TEMISKAMING SHORES — Several dignitaries and members of the public made their way to the Temiskaming Shores Public Library for a look at its new light-filled, diverse community spaces during a grand opening ceremony September 10.

"I am immensely proud of the library, its staff, volunteers and board members and of our municipality and community who have all had a part in making this vision of the library services we have had for so many years a reality," said library CEO Rebecca Hunt.

The library had opened to the public in September of 2020, but due to the COVID-19 pandemic, the official opening was postponed.

The day began with a ribbon cutting ceremony outside the library attended by dignitaries from the library board of directors, the Temiskaming Shores and Area Chamber of Commerce and the City of Temiskaming Shores and members of the public.

"We love the new location," said avid readers Kent and Linda Fielder at the grand opening.

"We use the library more now that it is at this location as it is easier for us to get to. We grocery shop next door and then come here for our books," said Mr. Fielder.

The festivities included refreshments, a ribbon cutting ceremony, a scavenger hunt, door prizes, bookmark and colouring pages decorating, button making, green screen pictures, a puzzle room, a used book sale, English and French storytimes and face painting along with live music in the foyer of the library provided by pianist Mary Light.

"It is busy here, people are coming and going and that is what we want."

board liaison Jeff Laferriere complimented the library staff and board members saying without their leadership the vision for the new library would not have happened.

Wilkinson said it was challenging to leave the old buildings behind and create a new library but she is pleased both former library buildings have found new owners.

The library services 1,952 active patrons and has a collection of 34,000 titles. There are audiobooks, DVDs, microfilm, puzzles, games, snowshoes, walking poles, backpacks, portable Wi-Fi hot spots, CO2 sensors and Ontario Parks day passes.

"Among the other services we have at our library are 3D printing, children's programs, Green Screen and Creator Space usage, meeting and study rooms for rent, wire-

Members of the public can also find a Book of Condolences to sign in the lobby of the Temiskaming Shores city hall.

Nip-Tim conservatives overwhelmingly support Poilievre

DISTRICT (Staff) — Conservative Party members in Nipissing-Timiskaming gave a crushing first-ballot victory to Carlton, Ontario, MP Pierre Poilievre for the leadership of the party on the weekend.

The 2022 Conservative Party of Canada Leadership election was held on September 10.

"We would like to thank all candidates for their efforts and we congratulate Pierre Poilievre as the new leader," said Nipissing-Timiskaming Conservative Association president Landon Trudel in a press release.

"This leadership more than doubled Nipissing-Timiskaming membership to over 1,400 members, making it the second largest membership in Northern Ontario. A sign of discontent with the Trudeau Liberals and enthusiasm for Pierre," said Trudel.

He said 11,698 party members voted in Northern Ontario and Poilievre received 8,624 of those votes. He went on to win 330 of 338 ridings across Canada.

The following is a breakdown of the voting preferences of Conservative Party members from the Nipissing-Timiskaming riding:

Scott Aitchison - 21 votes
 Roman Baber - 121
 Jean Charest - 102
 Leslyn Lewis - 123
 Pierre Poilievre - 1,032

Arthritis Awareness

Arthritis is Canada's most prevalent chronic health condition – for which there is no cure.

Fast Facts:

- Arthritis strikes people of every age, from infants to adults, and stays for life.
- Arthritis is a complex disease with over 100 different types. Major types are inflammatory arthritis (like rheumatoid arthritis, childhood arthritis, ankylosing spondylitis, psoriatic arthritis, and gout), and the most common form, osteoarthritis. Fibromyalgia has similar symptoms to arthritis.
- Arthritis results in painful inflammation and stiffness in joints, limiting the ability to move.
- Left untreated, arthritis can cause permanent joint damage and/or changes.
- A significant proportion of people with arthritis are overweight or obese and are physically inactive, adding undue stress to their joints.
- Some types of arthritis can affect the heart, eyes, lungs, kidneys and even the skin.
- A significant proportion of people with arthritis also have other serious diseases like heart disease or diabetes.

Warning Signs of Inflammatory Arthritis

There are many forms of inflammatory arthritis; signs that are typical for most include:

- Pain, swelling and stiffness in one or multiple joints
- Morning stiffness in and around the affected joints lasting at least one hour
- Pain and stiffness that worsens with inactivity and improves with physical activity
- Reduced range of motion
- Sometimes fever, weight loss, fatigue and/or anemia

Treatment

Arthritis affects everyone differently so treatment planning should be tailored to individual needs with guidance from members of your health-care team (e.g. family doctor, rheumatologist, surgeon, physiotherapist, occupational therapist etc.).

For the over 6 million Canadians living with arthritis, pain is one of the many challenges they face on a daily basis. And though medication is only one option in terms of arthritis treatment, it can provide pain relief (and slow joint damage in many cases of inflammatory forms of arthritis). Keep in mind that many lifestyle changes, such as healthy eating, exercise and treatments such as physical therapy, should also be explored.

If you are living with arthritis or think you may have undiagnosed arthritis, please call our office at (705) 569-3244 to schedule an appointment with your primary care provider and/or our Occupational Therapist.

A lifetime of public service

It is with heavy hearts that Canadians received the news that our Queen died Thursday, September 8.

Queen Elizabeth II was Britain's longest serving monarch, having just celebrated her 70-year Queen's Platinum Jubilee.

She dedicated her entire life to public service, a dedication that few understand or appreciate.

When Elizabeth was 21, almost five years before she became queen, she promised the people of Britain and the Commonwealth that, "My whole life whether it be long or short, shall be devoted to your service."

What an amazing woman and world leader the likes of which may never be seen again.

Through thick and thin, she ruled with diplomacy, grit and grace.

Her dedication to duty was outstanding.

She reigned over the United Kingdom that rebuilt itself after World War II, and then joined and unjoined the European Union during Brexit.

She served through 15 Prime Ministers, six Popes and 18 American presidents, from Winston Churchill to the newly appointed British Prime Minister Liz Truss.

Our Queen was widely respected and remained head of state of the 54-nation Commonwealth of which Canada is a member.

She built a special bond with the people of the United Kingdom and across the world through her public appearances over the years.

As we contemplate electing municipal leaders to public office to complete a four-year term as public servants, we might wish them to take a page or two from Queen Elizabeth's public service manual.

The manual might read something like this: service over self and service working toward the needs of others, who are the many, not the few or the one.

And always take the high road.

Our Queen

I am not necessarily a monarchist, but I loved the Queen and all she stood for including her 70 years in public service.

For those who have never experienced a life in public service, it is at best challenging and rewarding all at the same time.

Who among us would want our lives played out for the whole world to see? How many of us would survive it with such grit and grace as the Queen displayed?

I look at how much our queen managed in her 96 years on the planet, and I am blown away with admiration.

When one sacrifices an entire lifetime in the service of others, that person deserves all the respect in the world.

Some people took the opportunity to slag the Queen upon her death and that is not only bad karma, it is classless.

For me, an important part of her majesty's legacy is that in a time when women had very little power, she stepped onto the world stage with grace and determination in a role that was thrust upon her. There are people who impact the world. She was one of them.

She was the embodiment of an archetypal queen giving strength and stability to so many during her long reign.

Many world leaders and those closer to home could learn a thing or two from her example.

At the end of the day, even if people aren't die-hard royalists, we can appreciate this woman for who she was.

I took immense comfort in listening to her Christmas speeches and I will miss them.

The queen was a mother and a grandmother and a caring person.

What a magnificent life she led and it may not have been all roses. I am sure there were some thorns in her crown with some of the scandals presented by certain royals over the years.

My daughter messaged me on the day the Queen died from Glasgow saying, "The Queen is at her castle in the highlands and it is not looking good."

And indeed, it was that day that the queen died, September 8.

I find myself positively reflecting on what the queen meant to me throughout my life and what she symbolized to the world.

Her commitment to serve the Commonwealth as a figurehead was unwavering during her lifetime.

She wasn't supposed to have opinions or to show a sense of humour, but when Donald Trump and Melania made an official visit to Buckingham Palace, she wore a brooch that had been gifted from the Obamas.

Sue Nielsen

I wish King Charles III the best of luck as he attempts to fill the enormous shoes of his mother.

And let's hope he does not continue to accept suitcases full of cash from Saudi billionaires.

Let's all "have a cup o' tea" in honour of Queen Elizabeth who is on her journey to reunite with Prince Phillip.

Rest in peace Queen Elizabeth.

THE MORNING AFTER THE HAILEYBURY FIRE

By Mary Sparling Muscroft

Stark bareness!
Where a few short hours ago
Had stood familiar homes of friend and neighbour
Black holes!
Lying in ugly rows on both side of the street
Where only yesterday, the young ran happily to school.
Twisted blackened beds and springs
And lumps of smouldering debris
Lying in grotesque heaps
In the foundations.

Beautiful iridescent
Colours of molten glass;
Brown pigs
Digging themselves free
From steaming manure piles.
The acrid smell
Of burned and rotting things
The clung to the air for months;
The white snow drifted down
Melting and steaming and sizzling
In the still glowing embers
That remained.

The odd sight
Of something standing
Where all else is swept away
A house:
With out-buildings all gone,
The clothes-line burned away,
The windows melted and broken.
The trees:
Which stood a thousand years-
A heap of glowing ash
That puffed up when stepped on
By some clod.

No school,
No homework for a year
Relief from "down below".
A blanket of white ash that covered all.
The hard floor
Taking the place of beds.
The good strong cup of tea
A neighbour made –
Potatoes
Boiled in their jackets.

A black cow
Stood forlornly in a yard
Unrecognizable,
Except she raised her head
When they came near.
Her lovely brindle coat –
A crisp black crust
That came off in the great welts
Where she was touched
Leaving a flaming red patch
Raw and bare.

Her eye were blind;
Her hoofs and udder gone
But still she tried to browse
The blackened grass
That lay beneath her feet.
They hurried to the roothouse for a gun
And there they shot her.

They thought
Of all the creatures of the wild
That must be suffering
The same
Silent
Agnoy.

Krugerdorf Bridge awaiting replacement

Darlene Wroe
Speaker Reporter

CHAMBERLAIN TOWNSHIP - The Krugerdorf Bridge in Chamberlain Township will be closed to the public effective September 19 in preparation for replacement.

The bridge, believed to date back to the late 1920s, is one of the last wooden truss bridges.

The municipality expects the project, which will see a modern two-lane bridge installed, will be completed by the end of 2023.

Aging and with limited ability to support substantial weights, the bridge's time has come.

Herb Kruger, who grew up about a mile south of the bridge, and is the author of A Place Called Krugerdorf, was born in 1926. He remembers the enthusiastic discussions among the adults as the plans for the new bridge unfolded.

"I can remember them talking about the new bridge over the river, and what a big improvement it was going to be," he said in a telephone interview.

"I was pretty little, maybe three or four years old." He thinks the bridge was built by about 1930, although there is no clear record existing of its construction. The township had received provincial government funding in the mid 1920s for road improvements.

Located on Road Seven in Chamberlain Township nearly six kilometres off Highway 11, the Krugerdorf Bridge crosses the Blanche River.

When it was first constructed it was not only an asset for local travel, but also was an area that children played under and nearby. Kruger said he remembers skating under the bridge when he was 10 or 11. It was a popular location because the overhead bridge kept the snow off the ice, thus providing a cleared spot, he explained.

"Under the bridge it froze right over, and I remember teams of horses going down there and hauling loads of wood."

Kruger remembers that he and other children used to ski down the steep hills around the bridge.

While a wooden truss bridge construction is considered unique today, at the time of its construction it was a typical style. Kruger said that at the time "that was the popular bridge construction, with the big arch over the top. It wasn't something new."
