There were a handful of very interested children with their mothers at Open Studio Libre in Haileybury September 25, as they participated in the first Paint Patrol event. A combined effort between the Healthy Kids program through the City of Temiskaming Shores and the Temiskaming Art Gallery, Friday's event focused on creating cards for seniors. Health Unit sees COVID cases rise by two

Darlene Wroe
Speaker Reporter

DISTRICT - The Temiskaming Health Unit says that it was contacted September 29 about two positive cases of COVID-19 from individuals currently living outside of the district.

Their cases have been added to the local case count. The health unit states in the press release "although both of these individuals currently have home addresses in the Temiskaming district, they are currently out of the area and have not been in our district for some time. There was no risk of local exposure from these two cases. The two cases do not have an epidemiological link between them and both are contacts of known positive cases."

The total cases for the Temiskaming district now sits at 18, the health unit added. The previous 16 cases have now been resolved.

"We must continue to closely follow all public health measures and provincial orders," said Acting Medical Officer of Health Dr. Glenn Corneil in the press release. The guidelines are to: limit your immediate social circle to a maximum of 10 people and keep the same 10 people in it; wear a mask or face covering in public spaces and when six feet of distancing between people who are not in your immediate social circle is not possible; limit private gatherings to a maximum of 10 people indoors and 25 outdoors, as ordered by the province of Ontario; wash your hands often and/or use alcohol-based hand sanitizers.

The health unit said, "group gatherings continue to be a source of local concern. You must limit your number of close contacts and follow the province's updated guidelines on gatherings. People who host a gathering in excess of these maximums may be subject to fines up to $10,000."

One-time funding announced for THU

Diane Johnston
 Speaker Reporter

TEMISKAMING SHORES – The province has announced additional funding for the Timiskaming Health Unit of more than $600,000 for this year and again next year.

That should offset the increased costs that municipalities will face for public health services as the funding formula switches, said Carman Kidd, the mayor of Temiskaming Shores and chair of the Timiskaming Board of Health.

But in an interview earlier this month, he anticipated that municipalities will be asked to shoulder those costs in the future.

The province is changing the way public health costs are shared. In the past, it has covered the full cost of some programs provided by health units. Municipalities paid 25 per cent of mandatory programs' costs.

Beginning this year, municipalities are paying 30 per cent of most program costs.

This province recently notified Kidd that it would provide $636,400 in one-time funding in 2020-21 to avoid increases in what Temiskaming municipalities must pay.

In 2021-22, that'll drop slightly to $600,500.

The province has also launched a review of public health organization in Ontario.

At one time, it proposed consolidating the province's 35 existing health units into 10.

But it shelved that proposal as it began consultations on the modernization of Ontario's public health system.

No decisions have been announced, and the province and public health sector has been focused on managing the COVID-19 pandemic.

In a recent letter to Kidd, Health Minister and Deputy Premier Christine Elliott said an additional $100 million has been earmarked for the public health sector's response to COVID-19.

Elliott said the ministry will be initiating a process for health units to request reimbursement of one-time extraordinary costs.

At the Timiskaming Health Unit, Kidd said it has incurred extra costs, for example, to trace contacts of COVID-19 cases.

Owl banding now underway

HILLIARD TOWNSHIP (Staff) - It's that time of year for capturing and banding owls as they make their way across the boreal forest.

For years, the Hilliardton Marsh Research and Education Centre has been capturing and banding owls during the cool dark fall nights.

"The best nights are when there's no moon and it's cold," says head bander Bruce Murphy.

The rainy weather occurring around this time means there will be no owl banding on those nights, but the activities of the Marsh proceed when conditions are favourable.

Due to the pandemic, the Marsh has been closed to the public, but has been holding private nights where ten guests are allowed at a time. Bookings have been necessary, and the entire season is booked solid now.

The popular site, important in its bird banding activities, has had to ride out the restrictions of the pandemic along with other organizations.

But the owl banding is expected to continue into late October.

Health Unit sees COVID cases rise by two

In a follow-up telephone interview, Corneil said the health unit continues to be "concerned about hearing reports of large gatherings." He said that while "there are ongoing rumours in the community, at the present time we have no public statement on a case that is linked at all to that party. Our investigation is ongoing.

"For people who are concerned, the number one message is that we cannot gather in gatherings like this. It is just too dangerous for the people at the party and it is too dangerous for our community. That is the number one message.

"The number two message is that the health unit is frequently investigating potential cases and we are actively engaged with anybody who is regarded as a high risk contact. If you have not been called directly by public health you have not been deemed to be a high risk contact.

"There's a lot of discussion from this party and we are actively investigating it and we have been in contact with anybody who is a high risk contact.

"We are always actively involved in contact tracing of cases that come in or out of the district."

If a person thinks "they've had contact with somebody who is positive and they're symptomatic they need to isolate and get immediately tested," he said.

"Only those people who we say are a high risk contact will qualify for an asymptomatic test. If you haven't heard from us, you do not need to undergo asymptomatic testing because you don't qualify for it based on what makes a high risk contact. A high risk contact comes out of the period of contagiousness and the level of contact."

Corneil added, though, "there are always low risk contacts. If somebody is symptomatic and they are concerned, they absolutely need to be tested."

The health unit asks people to consider downloading Canada's COVID-alert app as this can help you know if you have been in close contact with a positive case (<https://www.canada.ca/en/public-health/services/diseases/coronavirus-disease-covid-19/covid-alert.html>).

New welcome signs approved for Earlington

By Jamie Mountain
Local Journalism Initiative Reporter

EARLTON – Earlington will be getting new municipal welcome signs.

The old signs were becoming faded and worn and Armstrong Township wanted to replace them ahead of its Centennial celebrations next year.

At the September 23 regular meeting, council approved the purchase of two signs from Northern Signs.

The signs are eight-foot by eight-foot reflective billboards, each costing $1,450 that will sit atop a two-structure frame. The frames cost $750 apiece.

“The total (for the project) would be $4,400 before HST,” Mayor Jean Marc Boileau, who also sits on the Centennial Committee, told council.

An installation date is still to be determined, he noted.

STOP SIGNS APPROVED

Also at the Sept. 23 meeting, council approved a bylaw to erect stop signs at the intersection of 10th Street West and Sixth Avenue.

There were speeding concerns in that area of Earlington with cars entering and leaving the town and council feels the best option to combat the issue is to install stop signs.

Youth committee can influence council

By Jamie Mountain
Local Journalism Initiative Reporter

TEMAGAMI – The municipality of Temagami is now accepting applications for its 2021-2022 youth advisory committee.

The purpose of the committee is to provide youth-centric advice, opinion, or options to council on matters important to young people in Temagami.

The committee will also consider assuming responsibility for certain events and activities in the community, which will be discussed with council, at least annually, and in conjunction with the Recreation and Events Committee previously established by council.

Members of the committee will receive training in various leadership areas, learn new job and life skills, learn about council and local governance, establish new personal and professional networks, gain valuable experience to build a resume and a sense of accomplishment by making a difference in the community.

Anyone between the ages of 14 and 25 interested in joining the committee can fill out an application on Temagami’s webpage at https://www.temagami.ca/UserFiles/Servers/Server_12703011/File/WHAT’S%20NEW/Committee%20Application%20Form%20.pdf.

To apply, submit your application no later than 4 p.m. Thursday, November 31, to Sarah Goodyear, Office Assistant, Municipality of Temagami, 7 Lakeshore Drive, P.O. Box 220 Temagami, Ontario, P0H 2H0.

You can also reach her at 705-569-3421 or by fax at 705-569-2834. Her email is sarah.g@temagami.ca.

Osteoporosis and Bone Mineral Density Testing

It’s a condition that causes bones to become thin and porous, decreasing bone strength and leading to broken bones, especially the hip, spine, wrist and shoulder. Osteoporosis is sometimes confused with osteoarthritis. Just to be clear, osteoporosis is a bone disease and osteoarthritis is a disease of the joints and surrounding tissue.

Fast Facts:

- Osteoporosis can strike at any age and affects both men and women
- Building strong bones during childhood and adolescence can be the best defence against developing osteoporosis later in life
- Both men and women begin to lose bone in their mid 30s. As they approach menopause, women lose bone at a greater rate, from 2-3% per year
- At least 1 in 3 women and 1 in 5 men will suffer from an osteoporotic fracture during their lifetime
- Over 80% of all fractures in people 50+ are caused by osteoporosis

Testing

Bone Mineral Density (BMD) testing is very important. This test is safe, painless and accurately measures the density of your bones. A BMD test can tell you whether or not you have osteoporosis and how likely you are to develop it in the future. It can help you to make decisions that may prevent fractures or further bone loss.

Who Should Get a BMD test?

- all women and men 65 years or older
- postmenopausal women and men 50-64 with risk factors for fracture including:
 - low bone mass identified on x-ray
 - parental hip fracture
 - high alcohol intake
 - current smoker
 - low body weight, i.e. less than 132 lbs or 60 kg
 - rheumatoid arthritis
- younger men or women (under 50) with a disease or condition associated with low bone mass or bone loss:
 - high risk medication (steroid use, aromatase inhibitors, androgen deprivation therapy)
 - uncontrolled hyperthyroidism
 - early menopause (younger than 45)

For more information about osteoporosis, go to the Osteoporosis Canada website at www.osteoporosis.ca. If you fall into any of the groups listed above, please schedule an appointment with your primary care provider to discuss BMD testing.

EDITORIAL

Second wave

Unfortunately, it seems Ontario and Quebec are experiencing a second wave of coronavirus infections.

Quebec reported the highest increases in daily reported cases of 896 and Ontario followed suit with 491 new cases this week.

Ontario Health Minister Christine Elliott reported that 63 per cent of the new cases were from people aged 40 and under.

The new cases are centralized in Southern Ontario and as of last Sunday, the death toll for the province of Ontario is at 2,893.

Meanwhile in our region, we have seen a drop in reported cases from the previous 19 down to 16 infections overall as revealed by the Timiskaming Health Unit this week, though that number is itself being revised.

This local number is admirable and shows how committed the people of this region are to containing the virus by following public health guidelines.

Those practical guidelines include washing your hands, social distancing and wearing masks.

However, we are seeing more and more people choosing not to wear masks in our communities, which is cause for concern.

When we all work together to protect each other by following public health guidelines, we see infection rates remaining low.

Teachable moments

We are now months into the COVID-19 pandemic, and life goes on.

Adapting to the restrictions of the pandemic have now become routine - wash your hands over and over again, put your mask on and stay a hockey stick-length away from others when indoors.

At this time of year I try to squeeze every last ounce of outside time as we all know what's cruising around the bend.

This means I am not watching a whole heck of a lot of television.

But it was a rainy, grey day when I decided to check out the latest offerings from Netflix.

It was an absolute delight when I viewed the 85-minute documentary called My Octopus Teacher.

It was right up my alley - nature and science based - so I dove right in.

What a brilliant film.

It documents film producer Craig Foster's yearlong obsession with an octopus he visits in a kelp forest just off the coast of Cape Town, South Africa.

The underwater kelp forests are places he explored as a young boy.

He learns where her den is located and he visits with her on a daily basis letting the creature touch him and follow him about.

What Foster learned about the octopus was mind-blowing in that this sea creature could out-smart a predatory pajama shark.

At one point a shark attacks her and bites off her arm, but she goes deep inside her den and eventually the arm grows back.

And miraculously, when pursued closely by the shark, she leaps out of the water and escapes on land.

The creature has an intelligence that is beyond belief.

This unusual and unique friendship has positive consequences for Foster who is dealing with a dark depression.

He has a young son and is looking for ways to reconnect with his family and regain his passion for life.

I won't tell you all the details of the film, but suffice to say, it is a must see.

The cinematography is amazingly beautiful and the storyline will see you tearing up by the time the ending arrives.

This film is educational as

well as beautiful as a man connects with the natural world and finds himself.

Isn't that what many of us have been doing since the pandemic, going to nature for solace and comfort and perhaps answers to our own personal issues?

A Ministry of Natural Resources and Forestry worker at the Marten River old growth trails told me park usage exploded this summer.

Sir David Attenborough rightly said, "We have discovered nature during the pandemic for our sanity."

Have a wonderful week everyone!

“Service You Deserve, People You Can Trust.”

“Serve Up Fire Safety in the Kitchen!™”

Fire Prevention Week runs from October 4-10, 2020

With Fire Prevention Week just around the corner, the Temiskaming Shores Fire Department is urging everyone in Temiskaming Shores and the surrounding area to take some simple steps to prevent kitchen fires in their home.

This year's theme of Fire Prevention Week, which runs from October 4-10, is "Serve Up Fire Safety in the Kitchen!™"

The theme is very timely as cooking fires continue to be the leading cause of home fires in Ontario. It focuses on the prevention of cooking fires and staying fire safe in the kitchen.

Simple steps to serve up fire safety in the kitchen include:

- Always stay in the kitchen when cooking and turn off the stove if you must leave the kitchen .
- Keep a proper fitting lid near the stove. If a pot of oil catches fire, slide the lid over the pot and turn off the stove. Do not move the pot. Never throw water on a burning pot.
- Keep anything that burns - plastic utensils, dishcloths, paper towels - a safe distance from the stove.
- Cook responsibly. To prevent cooking fires, you must be alert . You will not be alert if you have consumed alcohol or drugs .
- Wear tight-fitting or rolled up sleeves when using the stove. Loose, dangling clothing can easily catch fire.
- Keep young kids one metre away from the stove. Turn pot handles away from the stove's edge so they can't be easily knocked off.
- If you burn yourself while cooking, run cool water over the wound for three to five minutes. If the burn is severe, seek medical attention.

"Often when we're called to a fire that started in the kitchen, the residents tell us they only left the kitchen for a few minutes. But that's all it takes for a dangerous fire to start. Help keep our community safe by preventing fires from starting in the first place ." - Fire Chief, Steve Langford

Beaverhouse First Nation

By Xavier Kataquapit

KIRKLAND LAKE - Beaverhouse First Nation youths took part in the 14th Annual Wabun Youth Gathering in August at the community's Dorothy Lake traditional grounds near Kirkland Lake. The gathering brought together several local youths over a two-day event to take part in sharing lessons and stories with elders, craft making and games.

The annual Wabun Youth Gathering is normally held every summer as a large event that brings together many youths from several participating Wabun First Nations. Due to the ongoing pandemic, this year's event was held in multiple stages in the Wabun territory with a new reduced format to protect youth and participants.

"Thanks to our staff at Wabun Health, our executive director Jason Batisse, our Chiefs and Beaverhouse leadership we managed to continue with Wabun Youth Gathering in a limited way during this pandemic," commented Jean Lemieux, Wabun health director.

Normally, Wabun Health hosts the events at a central gathering for two different age groups every summer but due to the requirements of physical distancing, keeping gatherings to a minimal size and favouring outdoor activities, the format of this year's gathering was changed. The organizers instead opted for hosting several smaller gatherings in Wabun's member communities.

Organizers instituted the wearing of masks or face coverings, maintaining physical distancing as much and as often as possible, spacing everyone six feet apart during all activities and encouraging and teaching youth to regularly wash hands and use hand sanitizer.

ANNUAL TRADITION

"It's important for us to continue this annual tradition in order for us to maintain that connection to our young people and to show we are still here for them, even with all these restrictions in place," explained Faye Naveau, regional crisis coordinator for Wabun Health Services.

The events were headed by Naveau and Debbie Proulx-Buffalo, mental well-ness coordinator, Wabun Health with the assistance of Wabun Health staff in Timmins. The annual event brings together Indigenous youth from the Wabun Tribal Council First Nations in Northeastern Ontario to provide educational workshops on culture, heritage, outdoor activities as well as presentations on mental health and wellness. This year's event welcomed youth to take part in soapstone carving activities as well as sharing in personal teachings and storytelling from elders and presenters. Naveau explained that the event was also an opportunity for everyone to speak and share their stories, thoughts and feelings in a safe environment.

Beaverhouse FN has participated in every annual event for the past 14 years and has seen several of their community youth graduate from the event to become adult chaperones who are now volunteering at the gathering.

"Our youth have taken part in these gatherings for several years now and we are seeing the results of the positive effects on them. These gatherings have allowed our young people to celebrate their culture as well as connect with other Indigenous youth they can relate to and share their lives with. We are grateful that Wabun provides this event every year and now with the changes that have happened with the pandemic it is even more special to see that they are still able to help our young people," said Chief Wayne Wabie, Brunswick House FN.

HERITAGE

Beaverhouse FN youth came together for the two-day event to be with family, friends and elders to learn about their heritage.

"It feels good to learn about our Native culture and our language. Thanks to everyone for having this event for all of us," said 13-year-old Madison Batisse.

Traditional teachings and history were provided by Beaverhouse FN elders Burt and Darquise McKenzie. Burt McKenzie has been involved in his community development for many years and once served as council member for the First Nation.

"It's important to have these events because it allows us to teach our youth about their past, their history, their heritage and their language. I grew up learning about the culture and our language and it felt good to have an opportunity to share that history with these young people," said McKenzie.

The organizers were assisted by local First Nation staff and volunteers including Hunter Lemay, Taylor McMillan and Nathaniel Tinny.

"It was fun to be part of the gathering growing up and now it is exciting and special to be taking part as a chaperone. It makes me feel good to connect with others every year at this gathering," said McMillan.

The Wabun Youth Gathering originated through the vision and dream of Wabun elder Thomas Saunders of Brunswick House who lobbied for a youth gathering. Saunders died before his dream came to be, but his legacy lives on.

Wabun Tribal Council is a regional territorial organization which represents the six First Nation communities of Beaverhouse, Brunswick House, Chapleau Ojibwe, Flying Post, Matachewan and Mattagami in Northeastern Ontario and it is directed by its respective chiefs.

WE DON'T BREW OUR BEER FOR THE AWARDS.

BUT HE DOES!

Our brewmaster, Andrew Kohnen, threw away a successful career in logistics to pursue his dream of reconnecting with the brewing roots of his family. This carried him to the UK's prestigious Brewlab in Sunderland, England, where he procured the alchemy that would drive his signature brewing style.

He took what he could from there and ventured to Scotland, Cornwall, and ultimately to Krefeld, Germany, working in the same brewery that had belonged to his ancestors. He came home to Canada for Hockley.

You could call it dumb, but we call it destiny.
