Darlene Wroe
Speaker Reporter

COBALT - Cobalt's liaison to the Cobalt Historical Society is warning that the Town of Cobalt and the Township of Coleman need to intensify efforts to protect the future of the Heritage Silver Trail.

Cobalt Councillor Pat Anderson spoke at the town's regular council meeting September 21 and advised that there is a need to focus on the trail's future.

The Heritage Silver Trail runs through the Town of Cobalt and Coleman Township spanning many kilometres and featuring a number of historic sites relating to the history of the Cobalt Mining Camp.

Several standing headframes, buildings, open cuts, adits, foundations and the iconic Nipissing lookout are featured at approximately 20 sites

Area Catholics enjoyed a time of gathering, stories, songs and worship in Haileybury on September 11 marking the Feast of the Holy Name of Mary at the Marian grotto. Feast day celebrated with waterfront and grotto gathering HAILEYBURY (Staff) - About 80 members of the Catholic Church marked the Feast of the Holy Name of Mary at the Marian grotto in Haileybury September 11.

They gathered at the Haileybury Waterfront Pavilion, then proceeded to the grotto near Holy Cross Church.

They were there to mark the Feast of the Holy Name of Mary held annually in the Timmins Diocese, with celebrations alternated from year to year between Timmins and Timiskaming Shores. The south end of the Diocese was the scene of this year's gathering of congregation members who have been separated because of the pandemic. The event featured stories, songs and a mass at the church. Timmins Diocese Bishop Monseigneur Serge Poitras was in attendance, as were Sisters from the diocese and also members of the Knights of Columbus, along with parishioners.

Children stepped forward to light candles at the grotto and later distributed rosaries among the gathering.

Knights of Columbus member Jean-Pierre Rivet, also a local historian, shared the history of the grotto which was constructed in 1952, initiated by the Soeurs de l'Assomption and modelled after the Lourdes grotto.

October is Occupational Therapy Month

What is Occupational Therapy?

Occupational therapy is a type of health care that helps to solve the problems that interfere with a person's ability to do the things that are important to them.

An Occupational Therapist (OT) may check:

- Your physical abilities like strength, balance and coordination
- Your mental abilities like memory, coping strategies, organizational skills
- What materials or devices you use to participate in activities like furniture, utensils, tools or clothes
- What social and emotional support is available to you at home, school, work or in the community, and
- The physical setup of your house, classroom, workplace or other environment

Depending on the problem, the OT can help you solve it by:

1. Helping you overcome your disability. OTs do this by:
 - educating or instructing you on how to do things with the abilities you have - e.g. getting around your community in a wheelchair
 - suggesting activities that will help you improve or maintain the abilities you have - e.g. improving your coping strategies
2. Adapting the materials you use. OTs do this by changing the things you use:
 - around the house – e.g. a special key holder to make turning keys easier
 - in sports or leisure activities – e.g. a playing cards holder
 - at work or school – e.g. special tools that help prevent injury to hands and back
 - to take care of yourself – e.g. special bath or toilet seats
 - to get from place to place – e.g. car modifications such as one-handed steering wheels
3. Recommending changes to the environments where you do your everyday activities. OTs do this by recommending that you:
 - change the physical layout of your workplace, home or school – e.g. lowering/raising desktops, countertops or cupboards
 - find out about the supports in your community – e.g. specialized public transportation
 - work with the people in your community – e.g. providing education about a disability to the teacher or employer
 - work with the government to encourage health living – e.g. request funding for special equipment

For more information, go to <https://www.caot.ca/site/aboutot>. If you are a patient of the Temagami FHT and would like to see our Occupational Therapist, please call (705) 569-3244 to schedule an appointment.

EDITORIAL

Look in the mirror

The federal election is now in the rear view mirror, but many voters and politicians alike may need a few days to reflect on what this election means for the country.

Post election we know the Liberals were returned to power and in The Speaker's coverage area, both incumbent MPs – the NDP's Charlie Angus and Liberal Anthony Rota - will head back to Ottawa.

It appeared that in many instances the federal campaign focused on personalities and a name-calling, bad behaviour agenda.

The ugly underbelly of the election revealed a side of Canadian politics that we do not want to ever see again.

Online posts ramped up a divisive, fiction-over-facts narrative that left reality sitting on the sidelines.

The mud and gravel thrown during the campaign has stained the good and decent process of Canadian politics.

Perhaps the Liberals and Justin Trudeau took most of the mud and a bit of gravel as well, but the ugly vitriol expressed by more than a few about the election and the pandemic is cause for concern.

We hold politicians to account for their words and actions, but we must also look at the accountability mirror ourselves as we all wish moving forward to have a nation of peace, order and good will bringing people together rather than alienating them.

There was a level of anger and cruelty during the election that many of us don't recognize as our style of politics and we hope we never see again.

Vitriol, gravel tossing, personal insults and nasty partisanship does not look good on anyone at any time.

May we always know the joy and gratitude of living in a free and democratic country like Canada.

Pièce de résistance

Sue Nielsen

Fall has arrived in the Temiskaming region.

I am still canoeing and swimming, but the water is getting a bit cool on my exposed body parts.

While I admit fall is not my favourite season, I do love it all the same.

The crisp air, the incredible colours all make for a photographic smorgasbord.

Autumn is now official on the calendar.

I am looking forward to getting out to view the fall colours.

Seeing the maples and poplars turn first is always wonderful, but I love it when the leaves drop and the ground is covered in a bright red, yellow and orange leaf carpet.

The final show is the golden tamaracks.

Take a deep breath, slow down with me and let's absorb every moment of autumn as it blazes across the region.

I'm hoping to encounter wildlife as I travel around the region. I take photos of wildlife with the longest lens possible for a couple of reasons.

A long lens provides me with the best view of the animal, but it also allows me to keep my distance.

Wild animals deserve the respect of humans from a distance. It is required for the safety of all and at this time of year. We know moose are in the rut stage and have one thing on their mind.

Lately, I sit in my canoe watching the sunset waiting for the wild geese to fly overhead.

They travel at night when there are fewer predators and they can navigate by the earth's magnetic field.

I usually hear them honking long before they come into sight.

A huge flock flew past that large orange harvest moon we had last week and it was incredibly beautiful.

The geese remind me of the Mary Oliver poem called Wild Geese.

Her words inspire me: "You do not have to be good. You do not have to walk on your knees for a hundred miles through the desert repenting. You only have to let the soft animal of your body love what it loves. Tell me about despair, yours, and I will tell you mine...."

Meanwhile the wild geese high in the clean blue air are heading home."

I feel the poem sums up what we've experienced during the pandemic after a year of chronic sucker punches.

You know what got me through the year so far? My canoe, a northern lake, friends, reading obits (yes, they are mini-memoirs), poutine at The Fry Pit, sunsets on Bass Lake and a sighting of a yellow rumped warbler outside my office window.

I wish to give thanks for all I have learned about the residential school experience, the Indian Act, the Sixties Scoop and other Indigenous issues through the books I have read.

And of course the ultimate pièce de résistance of my life is my daughter and her husband. I wish they lived a bit closer.

Have a terrific week everyone!

October is Dress for the Cause month

DISTRICT (Special) - The Breast Cancer Society of Canada's (BCSC) annual Dress for the Cause campaign is underway.

The society also has a new Pin Your Pink Ribbon initiative.

Both campaigns are running nationally throughout October in honour of Breast Cancer Awareness Month.

Driven by their vision to end breast cancer, the BCSC has funded groundbreaking research in Canada since 1991. In 1998, Dress for the Cause was established to help get Canadian companies, schools, and organizations involved in the cause. Since the inception of Dress for the Cause, participation has grown to over 60,000 people annually and overall funds raised to date are just over $10 million.

For 2021, BCSC has introduced the Pin Your Pink Ribbon as a new way for participants to Dress for the Cause:

"Whether you buy a pink ribbon from a participating retailer to pin on your clothes or create and download a personalized digital ribbon, you can help support life-saving breast cancer research," says Kimberly Carson, CEO of the Breast Cancer Society of Canada.

"Everyone knows someone who has been affected by breast cancer. We invite all Canadians to Dress for the Cause and Pin Your Pink during International Breast Cancer Awareness Month."

Sparky the Fire Dog turns 70

Did you know that Sparky the Fire Dog has been the official mascot of the National Fire Protection Association for the last 70 years? In honour of this milestone birthday, here are seven important lessons about fire safety for kids that Sparky has taught during his many years of service.

1. Smoke alarms save lives. Since this beeping device lets you know if there's a fire, every home needs working smoke alarms on every floor and near each bedroom.
2. Get outside, stay outside. If you hear a smoke alarm, you must immediately stop what you're doing and find the safest and quickest way out of the house.
3. Practise fire drills at home. Families should review where the exits are in each room and where the outside meeting place is at least twice a year.

This year, Fire Prevention Week takes place from October 3 to 9.

The theme for this year's event is Learn the Sounds of Fire Safety, which aims to better educate the public about the sounds smoke alarms make, what those sounds mean and how to respond to them.

It's been proven -
SMOKE DETECTORS SAVE LIVES!

4. Report an emergency. If you see a fire, hear a smoke alarm or know that someone is seriously hurt, call 911. Be sure to tell them what and where the emergency is.
5. Stay away from hot things. This can include bath water, a stove, soup, matches, a fireplace and lighters. If you're not sure if something is hot, check with a grown-up.
6. Follow the one-metre rule. There should be a kid-free zone around stoves, space heaters and other hot devices. Anything that can burn should also be kept one metre away.
7. Know when to stop, drop and roll. If your clothes catch fire, stop, drop to the ground (remember to cover your face with your hands) and roll over until the flames are out.

WE DON'T BREW OUR BEER FOR THE AWARDS.

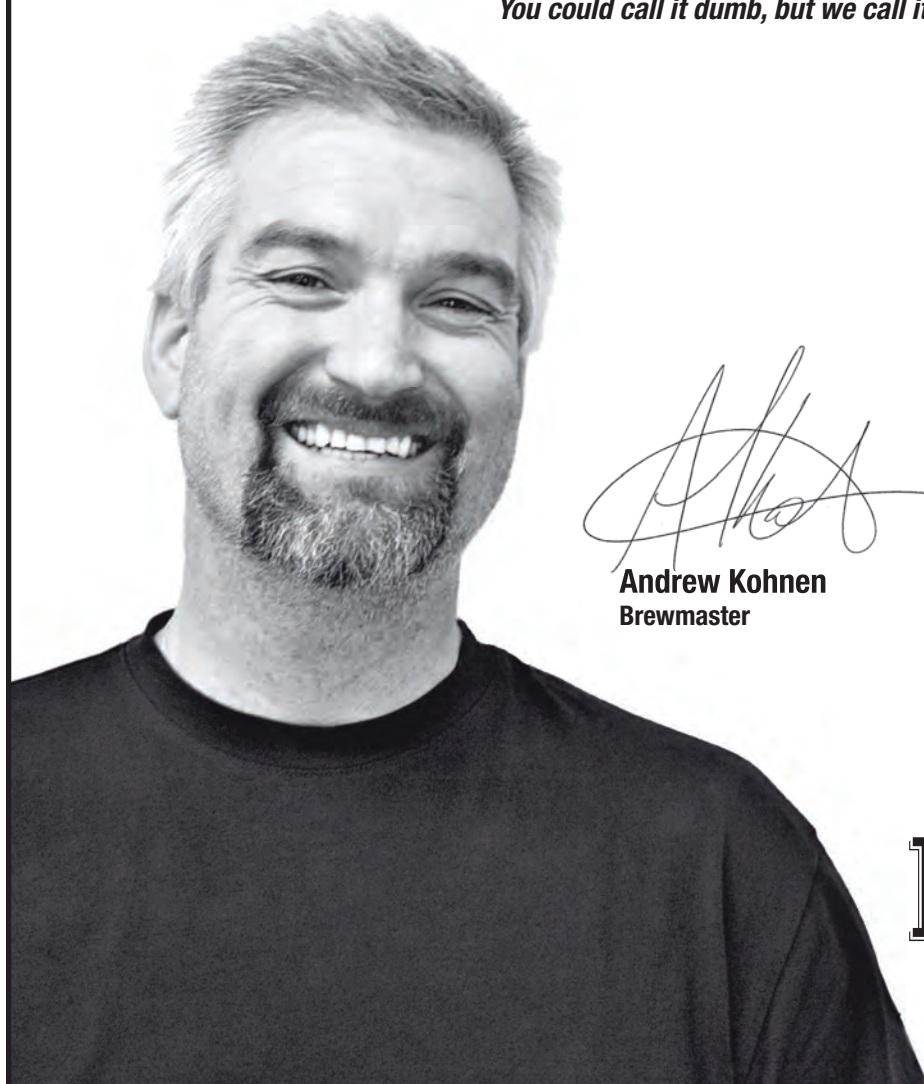

BUT HE DOES!

Our brewmaster, Andrew Kohnen, threw away a successful career in logistics to pursue his dream of reconnecting with the brewing roots of his family. This carried him to the UK's prestigious Brewlab in Sunderland, England, where he procured the alchemy that would drive his signature brewing style.

He took what he could from there and ventured to Scotland, Cornwall, and ultimately to Krefeld, Germany, working in the same brewery that had belonged to his ancestors. He came home to Canada for Hockley.

You could call it dumb, but we call it destiny.

More support needed for Heritage Silver Trail

throughout the area.*

A self-guided tour is available for visitors to guide them to the well-marked sites.

However, more focus is needed to promote the trail and to address concerns, Anderson emphasized.

In the past, Cobalt decided to shift its tourism focus to support the Lake Temiskaming tour project, she said, but "trail issues and advertising for our own Cobalt trail has been ignored."

The matter has now come "to a critical junction. Cobalt and Coleman have got to refocus on the trail or we are very soon going to lose it completely," Anderson said.

Most of the trail sits on Agnico Eagle property, and "a whole new generation of people" are now at the mining company, with company supporters now slipping into retirement or deceased, she pointed out. In the past, Agnico Eagle has worked to keep the main historic sites standing so they can be viewed by visitors to the trail, she continued.

The government mandate is to have old mining sites decommissioned and returned to the environment, and support is needed to ensure the historic sites are left available for public viewing, said Anderson.

If the Heritage Silver Trail is lost, "what have we got left in this town?" she asked. "A town full of stories but there's nothing for the tourists to see. We don't have the old prospectors and the miners on the streets that used to stop tourists and regale them."

Anderson noted the importance of tourism to support the small number of businesses that do exist.

She also pointed out that the Temiskaming Shores and Area Chamber of Commerce, which provides an area information centre, hears tourists mainly asking for information about Cobalt.

"The majority come to see Cobalt, to see our mining heritage."

She said the Cobalt Historical Society plans to make a presentation at Cobalt council's next meeting Tuesday, October 12.

TREE DEDICATION

The Pavilion Women’s Centre (PWC) dedicated a tree along the New Liskeard boardwalk in memory of those lost in the community to substance use disorder, and in support of loved ones who are left to grieve. From the left are: Temiskaming Lodge nurse Karen Belanger, Canadian Mental Health Association (CMHA) mental health worker Jayne Burnside, CMHA addictions and mental health worker and mobile crisis team member Jessica Paterson, Timiskaming Health Unit (THU) promoter Kim Peters, THU program manager Jennifer Cardinal, PWC child witness program coordinator and residential support worker Cynthia Gadoury, PWC child wellness coordinator Kayla Belanger, PWC shelter program manager Kayla Martell, PWC residential support worker Jenna Gilbert, PWC executive director Melanie Ducharme, and CMHA director of service Tyler Twarowski. Pavilion staff were also handing out naloxone kits August 31 to use to help victims of a drug overdose, information kits, and purple ribbons to place on the tree. (Staff photo by Darlene Wroe)
