Larose Bridge expected to be in place by June 2022

Darlene Wroe
Speaker Reporter

COLEMAN TOWNSHIP - The Larose Bridge is scheduled for completion in June 2022.

The project to reconstruct the bridge between Coleman Township and the town of Cobalt on Kerr Lake Road has been delayed due to waits for steel girders.

The girders are now expected to arrive in the second or third week of November, Coleman Township chief administrative officer Patrick Cormier stated at council's October 25 meeting.

"The bridge will be closed for the winter," he said.

The implication of that was briefly discussed in light of the fact that Coleman Road, which is the alternate access into the area, was unexpectedly closed recently when railroad crews were working on the rail crossing on Coleman Road. Cormier said he is going to be contacting Ontario Northland to request more notice if work on the crossing will be taking place and will result in a road closure.

Mayor Dan Cleroux pointed out the concern with possible closures of Coleman Road before the Larose Bridge is reconstructed and opened.

SKELETON CREW

A ghostly operator made his first appearance at 5th Wheel Training Institute's head office in time for Halloween 2020 aboard a grader manufactured more than a century ago. "This year, he has a bit of company," said administration team leader Christine Popkie. The body count at the Haileybury location now includes a skeleton on the flagpole and another draped around a sign. Pictured with the haunting display are, clockwise from upper left, Popkie, Mireille Leduc, Tammy Ramsay, Stacy Underhill and Isabelle Breton. (Staff photo by Diane Johnston)

"We're going to have a discussion on that," he said.

Cormier later said in a telephone interview that the alternative detour route for the area is Cross Lake Road which is a seasonal road. He said one of the options that will be considered is to keep the road plowed through the winter so that it can be used if needed until the Larose Bridge is reopened.

Cleroux also commented on a safety concern if the steel girders are put in place at this time, and the remainder of the bridge construction is not resumed until the spring. He envisioned the possibility that young people might try to cross it. To prevent any injuries over the winter months, he suggested the steel girders should not be erected at this time, and should just be stored on the ground at the site until the spring.

"We don't want anybody getting hurt," he said of the potential danger if the steel girders are erected.

Councillor Mitch Lafreniere said he will follow up with the construction company about the concern, and he will make the suggestion that the girders could be stockpiled at the site until the spring.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

A lesson in hypocrisy

Dear editor,

Hypocrisy: the putting on of an appearance of virtue that one does not possess.

Under the “realm” in Ottawa, hypocritical heights have been reached that heretofore have never been achieved. Oh Canada, my case in point:

Our former Federal Minister of Health lectured Canadians about wearing masks during the pandemic. Her Grace was later photographed in an airport lounge maskless. She went on to extoll the virtues of social distancing and Canadians were told to do likewise. She was later seen giggling close-up with other executive types. She then demanded, during an unwanted and unnecessary election, that Canadians not travel. Her boss travelled nonstop for five weeks. An old adage comes to mind: preach something and practice something else – with a straight face of course.

Canadians did not received clear, factual and persuasive information from her. In actual fact, in the real world, she would be deemed incoherent and incompetent. Particularly when one considers her numerous trips on a Challenger jet to her home riding. Recently, while answering COVID-19 protocol questions at my dentist’s office, I stated, “If I repeated her surname really fast three times, I would be sent to the local ER for COVID-19 symptoms.”

Then there is her boss. In 2013, he solemnly pledged to lead an ethical government. He went on to be found guilty of violating federal ethics laws twice. May I add: he is currently under investigation for his third ethics violation over the WE Charity scandal.

He called for reconciliation with Indigenous people and then defamed and exiled a proud Indigenous member of the House of Commons who refused to obstruct justice. He also said he favoured reconciliation and truth yet on the very day dedicated to it, he went surfing in Tofino B.C. He must forego his feigned and empty apologies and refrain from his ubiquitous ways.

Lastly, the federal vaccine mandate announced by him October 6: “If you want to continue working for the public service of Canada, you’re going to need to be fully vaccinated.” Straightforward enough? I’m afraid not.

The announced mandate doesn’t apply to any agency considered separate from the government i.e. Canada Revenue. These agencies employ tens of thousands of workers. Also, as a fulltime federal worker, you only have to sign an attestation that you have been vaccinated rather than show proof. More hypocrisy to help win an election.

Well reader, “Is this obfuscating enough for you?”

It appears to me that too many Canadians are saying they are okay with hypocrisy, they re-elected this realm in 2021. This could very well be the most hypocritical aspect of all. A lesson in hypocrisy.

Housing crisis

How many among us say homelessness is something that can't happen in this region?

Homelessness is a province-wide problem and we know it is a problem happening in the South Temiskaming region.

The District of Temiskaming Social Services Administration Board (DTSSAB) has completed a survey identifying a homeless population living in the region and an underlying housing crisis in South Temiskaming.

According to DTSSAB there were over 40 people who identified as homeless in the region.

DTSSAB took a count of individuals experiencing homelessness over a one-week period in mid-September.

The count is part of a province-wide effort to understand homelessness.

We wonder how many people may not have been surveyed or reached when the survey was done so the numbers could be higher.

People in this region may have rose coloured glasses on when it comes to the issue of homelessness and adequate levels of housing.

Who qualifies as a homeless person? Anyone not sleeping in their own residence, with no fixed address and who feels unsafe in their current housing facility.

Perhaps government agencies should look at creating extra low income housing across the region and assisting low-income people with a basic income.

A basic income would allow people to afford to pay rent.

By not investing in affordable housing it costs taxpayers more in the long run because of the costs of poverty.

Every community in the region should be talking about homelessness and creating a plan to address the issue.

We must spend money on those who are experiencing the greatest need among us.

Housing is a human right.

Trick or treat

Sue Nielsen

I was thinking back to last year and wondering if we will be able to greet Halloween trick or treaters at the door this year as it was deemed a health risk last year.

I love seeing the neighborhood kids coming to our house for treats.

And I have, on occasion, made special goody bags for certain kids that come to the door.

Seeing the children dressed up and their faces light up when you drop a treat in their bag makes me happy.

They turn to their parents as if to say, “See, the world really is wonderful.”

Are kids losing their sense of wonderment?

Maybe because they have iPads, cellphones and large screen TVs in their bedrooms that perhaps a candy apple or bag of chips just doesn’t cut it anymore.

Maybe kids are losing their sense of wonderment because of all that screen time.

In the last few years I have noticed a steady decline in the number of children who go out trick or treating.

Of course the number of kids trick or treating may vary from community to community and I guess it depends on how many kids are in close proximity to your home.

I know parents are nervous about sending their kids out alone at night and that is perfectly understandable.

When I was growing up my parents let us go trick or treating all by ourselves, all over our town, not only in our neighborhood.

We knew the homes that handed out the best treats and we’d head to those places first with our pillow sacks on our back.

We’d often stay out until 9 or 10 o’clock trick or treating, going back home at least a couple of times to empty our sacks and go back out for more treats.

We made sure to make the most of Halloween because my parents were hard working but every cent counted in our home.

Halloween provided guilt-free candy, every child’s dream, and we loved it.

My personal favourite treats were the bags of chips and the homemade popcorn.

I wasn’t much on those brown Halloween candies that I thought tasted like cardboard.

Originally, the Celtics started Halloween as an ancient harvest festival called All Hallows Eve. They gathered around bonfires wearing costumes to ward off ghosts and evil spirits.

I’ve stocked up on chocolate bars and chips for the big day, but for some strange reason, my stock keeps getting depleted (ahem).

Despite a recent survey that says almost half of Canadians don’t want to hand out candy this Halloween because of COVID fears, I will be handing out treats.

And I hope others will as well. The kids have been through enough hardships during this pandemic, let them have some fun.

Remember how you felt going out on Halloween as a kid?

Haileybury student nominated for national award

TEMISKAMING SHORES (Special/Staff) – Northern College has nominated a first-year student enrolled in practical nursing at its Haileybury campus for a national bursary.

In a news release, Northern College said Jordan Mulder has overcome significant odds to attend college.

“A first-generation learner, Jordan has persevered despite extraordinarily difficult circumstances and has made different decisions for herself that have led to her ongoing success,” said college president and CEO Audrey Penner. The college is proud, Penner continued, to nominate Mulder for a Colleges and Institutes Canada Paul and Gerri Charette Bursary.

Twenty $5,000 bursaries will be awarded across Canada.

Northern College notes that Mulder, who has a learning disability, is also the first in her large family, which was headed by a single mother, to complete high school.

Mulder said the bursary would enable her to focus more on her studies.

She’s currently going to school, working as a personal support worker, and raising three pre-schoolers while her partner works out of town.

The family recently moved from Southern Ontario in hopes the new location would relieve their children’s asthma conditions.

But this has meant the family is also further from their support network.

“Being awarded this bursary would significantly transform our lives and make the future brighter than ever before,” Mulder said.

“It would help me continue my studies in the field of health, a long-held dream, and that would mean everything to me.

“I want to accomplish this milestone not only for myself, but for my children, to give them an understanding of where hard work and determination could take them in their lifelong journeys.”

“We look forward to Jordan completing her program in practical nursing to join the ranks of those in the field who are assisting patients get healthy and well, and bettering their lives doing so,” Penner said.

The bursary fund was launched by Colleges and Institutes Canada in 2019 with a $1 million endowment by Paul Charette and his wife Gerri.

It’s earmarked for students who demonstrate a financial

Treat your teeth on Halloween

DISTRICT (Special) - Whether sugary or savoury, everyone has at least one favourite Halloween snack.

But just how good or bad is it for your teeth?

Dentists know there's going to be a lot of indulging in the coming days but hope everyone will try to be responsible about it. With that in mind, the Ontario Dental Association (ODA) is back to share the stone-cold truth on your Halloween treats and tips on how to avoid a dental nightmare.

Sugar candies can be broken down into two categories, hard or chewy, and both can do serious damage. It's no surprise big jawbreakers can overwork jaw muscles and damage braces. They, along with other hard candies and lollipops can also chip or crack teeth if you bite down on them and because they dissolve slowly, they're soaking your teeth in sugar. Chewy sweets, including dried fruit, can stick to teeth in hard to reach spots and damage dental work, like fillings.

Chocolates, as long as they're plain, are one of the least harmful sweets you can treat yourself to this Halloween. That's because they dissolve quickly in the mouth. Dark chocolate is especially good since research suggests its high number of polyphenols can actually help prevent tooth decay.

Salty snacks like chips and pretzels may seem like a safe bet but they can also get stuck between teeth and in the crevices and break down into cavity-causing sugars.

Try eating a proper meal first, swishing with water to clean out your mouth, chewing sugar-free gum and eating some nuts or cheese for a vitamin-rich protective coating on your teeth.

Spirometry Screening for Asthma and COPD

Spirometry is a common and effective diagnostic test that can easily be done in your health care provider's office. Spirometry is the most reliable way to test your lungs for COPD (chronic obstructive pulmonary disease) and asthma. The earlier it's done, the earlier lung disease can be detected and treated.

Who should have spirometry testing?

People with asthma

Spirometry is an important diagnosis and management tool for people with asthma. If you have asthma and have never had a spirometry test, please talk to our respiratory therapist about spirometry.

Smokers and former smokers

If you are over 40 and smoke or used to smoke, you may have COPD. Take this quick test:

1. Do you cough regularly?
2. Do you cough up phlegm regularly?
3. Do even simple chores make you short of breath?
4. Do you wheeze when you exert yourself (exercise, go up stairs)?
5. Do you get many colds, and do your colds usually last longer than your friends' colds?

If you answered "Yes" to one or more of these questions, you may have symptoms of COPD. See our respiratory therapist to find out what is causing your symptoms

Why should I see a respiratory therapist? Can't it wait?

If you get early treatment for COPD you can slow down the damage to your lungs.

If you are a patient of the Temagami Family Health Team and would like to have spirometry screening with our Registered Respiratory Therapist, please call (705) 569-3244 to request an appointment.

Early detection and intervention contribute to the best possible health outcomes!

Cobalt artists commemorated with six new plaques

Darlene Wroe
Speaker Reporter

COBALT - Cobalt is becoming increasingly recognized as an area that has been inspiring artists since the early 20th century.

An additional six plaques have been erected in town commemorating the artists and their works depicting scenes in Cobalt from over the years.

The plaques feature works of well-known artists who have visited or lived in Cobalt and painted there including Sir Frederick Grant Banting, Yvonne McKague Houser, George Cassidy, Catharine Cribbs, Laura Landers, and Marianne Vander Dussen.

These most recent plaques are separate from the Group of Seven plaques erected in Cobalt through a regional project carried out by City of Temiskaming Shores economic development coordinator Anne-Marie Loranger. They were installed to raise awareness of the famed artists who visited in the early 20th century.

The newest project, spearheaded by David Brydges of Cobalt, complements that project, with similar plaques that will guide visitors to the sites where artists found inspiration.

Brydges has dedicated the project to the memory of Vivian Hylands who had originally envisioned plaques throughout the town to commemorate the artists who have painted there through the decades.

The Vivian Hylands Art Tour honours “one of our most passionate citizens, community builder, patron of the arts, and past president of the Cobalt Historical Society,” Brydges wrote in a press release.

Hylands died in 2017, and Brydges shared her vision with Loranger who was able to bring the Group of Seven project into being through the City of Temiskaming Shores, getting five plaques erected, along with benches, at sites in Cobalt, Coleman Township and Temagami.

Last year, Brydges began fundraising and received financial support for the extended project from approximately 33 businesses and individuals.

He said his project keeps the momentum going about “how artists came north to paint over the decades, along with many Cobalt/Coleman and area artists who found inspiration in Cobalt’s headframes and streetscapes.”

Visitors to Cobalt, and residents who are strolling in and around the downtown area, will find several markers depicting the history and contribution of some of the key artists who have painted there. One is located at the Major Holland VC Park in downtown Cobalt, along with a Group of Seven plaque, one is at the northeast corner of Silver Street and Lang Street, two are on Jamieson Street in the area of the Fraser building, one is on the wall of the Cobalt Golden Age Club building on Argentite Street, and one is at the corner of Tina’s Trail and Argentite Street near the Cobalt Train Station.

Tips to hunt safely and legally

TEMISKAMING SHORES (Special) – With hunting season in full swing, the OPP are reminding the public to stay safe and within the law.

In a media release, the OPP offer the following to anyone planning a day in the bush:

- Ensure that you have the appropriate hunting licences for the game that you'll be hunting. It is your responsibility to know the game possession limits for your hunting area, as well as the season dates for your wildlife management area.
- Ensure your firearms licence is current. You must have a valid licence to carry a firearm and keep it with you.
- When transporting your firearm and ammunition, ensure that both are properly secured. It is an offence to have a loaded firearm in your vehicle, ATV or vessel. It is also an offence to shoot across a roadway.

- The more visible you are, the safer you will be. Wear hunter orange as per hunting regulations.
- Tell someone where you will be hunting and when you expect to return. Take a cellphone with you if possible. Let someone know where you will park your vehicle. If you become lost or injured, this will assist searchers in locating you.
- If you do get lost, "hug a tree" and wait for searchers to find you.
- Dress for the weather and wear proper footwear.

- Be prepared. Pack items such as water, snacks, matches, a first aid kit, map, compass, knife, flashlight, extra gloves and socks, and a windbreaker. A GPS is always a good idea.
- Hunt only where you are permitted.
- Treat all guns as if they are loaded. Keep the safety on and finger off the trigger until you're actually going to fire. Be sure of your target and beyond. If you are not sure of either, do not fire.
- Unload and "prove safe" your firearm before you put it away or get into your vehicle – remove the clip or ammunition and put the safety on.
- Alcohol and/or drugs do not mix with hunting. Make sure you and your entire party are alcohol- and drug-free.

- It's your responsibility to abide by all relevant legislation when using an off-road vehicle or ATV and carrying a firearm.
- Be considerate. If someone approaches you, unload your firearm as a courtesy. If the area is busy, consider a different area to hunt.
- For more information about hunting regulations, go to www.mnr.gov.on.ca.
- Report any illegal or unsafe hunting activity. Call the Ministry of Northern Development, Mines, Natural Resources and Forestry TIPS line at 1-877-847-7667, the OPP at 1-888-310-1122, or anonymously to Crime Stoppers at 1-800-222-8477.

Cobalt delaying rental unit licensing requirement

COBALT (Staff) - Cobalt is delaying implementation of rental unit licensing requirements in order to get all necessary protocols in place.

The decision was made at council's October 12 meeting. The need to license rental units in Cobalt has now been postponed from January 1 to April 1.

Cobalt clerk-treasurer John Hodgson explained it's "a new area that the municipalities are stepping into where a lot of us are trying to control some of the issues" associated with rental units.

The council has had concerns about absentee landlords, and rental units that are not fully equipped with basic requirements. In order to control that, licensing of rental units will be required by the town.

Before implementing the requirement, the town is working to identify all multi-dwellings and landlords, along with other related information.

However, the town staff is now in the busiest time of the year and it "soon became apparent we would be rushing things too much" to meet the January 1 implementation, explained Hodgson.

"We want to make sure we get it right," he continued. "We want to make sure that once we get the protocol in place it's doing what council wants it to do."

Here are a few tips to celebrate Halloween in 2021! Voici quelques conseils pour fêter Halloween en 2021!

Trick-or-treating

- do not go trick-or-treating or hand out treats if you have symptoms, even if they are mild
- trick-or-treat outdoors as much as possible
- do not crowd doorsteps – take turns one at a time
- trick-or-treaters and people giving out treats should keep interactions brief
- do not sing or shout for your treats

Attend a spooky party

- stay home if you have symptoms
- gather outdoors when possible
- do not exceed gathering limits of 25 people indoors and 100 people outdoors, and have the fewest number of guests possible.
- wear a mask indoors unless all guests are fully-vaccinated
- make a list of guests attending and guests' phone numbers in case contact tracing is needed

Creepy costumes!

- Be creative and build your mask into your costume. Remember that a costume mask is not a substitute for a face covering. A costume mask should not be worn over a face covering because it can be dangerous if the costume mask makes it hard to breathe.

Treats!

- there is no need to clean or disinfect pre-packaged treats

Regardless how you choose to celebrate, don't forget:

- hand hygiene
- physical distancing
- screening
- masks
- cleaning or disinfecting

Cueillette de friandises

- n'allez pas chercher ou ne distribuez pas de friandises si vous avez des symptômes, même s'ils sont légers
- cueillette de friandises à l'extérieur autant que possible
- n'entassez pas les entrées de porte - à tour de rôle un à la fois
- les friandises et les personnes qui distribuent des friandises doivent garder les interactions brèves
- ne chantez pas et ne criez pas pour vos friandises

Assister à une fête effrayante

- restez à la maison si vous avez des symptômes
- se rassembler à l'extérieur lorsque cela est possible
- ne pas dépasser les limites de rassemblement de 25 personnes à l'intérieur et 100 personnes à l'extérieur, et avoir le moins d'invités possible.
- porter un masque à l'intérieur à moins que tous les invités ne soient entièrement vaccinés
- créer une liste des invités présents et des numéros de téléphone des invités au cas où la recherche des contacts serait nécessaire

Déguisements effrayants !

- Soyez créatif et intégrez votre masque à votre costume. N'oubliez pas qu'un masque de costume ne remplace pas un couvre-visage. Un masque de costume ne doit pas être porté sur un couvre-visage car il peut être dangereux si le masque de costume rend la respiration difficile.

Les friandises !

- Il n'est pas nécessaire de nettoyer ou de désinfecter les friandises préemballées.

Quelle que soit la façon dont vous choisissez de célébrer, n'oubliez pas :

- l'hygiène des mains
- la distanciation physique
- le dépistage
- les masques
- le nettoyage ou la désinfection
