’s agricultural sector. They were among 13 agriculture-related projects across the North that are getting more than $3 million from the federal regional economic development initiative. “The well-being of all Canadians – physically, socially and economically – begins with a safe food supply,” said Mélanie Joly, the minister responsible for FedNor, in a news release. “Northern Ontario’s farmers and agri-food businesses are essential to this, and we’re here for them. “These important measures will help them scale up and support good jobs by improving productivity, increasing yields and ensuring the security of the safe, nutritious food supply we all rely on.”
