Community Choir singing out for new members

Sue Nielsen
Speaker Reporter

TEMISKAMING SHORES — You don't have to be Pavarotti or Celine Dion to join the Temiskaming Community Choir.

All you need is a passion for singing and a willingness to learn.

After a two-year pause due to the COVID-19 pandemic, the Temiskaming Community Choir is hitting the high notes with a new choir director and is seeking new members.

The new director is Patti Campbell, who comes to the position with extensive experience in singing and as a vocal coach.

"I've pretty much been singing my whole life and I have been part of many productions and concerts throughout the years. I teach voice and beginner piano," she said in an email interview.

Campbell is classically trained as a lyric soprano and loves to sing in musical theatre settings.

Her musical philosophy is simple: "If you love to sing—that's a good start. Everyone has a voice to sing and a story to tell. Singing, taught in a healthy way, is a great way to tell that story and express oneself. Everyone has the tools to sing, it is my job to help technically, musically and expressively."

She says there is no set number of people who can be part of the choir and there is no formal audition process for anyone wishing to join.

"The more the merrier. The ability to read music is absolutely not a requirement. We are there to learn and enjoy and sing together."

She mentioned not everyone is confident to sing solo and "singing in a group like a choir is a perfect way to express, decompress, and unwind and share a common interest."

She said Mary Light is the accompanist, who has recently returned to the Temiskaming area. She is also the pianist at St. Paul's United Church in New Liskeard.

Light began singing in church at a young age and has 40 years of accompaniment for student recitals and Royal Canadian Music examinations in the Orangeville area. She has also been a pianist for

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

We pay the same taxes

Dear editor,

Re: "No to elimination of Northern riding," Weekender editorial September 2:

Years ago when Timiskaming was split into three we were given no chance to have a say. Some civil servant looked at a map and decided that road would do for a boundary with no regard to what it would mean. To me the Timiskaming riding should have gone as far as the other side of Chamberlain, which was the last of the agricultural area, the farther north was mining area.

To the people in Englehart and area we have more to do with New Liskeard than Kirkland Lake. The north part of Timiskaming went to a French-language area and they complained and had the boundary changed - I have it all in a scrapbook.

We see (MP) Rota having more push in his area than we have ten miles or so in our part of Timiskaming going miles to the north. How can a man truthfully cover so much territory? It's frustrating after these years to lose another member representing the North.

In the Toronto area one can drive from one end of Toronto to the other in minutes. The Golden Horseshoe they call it. I've always said when Toronto sneezes we catch cold. If we don't fight for our rights you get what you are given. We pay the same taxes as the rest of the country with the same problems, but the more squeaky wheels get looked after first.

Englehart

What is Gout and What Can You
Do to Better Manage or Prevent it?

What is Gout?

Gout is a type of arthritis caused by a surplus of uric acid in the body. This excess can trigger the formation of urate crystals in joints, cartilage, tendons, and bones, causing inflammation, swelling and pain.

While many people associate gout with being overweight, and this does increase your risk, gout is also linked to kidney disease, drinking large amounts of alcohol, and eating foods that are high in purines (e.g. meats, seafood, peas, beans, lentils, spinach). The risk of getting gout increases with age and men are at a higher risk than women.

Treatment options

Treating gout involves a two-pronged approach that combines medications and lifestyle changes. Medications for gout ease the pain and inflammation of acute attacks and control uric acid levels to prevent future attacks.

Self-Care

Adopting healthy lifestyle habits is a key part of an effective gout treatment plan. Eating a healthy diet, getting regular physical activity and losing weight (if needed) can lower your risk of repeat gout attacks, as well as the chances of developing heart disease, which is common in people with gout.

Diet

Developing a lifelong eating strategy that focuses on following a heart-healthy diet should be the goal for people with gout. This diet includes all of the food groups, especially vegetables, whole grains, plant proteins such as nuts and legumes and low-fat dairy.

The following foods are known to trigger gout attacks:

- Red meat and organ meats (liver, tongue and sweetbreads)
- Shellfish such as shrimp and lobster
- Sugary beverages
- Excessive alcohol (more than one alcoholic drink for women and two for men within 24 hours)

Physical Activity and Weight Management

Being physically active is an important part of managing weight, but getting started on losing weight or being active isn't always easy. A health care provider can help set realistic goals and choose appropriate exercise.

If you are a patient of the Temagami Family Health Team, are experiencing gout and would like to see a health care provider to discuss treatment and/or lifestyle changes, please call the office at (705) 569-3244 to schedule an appointment.

Committed to keeping you healthy!!

EDITORIAL

Be aware and be safe

As area youth return to school it is time to remember to be vigilant and aware of our driving habits along streetscapes and highways.

According to the National Safety Council, most children who are at the most risk of injury while heading back to school are between four and seven years of age.

As children wait for buses, walk along or ride their bikes to school, we must all exercise extreme caution when behind the wheel of our vehicles.

Pick-up time is a particularly vulnerable time for children when parents are collecting them from school or dropping them off in the morning.

As young children, they may not be the most attentive when it comes to road safety, so adults need to be that much more vigilant and paying attention while driving.

Distracted driving is causing huge problems on our roadways and it cannot affect our children.

Paying attention to school bus lights and stopping when the red lights are flashing is critical to ensuring safety for our children near school zones.

Put the cellphones down, turn down the music, slow down and pay attention to what's in front of and around you.

Carpooling with other parents is a good idea to reduce the amount of traffic at area schools.

Let's stay alert, be aware and get our children to and from school safely each and every day.

Observe and obey all the posted speed limits in school safety zones.

If we treat all our roadways as community safety zones, even if no signs say so, we can ensure everyone is more safe and secure wherever they are going.

It has also been noted that traffic at the bank corner in downtown New Liskeard can be hazardous. Drivers must pay attention when people are crossing that intersection.

Of moisture and mist

"In nature, everything has a job. The job of the fog is to beautify further the existing beauties."

Mehmet Idan

Sue Nielsen

I moved slowly around a green shoreline in the ghost like grey fog last weekend and found beauty at almost every swish of the paddle.

Being in evaporation fog only accentuates the beauty of what's already present in the natural world.

I felt like I was in some sort of noiseless cocoon separated from the endless white noise of our hurried, harried world.

The words of Indigenous author Richard Wagamese sprang to mind: "I am my silence. I am not the busyness of the world or the daily rhythm of my actions. I am my silence."

Cobwebs covered with heavy dew hung like strands of pearls from the branches of the trees as I moved silently past them.

The ingenious thing about this observation was, of course, the birds.

Tiny sparrows showed incredible ingenuity by raiding those heavily laden webs of their precious cargo.

They happily flitted past me along the shoreline from one web to another raiding it of flies, tiny spiders, moths and other edibles.

The poor spiders did all the heavy lifting and the birds simply came along and feasted on their labours.

It was a wonderful Labour Day weekend and I spent most of it outside observing the lake in my 15-foot slice of heaven canoe.

Observing the lake in the early morning light is truly a gift and I am grateful.

As I moved a little further along I heard the loons calling.

That sound is truly the call of the wild and represents our northern spirit.

I literally could not see two feet in front of me as the fog covered everything in a thick blanket of mystery.

I eventually found the loons preening at the north end of the lake.

When loons preen they reach back to an oil gland located near the tail feathers.

This oil gland is the important waterproofing agent they need to live, love and breed on our northern waterways.

At this time of year, their feathers are molting and they require a bit more preening as they prepare to fly off in a few short weeks to warmer climates.

You may know this, but I go to the lake to have my senses put in order and to experience the soothing calm of natural spaces.

While I can't solve the problems of the world I can surely buffer myself from that stress by way of a canoe and nature.

Hearing about the stabbing deaths on the James Smith Cree First Nation sent me into a brain fog of sadness.

My heart goes out to everyone who is affected by this senseless tragedy.

On a more upbeat note: Happy retirement to Nelly Moriarty, you go girl!

ART SAIL

Take some clothespins, a wooden stick and a slip of paper, use a little glue and some paint, and voilà – a tiny, colourful sailboat. Real sailboats were leaving the Haileybury marina as ten-year-old Ophelia, left, and Imogen, 5, built the mini craft as mom Amy Palmer looked on. The activity was one of the many attractions for kids of all ages this summer at the Art in the Park series. (Staff photo by Diane Johnston)

THE GREAT HAILEYBURY FIRE OCTOBER 4TH 1922 By Norman O. Webb

One fine morning in October
In the year 1922
In the District of Temiskaming
Beneath a sky so blue

The harvesting was finished
The roots were not all dug;
It had been dry for 'most of the month
You couldn't see a bug.

The farmers had been clearing land
And burning out the stumps;
It surley was the kind of work
That gives your heart the thumps.

There were small fires gently burning
And the smore curled to the sky;
Not a thing to be alarmed about
As far as meets the eye.

At ten a gentle breeze sprung up
By noon the wind was high;
It swept the fires all into one,
Fire trouble sure was nigh.

The law throughout that northland
Was that all the men should go,
And fight fire when they're needed;
Their courage they should show.

So it was upon that day
A call came for my Dad,
To fight a fire a mile away;
A woman's plight was sad.

It seems the fire was very near
And she was all alone;
Her voice was all alarm you see,
You could tell by the tone.

So dad and neighbour Art went down
To do a neighbour good;
And keep the fire from burning up
Those buildings made of wood.

Moose Creek was gently flowing,
And passed right behind the barn;
The clearing was so very small
For such an expansive farm.

In forest flames were leaping high
The smoke hung like a pall,
Burning birch bark in the air
Was scattered over all

By this time wind velocity
Reached eighty miles per hour;
The heat was like a blast furnace
As forth it's sparks did pour.

There was a great green Elm tree,
Stood just behind the barn;
The men said this, just could not burn
And caused them no alarm.

But after while the searing flame
Caught on the Elm bark;
The whole tree burst right into flame,
The sky was almost dark.

The men with wet sacks o'er their heads,
Poured water on the hay;
The water turned to steam and rose,
Wind licked it up like play.

At last a good sized Elm limb
Came flying as a brand;
It broke in pieces as it lit
And burned to beat the band.

It set the barn and hay aflame
Fire roared into the sky;
The buildings burned up very fast
Because they were so dry.

The barn and then the granary went
Hen house and old pig-sty;
The men retreated to the house
Though sore they were of eye.

They stored up barrels of water,
Prepared to make a stand;
The heat by then was so intense
'Twas burning up the land.

The woodshed was behind the house
On posts up off the ground;
The sills, though not so very old
Were not so very sound.

The flying fire brands from the barn
Were blowing underneath;
At last the sills burst into flame.
The man gritted their teeth.

For water wouldn't put it out,
It seemed the house would go;
'Till Dad rubbed wet mud on the char
And quenched the flames below.

By that time the wind had changed
And blew the flames away;
Norm Edwards turned to Dad and said,
You've saved this house this day.

Now when the fire had quite died down,
Dad tried to make it home;
But the road was all afire you see,
The corduroy and loam,

So Dad sat down to rest a while,
But little did he know;
His own home had gone up in flames
A little while ago

We were digging potatoes,
Mom and Sis and I,
When the black smoke and the flames arose
To darken the western Sky.

The sand was blowing from a hill
A half a mile away;
If filled our eyes, we scarce could breath,
The horses turned away.

Mom said "You'd best unhitch the team
And put them in the stable;
I'll take a few potatoes in
They'll be nice for the table.

We'd never seen a forest fire
With all our might and main;
While just twelve feet about our heads
The air a mass of flame.

The telephone poles all down the road
Were seared off at the height;
That cut communications off,
All help was out of sight.

When e're the smoke clouds lifted
So our neighbours we could see;
Their buildings too, were all aflame,
The fire was on a spree.

At last our buildings too caught fire
Our fight was all in vain;
It burned our barn and then our house,
And all our hay and grain.

By then the heat was so intense
Our clothes were nearly burning;
For cool water from the spring
Our hears were surely yearning.

We then retreated to the spring
A barrel with water filled;
And took it to a meadow
That lies beneath a hill.

There we found a cool retreat,
With wet sacks o'or our head;
And thanked the Lord our lives were spared,
This prayer so many said.

So when the fire had quite died down
At the setting of the sun;
Of lives it sure took quite a toll,
It's work of spoil was done.

Some fell upon the wayside
Ere they thought perchance to flee;
Some found dead in a root house
Where, you'd think death could not be.

Now some got in a rock cut
Where there was nought to burn;
But the fire licked up the oxygen
And left them dead in turn.

The animals both wild and tame
By thousands lost their lives;
And when it came to Bee yards
It burned up all the hives.

Fire burned the wooden bridges,
Left us out on a limb;
So if we wanted to go somewhere,
We had to walk or swim.

Now Haileybury the county seat,
Was the largest town that burnt;
Fireproof buildings turned to dust,
A lesson sadly learned.

Four thousand could have lived in that town,
Were driven to the lake
And held there until darkness fell;
Then some a scow did take.

Wind swept out on whitecapped waves,
Then drifted half the night;
And they could see their burning homes,
It was an awful sight.

Now as they neared Old Devil's Rock
They thought their end was near;
'Bout that time north wind blew strong
Ans carried them right clear.

But soon they landed further south,
Began their trek back home;
When they got there the place was bare,
No food, no not a bone.

Fire then swept through North Cobalt,
And Lorraine Valley that day;
The smoke rolled on to Ottawa
Four hundred miles away.

Some took the train to Toronto,
And some to old North Bay;
Some went unto New Liskeard
About five miles away.

Some spent the night 'round camp fires
Deciding what they'd do;
And when the morning light appeared,
With axe began to hew.

The hammers banged, the axes clanged,
The saws began to sing.
The spirit of those pioneers
You couldn't beat, "By Jing!"

The smoke had hardly cleared away,
'Till we had a fall of snow;
The cold came on we had no clothes
To keep us warm, and so

Relief trains came unto the north
To bring us food and clothes;
What we'd have done without that help,
I'm sure God only know.

TAG youth intern expanding gallery opportunities

Darlene Wroe
Speaker Reporter

HAILEYBURY - Jasmine Reil has been devoting herself to developing new opportunities for TAG since March of this year, and will be continuing those activities and outreaches until her contract ends at the end of February 2023.

Reil was hired in March by the Temiskaming Art Gallery (TAG) under FedNor's Economic Development Initiative, which had a two-fold goal of assisting the gallery and providing a valuable experience for a young person through a youth internship.

FedNor provided $40,000 to the gallery, which hired Reil to take on the task of "increasing the gallery's outreach to the Francophone and Indigenous communities using new digital platforms in both official languages."

Reil is also working on enhancing "the gallery's marketing efforts to increase its bilingual capacity." She is also working on creating "a new online gift shop to increase sales through Francophone, Indigenous and newcomer artists and artisans selling their work through the gift shop (online and in person)."

Reil, who was born in Yukon and then lived in Moosonee for a time as a small child, moved to Temiskaming Shores with her family when she was in Grade 2.

Now 23, she has been studying astrophysics at McMaster University in Hamilton.

Her summer jobs led her to the gallery and ARTEM, and when she became aware of the opening for a youth intern at TAG she applied and was successful, she said.

Finding enjoyment in sorting information and data management, she is using those skills, along with others, in undertaking the task of putting the gallery "a little bit more on the map."

She has helped to bring sponsorships for the Art in the Park Wednesday summer evening events, she said, and she's been working on promoting the event on the gallery's Facebook page.

ENHANCED PROMOTION

It is anticipated that having Reil in place will help with "enhanced promotion of the facility and services, enhanced automated client services, opportunities for additional events to be hosted by the Temiskaming Art Gallery, and the creation and maintenance of alliances and partnerships throughout the community."

Nipissing-Timiskaming MP Anthony Rota commented in a FedNor press release that the funding not only helps "provide a learning experience for a young Canadian, but it will also help the Temiskaming Art Gallery, an important community organization, expand its business and develop new, modern means of entering the marketplace."

TAG executive director/curator Melissa La Porte stated in the press release that the gallery is "proud to be where people can learn about and engage with culture through art, and a youth intern made possible by FedNor's investment is going to help us expand our reach in the community and support art that brings vibrancy to our lives."

The gallery's online gift shop and its in-person gift shop at Open Studio Libre have also been a focus with the goal of getting them better established. As well, Reil has been looking into the viability of shipping online gift items to non-local buyers.

She is also using the online site to raise awareness that Open Studio Libre is available for rentals for private events such as birthday parties.

She is also working at "diversifying the artists and vendors in our gift shop," and reaching out to local artists for that purpose.

She noted the success of a recent Paint and Sip workshop with Indigenous artist Darlene Skani of Keepers of the Circle.

Young artists are being encouraged to apply to have their items featured in both the online and in-person gift shop.

She said the experience has opened her eyes to the arts in the region, and visiting artists such as Julie Oakes of British Columbia.

"All experiences expand your mind," she said, noting the pleasure she has had in working with the people at the gallery. "It's lovely working here," she said.

BIRD IN HAND

CO<sub>2</sub> Sensor Lending Program Curious about the air quality in your indoor spaces? The library has a new CO<sub>2</sub> Sensor lending program, thanks to a donation by Rise of three Aranet4 Home Air Quality monitors. CO<sub>2</sub> is a gas that is produced when people exhale. As more people remain in a room, CO<sub>2</sub> levels increase quickly if there is not enough fresh air coming into the space. High indoor CO<sub>2</sub> levels can cause tiredness, headaches and other symptoms, and indicate that a space is not well ventilated. High CO<sub>2</sub> levels can also facilitate the spread of airborne infections. The devices are not CO (Carbon Monoxide) detectors and are not life safety devices. Contact the library to learn more!

Ontario Parks Day Passes for loan at the library. The day passes allows a car into an Ontario Park for the day for free. Swim, canoe, kayak, fish, hike or picnic at a park nearby such as Kap-Kig-Iwan in Englehart, Esker Lakes in Kirkland Lake, Finlayson Point in Temagami or any of the parks further afield! The park passes can be taken out for one week, and you may place a hold in advance to plan your trip. Contact the library for more information!

Mobile Wifi Hotspot Lending program going to the cottage and need internet access? Check out a portable wifi hotspot to stay connected! The library has received funding through the Timiskaming Health Unit's Digital Divide grant program to add five new devices to our collection. Library members 18 and older may borrow a hotspot for three weeks, for free from the library--there are no fees and the data is provided by the library. The hotspots will work anywhere in the region where there is a cellular connection. Contact the library for more information!

Gadget Helper

The library's gadget helper program is up and running again, Contact the library and let our staff person know what you would like to learn. Currently we offer weekly one on one times on Thursdays. In the past, the gadget helper program has helped patrons with topics from learning to navigate the basics of a new device to downloading ebooks and accessing online resources and even troubleshooting hardware and software issues with phones, tablets and laptops.

For more information about any of these programs please call us at 705-647-4215, email us at

Self-isolation guidance for COVID-19 has changed Les directives d'auto-isolement pour la COVID-19 ont changé

Under updated self-isolation guidance, if you have respiratory or gastrointestinal symptoms, you should self-isolate until you have no fever and your symptoms have been improving for 24 hours (or 48 hours for nausea, diarrhea, or vomiting). This will reduce the spread of COVID-19 and other respiratory and gastrointestinal illnesses.

If you have symptoms, test positive, or are a close contact of someone with COVID-19, you must also take additional precautions for 10 days. These include wearing a mask in indoor public settings and avoiding visiting people at a higher risk of illness. Visit www.timiskaminghu.com/90484/COVID-19 for more information.

D'après les directives d'auto-isolement mises à jour, si vous avez des symptômes respiratoires ou gastro-intestinaux, vous devriez vous isoler jusqu'à ce que vous n'ayez pas de fièvre et que vos symptômes s'améliorent depuis 24 heures (ou 48 heures pour des nausées, de la diarrhée ou des vomissements). Cela réduira la transmission de la COVID-19 et d'autres maladies respiratoires et gastro-intestinales.

Si vous avez des symptômes, si vous testé positif ou si vous êtes un contact étroit avec une personne atteinte de la COVID-19, vous devez également prendre des précautions supplémentaires jusqu'au jour 10. Ceci inclut le port d'un masque dans les lieux publics intérieurs et d'éviter de rendre visite à des personnes à risque plus élevé de maladie.
