

Airport Authority seeking more support

Darlene Wroe

Local Journalism Initiative Reporter

HILLIARDTON - Representatives of the Earlton-Timiskaming Regional Airport Authority will be reaching out to non-participating area municipalities in an attempt to convince them of the merit of joining and supporting the airport.

The Airport Authority is a partnership of a number of area municipalities who deem it beneficial to the region to maintain and operate the airport.

The participating municipalities provide financial support to the airport to keep it operating.

The Authority also discussed the importance of updating the levies charged to the municipalities through the 2021 census numbers to ensure that the levies fairly represent the population changes that have occurred in the district in recent years.

The airport is a regional central point for air ambulance, corporate business flights in and out of the area, as well as private plane owners who can lease hangars there. Temiskaming Search and Rescue also has a base at the airport and the Hercules military aircraft frequently flies in for search and rescue training events. During a major forest fire in the region in 2019, the airport was used as a base by firefighting teams sent in to the area.

At the Airport Authority's February 16 meeting at the municipal hall in Hilliard Township (which is one of the participating municipalities), an agreement was reached to request financial support from the non-participating municipalities.

The airport had previously belonged to Transport Canada, but was transferred to Armstrong Township. Area municipalities agreed to provide financial support and, in 2016, it was decided to form the Airport Authority, which would be able to apply independently for grants to support capital projects.

Temiskaming Shores Mayor Jeff Laferriere is the chair of the board, taking the position held until recently by former mayor Carman Kidd. James Smith is the airport manager.

"Our fuel sales are significantly higher year over year," said Laferriere in an email interview after the meeting. He said there were 328 air ambulance movements in 2022. There has been a small increase in the number of charters with 264 in 2022, he added.

Airport Authority members have agreed to seek the support of the Federation of Northern Ontario Municipalities on the view that the airport is an integral part of the area's health care, with the goal of obtaining provincial financial support for the airport in that role.

The need to increase revenues at the airport was a main topic of discussion at the meeting as the Airport Authority approaches its 2023 budget. Laferriere stated at the meeting "there are a number of things we are going to have to look at for generating revenues." He added that the Airport Authority will also have to "develop some strategies."

The approval of the 2023 budget has been deferred to the March 16 meeting of the Airport Authority.

"We need to clarify a few items," Laferriere stated in the email.

EDITORIAL

Northerners matter

Some people reading this editorial might think the statement “Northerners don’t matter to governments” to be a strongly worded statement.

But that’s the message that continually gets sent to Northerners from federal and provincial governments.

Take for instance the Ontario Federal Election Boundary Commission final report on electoral boundaries.

In that report it was suggested that Northeastern Ontario would drop one Member of Parliament and that boundaries would be jiggged to make other ridings larger.

The Algoma-Manitoulin-Kapuskasing riding would disappear with the southern portion joining a larger Nickel-Belt riding, to be renamed Manitoulin-Nickel Belt. The other riding seeing boundary changes is Timmins-James Bay, which would expand to take in Smooth Rock Falls, Kapuskasing, Hearst and Hornepayne.

A number of Northern Ontario MPs have expressed their disappointment in the electoral boundary changes.

It’s suggested the number of ridings in the north be reduced from 10 to nine.

Of course we can’t compete with Southern Ontario in terms of population growth, and residents who need to access services from their elected members can’t jump on a subway or GO train either to get to constituency offices.

We also have unreliable internet access in the north, which also makes a difference to government services northerners need to access.

Timmins-James Bay MP Charlie Angus said, “The current proposal hurts people in Northern Ontario.”

Northerners should be concerned about this issue because it means we will have fewer voices, less representation and less funding for services in the north.

Are ridings in Quebec being changed?

We should never be penalized in terms of representation because a government doesn’t deem there to be enough votes in a region for their benefit.

There is still time for MPs to object to the current electoral boundary proposal, which must be filed by March 12.

The Commission will submit a final report to the Speaker of the House of Commons (Nipissing-Timiskaming’s own MP Anthony Rota) in June 2023.

The earliest any changes could be implemented is the spring of 2024.

Democracy is precious and riding boundaries matter.

How do we define family?

Perhaps most of us define family as being related by blood to another person, or the people we share a home with, or a beloved circle of friends, or even the family pets in our lives.

No matter what your definition of family is, it comes back to one thing - love.

All of the definitions of family were on display this past weekend at the fishing derby held in memory of 19-year-old Isaac Walker-Dupont.

I worked the Family Day long weekend and one of my duties was to attend the Family Day Fun Fishing Fundraiser, hosted at Windy Point on Lake Temiskaming.

All proceeds from the fishing derby are being directed to a fund set up at the Temiskaming Foundation in Isaac Walker-Dupont's name.

The money will go back into the community to support youth bowling, fishing and hunting programs.

The latter two are outdoor-based activities Isaac loved and valued in his all too short life.

I wish I had met Isaac as anyone who loves the outdoors like he did is in my good books.

Child loss is like no other and it is often misunderstood. Compassion is always needed.

Bereaved parents whose willingness to share their grief but also to turn that grief into something positive are special.

We saw it with the Team Shan organization that educates young women about breast health in memory of 24-year-old Shanna Larsen.

We witnessed it when the One Foot Forward event was created to honour the memory of toddler Greyson Zubyck.

We remember 17-year-old curler Danny Wilson and the Scholarship Fund created in Dan's name at The Temiskaming Foundation, established by parents Mark and Carol Wilson.

We remember Alex Duguay from Earlton whose life was tragically taken while walking home.

We have seen how people can look outside themselves and visualize how loss can be translated into a healing journey.

These events give people dealing with loss a sense of achievement despite their heavy burden of grief, thus alchemizing one's grief into positive ways

You don't get over the loss of a loved one or move on. There is no glue that can mend a broken heart.

I know this because my sister lost her only son, Adam David Larabie, when he was just 38 years of age. And I lost my precious nephew.

There is always going to be an empty chair at the table, an empty space in a family photograph.

The people who decide to turn the tragedy of child loss into transformation and legacy by giving back to their communities are brave warriors.

We can't understand the pain of a bereaved parent, only that we show our love and support.

5 types of exercise that boost heart health

Heart disease affects approximately 2.4 million Canadian adults. February is Heart Month in Canada, the perfect time to bring attention to the importance of cardiovascular health. Did you know exercise is one of the best ways to reduce your risk of heart disease? Here are five types of exercise to improve your heart health.

- 1. Brisk walking is a great way to increase energy levels, reduce cholesterol and strengthen your heart. Moreover, it's easier on your joints than other types of exercise like running.
- 2. Weight training builds lean muscle mass, which can help you burn more calories at rest, and in turn, help you maintain a healthy weight. It also reduces pericardial adipose tissue, a type of fat around the heart.
- 3. Cycling is an excellent aerobic exercise that helps improve your balance and coordination. It also strengthens the heart muscles, lowers resting pulse and reduces blood fat levels.
- 4. Yoga increases strength and flexibility and promotes relaxation and mindfulness. This helps relieve stress and reduce blood pressure.
- 5. Swimming is a full-body workout that's good for your heart and trains the body to use oxygen more efficiently. Swimming is also low impact, so it's a good activity for people of all ages and those with arthritis or joint pain.

Finally, the most important thing is to find an activity you enjoy and can integrate into your lifestyle. Aim for at least 150 minutes a week of moderate-intensity activity. Consult your doctor before starting a new exercise program.

CAA offers tips to cut travel costs

THORNHILL (Special) – Ontarians love to travel, but with costs rising due to inflation, it has become more important than ever to find ways to save money.

“This year, more and more people across the province are eager to embark on their next adventure, whether that means disconnecting in a tropical paradise or exploring the history of an ancient city,” says Susan Postma, regional manager, CAA Club Group, in a news release.

“While we are seeing a renewed interest in travel, we know the costs associated with it will be factor for many people.”

CAA South Central Ontario (CAA SCO) has a few tips to help save you money.

- Start planning your trip well in advance of your departure date.

Determine what your budget will allow and book flights, hotels, and rental cars early to get the best deals and rates possible.

With the higher demand for travel, last-minute planning will result in higher airfares, hotel rates and even disappointment from no availability.

- Redeem your loyalty points or member benefits.

Use frequent flyer miles or credit card points to pay for flights or hotels. Take advantage of CAA member benefits and discounts at hotels and attractions, or tap into hotel loyalty programs.

Now is your time to finally redeem all those accumulated rewards points from a member program or credit card.

Don't forget to check the expiration date on unused vouchers or credits.

- Look for hotels that include breakfast or allow self-catering.

Food costs continue to rise and will quickly eat into your budget when you're paying for three meals plus snacks each day.

A free breakfast, offered by many hotels, or a hotel room with a kitchenette or fridge will help reduce food costs and give you more money to put towards excursions and other experiences.

- Travel during off-peak times.

There are both days of the week and times of the year that are cheaper to travel. Consider travelling during these off-peak times or leaving during the week versus the weekend.

- Partner with a travel agent to get the best deal.

A travel agent will know when there are active sales. Travel promotions happen several times throughout the year, and a trusted travel agent will know the best time to book your next getaway.

While everyone likes a great deal, Postma said the one thing you should never skip is travel insurance.

“You may be in good health before your departure, but unexpected medical emergencies can still happen while you are away from home.

“If you get sick or injured, travel insurance is important to ensure your medical treatment is covered, along with any related out-of-pocket expenses.”

March is Nutrition Month – Unlock the Potential of Food

You've probably heard of people and food products trying to be more sustainable, but you may have also heard conflicting advice on what that means.

Top 5 Ways to Eat More Sustainably

1. Choose Plant Based Proteins More Often

Compared to animal proteins, plant-based proteins require less land, energy and water to produce. Eating more plant-based protein is also good for your health as these foods are a good source of fibre, vitamins and antioxidants as well as lower in saturated fat.

2. Reduce Food Waste

Did you know that about 60% of food produced in Canada is lost or wasted? There are lots of ways you can reduce your household's food waste. Here are some ideas to get you started:

- Plan your meals for the week and make a grocery list.
- Plan meals that include some of the same foods. For example, if you open a can of beans to make a salad, plan to make a bean chili the next day using the leftover beans.

3. Drink Tap Water

Drinking tap water instead of bottled is an easy way to make an environmentally friendly choice. Not only will you be cutting back on single-use plastic waste, you will also be reducing the emissions that are used to transport heavy bottled liquids to the store.

4. Buy locally grown produce

Not only does buying local support farmers and help the local economy, it also cuts down on the transportation needed for the food to get on your plate. Get to know your local farmers by visiting Farmers' Markets.

5. Grow Your Own Food

Growing your own food is a great way to learn about food and sustainability. Kids love to help in the garden and watch how food grows. Home gardens also help reduce the emissions from transportation.

Committed to keeping you as healthy as possible!

5 fresh bridalwear trends for 2023

What you wear as you walk down the aisle is one of the most significant decisions for your wedding day. Do you envision yourself in a classic bridal gown, or do traditional styles feel confining to you? To help you express your unique personality on your big day, 2023 has plenty of fresh design trends to inspire you.

1. Something blue

An alternative to classic white, blue is the darling of bridal dress designers for 2023. Look for gowns in shades like periwinkle, ice blue and cornflower.

2. The little white dress

If you have a playful spirit, a daring cocktail dress provides ease of movement so you can kick up your heels. Bridal designers offer an array of white party minidresses embellished with ornate details befitting the classic bridal gown.

3. Bridal pantsuits

Do you want a look that's less fairy princess but doesn't compromise on the drama? Bridal fashion is making huge strides with striking white heirloom separates. These immaculately tailored suit pieces will easily integrate with your post-wedding wardrobe. You may consider adding romantic flourishes like lace, bows or a tulle train.

4. High slits

Picture the classic bridal gown with a flash of femme fatale. An elongating glimpse of the leg can balance the fullness of your dress's silhouette. Wear a delicate strappy sandal to extend your leg line.

5. Conscientious choices

If you want to express your values in your gown choice, look for a brand that uses sustainable fabrics or repurposed antique lace. Some designers also contribute portions of their earnings to support environmental and social justice efforts.

News Release

February 17, 2023

Temiskaming Transit is excited to announce Voyago will commence Transit Operations effective February 21, 2023. The Transit Fleet is fully functional and the Voyago Team is ready to serve the community. Week one will be overall transition to Voyago Operations with the goal of full service by the end of the month.

Voyago has 43 years of public transit experience and provides several Conventional, Specialized (Accessible), and On-Demand Services throughout Ontario and beyond. Please join us in a warm welcome to Voyago!

It is clear, transit service is vital to our communities, and we thank everyone for their patience and understanding during the service transition and sincere appreciation to DK's Taxi and the Voyago Team for devoting service during the past several weeks to provide an interim solution. The commitment shown by all during the difficult transit transition is valued.

In recognition of the full-service disruption, all fares will be reduced to $2 for the period of February 27 – March 19, 2023. Individuals who purchased a monthly pass in either January or February will be provided a free one month pass. Monthly pass holders must contact City Hall at 705-672-3363 to obtain the free pass.

Please note: in an effort to be responsive and fiscally responsible, an updated peak demand operation schedule has also been established. The route will remain status quo and an updated grid schedule will be released soon.
