A COVID-19 fish tale

TAFIP rebounding after two tough seasons

Diane Johnston
Speaker Reporter

TEMAGAMI – Who would have thought a global pandemic could hamper local fish fans' efforts to bolster walleye numbers?

But COVID-19's side-effects – from social distancing to equipment shortages – have impacted the work of the Temagami and Area Fish Involvement Program (TAFIP) over the past two years.

However, TAFIP president Ike Laba is hopeful that operations can return to near normal this spring.

TAFIP helps support the walleye population – and the associated recreational fishery and tourism sector – in Temagami.

Fishing has always been a significant part of the Temagami economy.

Given pandemic-related travel restrictions, Laba said more people were staying closer to home.

Based on reports from local lodges and number of boats and trailers spotted, he estimated that fishing pressure in the Temagami area doubled or even tripled.

In a normal year, TAFIP volunteers live-trap spawning walleye each spring, collecting up to one million eggs from Net Creek and 500,000 from Lake Temagami.

The eggs are fertilized and transported to the TAFIP hatchery in downtown Temagami.

Upon hatching, most of the tiny fish – known as fry – are released into the watersheds their parents came from.

But some of the fry are retained and transported to two rearing ponds, where they grow into fingerlings, so-called because they're about the length of a finger.

Later in the summer, volunteers round them up and then release them into strategic areas of designated lakes.

The larger the fish, the better its chance of reaching adulthood.

Throughout the process – from netting to running the hatchery to collecting the fingerlings for release – volunteers "are working in pretty close quarters," said Laba.

Due to COVID restrictions and the need for social distancing, volunteers couldn't collect eggs or run the hatchery in 2020.

They did clean some shoals where walleye spawn, completed repairs to rearing ponds and a water holding area, and made improvements to the hatchery inside and out.

Last year, they were able to resume egg collection, hatchery operation and restocking, with pandemic precautions in place.

WEATHER

However, he said the weather posed its own challenges.

Wide temperature fluctuations meant there was still ice on the lakes when early April temperatures

DID YOU GET The Speaker THIS WEEK?

Here are some

April 6, 2022 stories...

- The Earlton-Timiskaming Regional Airport Authority received more than $1.2 million from FedNor to buy new snow removal equipment and make repairs to the runway and other assets.
- The Temagami Forest Management Corporation was granted a sustainable forest management license over the 456,770-hectare Temagami forest.
- The sixth COVID-19 wave hits Temiskaming, with an increase in positive case counts and anecdotal reports of infections.
- The Temiskaming Speaker's annual spring drive for community food banks is set for April 9.
- Temiskaming officials welcomed the new Northern Fire Protection Program, which compensates fire departments for some responses in areas without fire protection.
- Temiskaming Shores will once again coordinate two Northern Ontario mining showcases – at the Canadian Institute of Mining, Metallurgy and Petroleum convention in Vancouver next month and at the Prospectors and Developers Association of Canada convention in Toronto in June.
- Heading to the Ontario Women's Hockey Association provincials this weekend in their respective divisions are the Resource Tech Management Inc. U18 Puckhounds, the Brownlee Equipment U15 Puckhounds, and the Veterinary Services U13 Puckhounds.

Thanks to a $10,000 donation from TC Energy, volunteer-led efforts to improve walleye stocks and habitat in Temagami area lakes have new supplies and a secure place to store them. Ike Laba, at far left, who heads the Temagami and Area Fish Involvement Program, is seen with the new steel container when it was delivered last year by JPL Storage driver Clyde LaRocque. soared into the 20s.

In some areas, volunteers were unable to reach the fish and collect eggs before they spawned.

Low water levels made it difficult for volunteers to reach some water bodies.

However, Laba said they were helped by Indigenous fishers on Lake Temagami. Volunteers were able to collect unfertilized eggs and milt – walleye sperm – from the netted fish prior to the fish being harvested.

But given the weather conditions, he said they were able to collect only a fraction of the eggs they normally would – an estimated 225,000 from Net Creek and 50,000 from Lake Temagami.

Most of the fry that hatched were distributed to Lake Temagami and Cassells, Rabbit, Snake and Net lakes.

About 15,000 were kept and placed in rearing ponds to grow into fingerlings prior to release.

But that process too was complicated by the weather.

Heavy rainfall forced volunteers to first pump water out in order to round up the fish.

What normally takes a week and a half took about three weeks, he said.

In the end, about 1,600 fingerlings were collected for release.

SUPPORT

Meanwhile, about $1,800 of the program's equipment – including heavy steel trap net anchors, marker buoys, rope and lumber slated for dock construction – went missing.

But a donation from TC Energy offset the losses.

Through its Build Strong program, the corporation gave TAFIP $10,000.

Addictions services boosted in Timmins

TIMMINS (Special/Staff) – The region, including Temiskaming, is expected to benefit from funding for more addictions services in Timmins.

On March 17, the province announced almost $2.3 million from a new Addictions Recovery Fund for 15 new addictions treatment beds, to be added to Timmins and District Hospital and the Jubilee Centre.

The hospital serves residents in Timmins as well as the districts of Cochrane, Timiskaming, Sudbury and Algoma.

The funding will provide two new addictions treatment beds, two new supportive treatment beds and three new withdrawal management beds at the hospital.

The province said it’s also adding more than $880,000 in the hospital’s base funding to provide seven additional withdrawal management beds.

The Jubilee Centre in Timmins offers a variety of treatment services, including a residential program, for individuals with substance abuse and concurrent disorders, including mood and anxiety disorders.

The new funding will enable it to add eight new addictions treatment beds.

In a news release, the province pointed to studies showing that opioid-related deaths surged by 79 per cent during the first two waves of the pandemic, with rates three times higher in Northern Ontario.

It said the Addictions Recovery Fund will support almost 400 new addictions treatment beds across the province, helping to stabilize and provide care for about 7,000 clients per year.

The funding was welcomed by both the hospital and the centre.

“We need to continue to build a system in response to the urgency of the current opioid poisoning crisis in our community,” said Dr. Louisa Marion-Bellemare, physician-addictions co-lead at the hospital, in the release.

“We need to provide immediate medical care when people request it and we have to ensure we have the capacity to do so,” Marion-Bellemare continued.

She said services must be provided along the full continuum of care – from acute through transitional, residential and day care, to day and evening programming – “for as long as people need them.”

“We need to save lives and this investment by the province is another step in the right direction.”

“The arrival of the COVID-19 and opioid pandemics revealed a mental health and addictions system struggling to meet the surge in demand for services and desperately in need of new funding,” said Harry Jones, the Jubilee Centre’s executive director.

IN MEMORIAM

Beloved Jean-Guy Patoine,
 You are greatly missed. The heating of the earth's climate shadows my suppressed sorrow; I hide it from others, as I know you, yourself, were weakened when you saw me emotionally pained.
 Your presence is greatly longed for; it always was in the past but more so now. You were quick to do the necessary work that you saw. Its completion brought peace to that environment. Your humour lightened the moment and the world senses something missing due to your absence.
 God completed my life when He introduced you to me and I am ever so grateful you shared yours with me! Eternally grateful for your former presence but relieved you were granted eternal peace,
 Catherine Calvert

“The infusion of this new funding will increase bed capacity and help decrease wait times for individuals in desperate need of bed-based mental health and addictions treatment,” Jones said.

“It will also decrease the mounting strain on hospital-based services and improve referral pathways between harm reduction, treatment, recovery and hospital-based addiction medicine.

“Most importantly, by improving both the quality and quantity of care at the organizational and systemic levels, people in need of services at the Jubilee Centre will have earlier access to a more robust and responsive mental health and addictions system with more options and overall improved client experience.”

EDITORIAL

Public health matters

April 4-8 is Public Health Week (PHW) in Canada.

This is the first ever PHW campaign, aimed at bringing Canadians together to recognize the issues that are vital to improving the health of us all.

The purpose of PHW is to recognize how important public health is to us and that we continue to highlight what keeps us healthy and vibrant.

The COVID-19 pandemic has made us all realize even more the important role that public health plays in our lives and the contributions that public health has made to manage the pandemic.

Public health emphasizes the health and well being of all citizens, through prevention and progressive public health programming.

From health promotion, communicable disease control, reproductive and sexual health, dental care, active lifestyle promotions, immunization and health education for all ages, public health is there for us in our communities.

We can and should take the time to recognize the importance of public health in our lives and to thank the Timiskaming Health Unit for the important work they do.

They have skillfully managed the pandemic, working long hours as health care professionals.

Millions of work hours are lost every year in Canada due to illness. Through public health education and health awareness campaigns the public can be protected from many diseases.

When the call comes to fund public health out of our municipal budgets, let us remember the important and essential work of public health.

It is a small price to pay for wellness.

Of the noble

“Be in love with your life. Every minute of it.” Jack Kornfield

Winter's letting go and the red-winged blackbirds have arrived.

They seem to sing from the moment they appear during the spring migration until they leave in late fall.

Canoe season is just around the next bend and I am getting excited.

My canoe trips are part therapeutic journey and part spiritual experience as I seek aliveness and connection in my life.

You know what they say, “If you think adventure is dangerous, try routine - it is lethal.”

I am not having any of that lethal stuff as I seek out the places where few people tend to go.

Because when I receive anonymous letters from religious fanatics who claim to be people of faith, it makes me understand that I love my life even more despite the hate.

I ask myself the important questions: Did I bring peace to the world? Did I try to help others? Did I make someone smile today and did I love?

I know people who sit on a computer watching Facebook posts about vaccines and truckers constantly looking to pick fights. I'd much rather paddle a green shoreline at dusk with the sun setting in hues of pink, red and gold.

We need to explore our inner and outer lives making connections to things that are real in the natural world.

By slowing down, stepping away from technology we can successfully connect with adventure.

In the quiet stillness of a misty morning when the Great Blue Heron flies up from the marsh, the opportunity arises to find answers to things I didn't know I was seeking.

As the COVID-19 pandemic keeps people feeling stressed and exhausted - in other words burnt out - there is a place we can go for wellbeing.

It's called the outdoors.

Canoe tripping presents a world of wonders to paddlers, a beautiful sunset, birdsong, the morning mist rising from the lake as the loon calls in a far away bay sending shivers down my spine.

Do not put your life last. There is nothing noble in that.

Do not forget your dreams and for heaven's sake do not hide your feelings to make others less uncomfortable.

And do not wait until your health is such that you can't walk, or breathe or hear because there is nothing noble about the loss of quality of life.

Our lives are invaluable and we need to put ourselves first ahead of screens, and people who would suck the life out of you in an instant.

When I am in my canoe, I stand by my truth, I make mistakes, I learn from them and then I let it rip with a paddle in hand.

Because we surely aren't promised tomorrow so we must make the most out of each day we are alive on this beautiful planet.

Irritable Bowel Syndrome (IBS) Awareness

FAST FACTS:

- 13-20% of Canadians (approximately 5 – 7.5 million individuals) are living with IBS
- it is more common in women, but still affects many men
- people of all ages have IBS, from young children to the elderly
- the primary symptoms are what are commonly referred to as the ABCDs of IBS – Abdominal pain, Bloating, and Constipation and/or Diarrhea
- symptoms can come and go, so you might feel well for a while only to get symptoms again

Although each person has a unique IBS experience, this condition can significantly decrease a person's quality of life. Interestingly, only about 40% of people with IBS symptoms will seek help from a health care provider.

DIETARY AND LIFESTYLE MODIFICATIONS

The bowel responds to how and when a person eats, so it is important to eat regular, well-balanced, moderately sized meals rather than erratic, variable meals.

Some people find that dietary fats and the food additive monosodium glutamate (MSG) trigger symptoms. Some find symptoms worsen when consuming large quantities of liquids with meals. Others find that cooking vegetables and fruits lessens IBS symptoms, compared to when eating them raw. People with IBS might need to avoid or decrease consumption of caffeine, nicotine, and alcohol, particularly if the main symptom is diarrhea.

FIBRE

An important step in controlling the symptoms of IBS is to increase dietary fibre. Gradually increase your dietary fibre intake, allowing your body to adjust to the change, but make sure to increase the amount of water you drink as well.

It is important to note that for some IBS patients, a diet excessively high in bran fibre might trigger more frequent diarrhea, while other types of fibre could still be helpful. Consult your primary care provider or dietitian if you have any questions regarding fibre in your diet.

If you are a patient of the Temagami Family Health Team and would like to speak with our Registered Dietitian, please call 705-569-3244 to schedule an appointment.

A COVID-19 fish tale

The program supports non-profits, registered charities, associations, municipalities, social enterprises, Indigenous groups and foundations with a variety of projects, explained TC Canada representative Herb Shields in a media release.

They range from equipping first responders and environmental stewards with the resources they need, to improving access to education, protecting and enhancing the environment, and alleviating poverty.

TAFIP used the donation to replace and repair equipment, purchase supplies, and buy a steel container to provide secure storage.

The support will go a long way to helping the hatchery, said Laba.

TAFIP was also supported by the Community Hatchery Program, a partnership between the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters and the province, with $3,000 for capital expenses and $2,500 for operations.

The Temagami Community Foundation donated another $6,000.

"We do get a lot of support from local businesses and private individuals," Laba added.

Thanks to the help, it was able to upgrade the access road from the Sherman rearing pond to the Sherman water holding pond.

TAFIP had also hoped to reconstruct the rearing pond in late 2021, but high demand for heavy equipment postponed the project until this year.

Laba is now watching as pandemic restrictions continue to lift – when it comes to walleye, egg collection season is quickly approaching.

Express wins silver medal at NOHA championship

Sue Nielsen
Speaker Reporter

ENGLEHART — The Englehart Express U13 B/C-level team had their hearts set on a gold medal, but they came away with silver at their Northern Ontario Hockey Association Tournament of Champions in Wawa April 1-3.

Coach James McBean said it was a great tournament despite the fact his team lost in the championship game to the Chapleau Huskies 2-1 in Sunday's final.

"The kids worked really hard but couldn't find the net against Chapleau," said McBean. "We spent the last two minutes with a six-on-four with no goalie but just couldn't get the bounce we needed."

He said it was an "Incredible edge of your seat final game" and complimented the Huskies on how they played.

"The Chapleau players were sure to tell our kids it was their toughest match of the year."

The Express had three round robin wins against Wawa, Iroquois Falls and Porcupine. The only loss came to Chapleau.

"The kids had a tough time swallowing the losses after such a successful season, but the losses we experience make the wins that much sweeter," noted the coach.

He has no regrets about how the tournament ended for his team saying, "We left it all on the ice at the NOHAs."

The Express had an impressive record of 33 wins, three losses and three ties in league play and tournament play.

The Ninteen Twenty Two Fire

by Dave McLaren

The day was bright and sunny
As it was for days before
It dried the fields and forests
Which the settlers did ignore

When they lit that fire
That took off with a roar
It filled the air with cinders
As across the land it tore

The smoke then billowed skyward
Blocking out the shining sun
Choking folk as well as animals
Before they had a chance to run

The wind increased in volume
And it fanned the raging flame
That swept through Town and Country
Which nothing could stop or tame

It's hard to know the terror
Of that day in twenty -two
As they fled before the fire
Leaving everything they knew

The cost in lives was heavy
That the fire made us pay
That was forty-three that perished
Through the land that day

The years have come and gone
Some seventy-five in all
Still the survivors that are left
Will gather again this fall

April is DAFFODIL MONTH

*Where there's awareness
there's hope*

Cancer is the leading cause of death in this country, with some 30 per cent of Canadians dying from one type of cancer or another. In April, Daffodil Month, the Canadian Cancer Society asks the public to spare a thought for all those who are affected by this disease and to do something concrete in the fight against cancer.

Despite progress — the survival rate is now at 63 per cent — more Canadians die of cancer than any other disease. That's why funding activities are organized throughout the month of April to help prevent cancer and fund research; it's so that one day we can win the battle against this disease that kills 210 Canadians every day.

You can contribute to the fight against cancer by purchasing a bouquet of daffodils, which are a symbol of renewal, hope and courage. You can also wear a daffodil pin as a sign of solidarity with those who are fighting for their lives; you'll be doing so along with all their families, and with the families of those who have lost their battle. You can also donate time or money or help raise funds.

Lastly, you can fight against cancer by taking care of your health and minimizing your risk of developing this disease. Even though you have no control over your age and your genes, you can control other risk factors, such as smoking, alcohol use, physical inactivity, chronic stress and sun exposure.

To learn more about cancer or about Daffodil Month activities, visit www.cancer.ca.

Why do you need your COVID-19 booster dose?

Pourquoi avez-vous besoin d'une dose de rappel ?

The highly transmissible Omicron variant is the dominant strain of COVID-19 in Ontario and in our communities.

Omicron est le variant le plus transmissible et la souche dominante de la COVID-19 en Ontario et dans nos communautés.

Vaccines are effective at protecting you against severe illness, hospitalization, and death related to COVID-19. However, effectiveness decreases over time and two doses is not enough.

Les vaccins sont efficaces pour vous protéger contre les maladies graves, les hospitalisations et les décès liés à la COVID-19. Cependant, l'efficacité diminue avec le temps et deux doses ne suffisent pas.

All Timiskaming residents are strongly encouraged to get their booster dose as soon as eligible.

Tous les résidents du Timiskaming sont fortement encouragés à recevoir leur dose de rappel dès qu'ils sont éligibles.

A booster dose will help protect you from more severe outcomes from COVID-19 and the Omicron variant.

Une dose de rappel vous aidera à vous protéger contre des conséquences plus graves de la COVID-19 et du variant Omicron.

Please note: Although masking requirement ends this week in most settings, masks are still mandated in health care settings. The Timiskaming Health Unit and the COVID-19 clinics are both classed as healthcare settings, keeping masks mandatory at all of our clinics.

Veillez noter : Bien que l'exigence de port du masque se termine cette semaine dans la plupart des contextes, l'un des domaines où les masques sont toujours obligatoires est celui des établissements des soins de santé. Le Bureau de santé du Timiskaming et les cliniques de vaccination contre la COVID-19 tous les deux des milieux de soins de santé, et par conséquent, les masques sont toujours obligatoires dans toutes nos cliniques.
