Darlene Wroe

Local Journalism Initiative Reporter

TEMISKAMING SHORES - The couple that has been working since 2018 to get a local homeless shelter set up in New Liskeard are now happy to announce that construction is underway.

Yves and Lianne Paillé envision an October opening for the shelter at 183 Broadwood Avenue, a short distance from Lakeshore Road. The location, a former dry-cleaning facility, is being prepared for renovations including the construction of showers, examining rooms and new plumbing and heating.

Zack's Crib has brought people together from across the district with a board of volunteers, as well as the District of Timiskaming Social Services Administration Board (DTSSAB), and important volunteer support such as former Timmins shelter manager Jason Serada and project manager Josh Kacur of MaJIC.

The project encountered delays due to the COVID pandemic.

Speaking at their business Yves' Prime Cut Meats in New Liskeard, the couple reflected on the challenges in getting the project to this point.

"It was hard to find a contractor and then with the prices, the budget was blown because of the cost of the material, so we stepped back and re-assessed everything and that's why I did a new blitz," said Yves.

Corporate Temiskaming was approached in an effort to raise the additional funds to keep the project going. Now having reached $270,000, the project is back on track, but fundraising continues to meet future and ongoing costs once the operation begins.

TBK Construction is the contractor for the project, and MaJIC has been providing the engineering needed in the project.

TIME IS MELTING

Businesses and individuals across Temiskaming have been providing support.

Miller Paving and TIME Ltd. have each donated $20,000. There have also been donations from many individuals who wish to remain anonymous, he said. Elk Lake Interfor will be supplying all lumber, he added.

Earlton TimberMart is also donating building materials, and Nor-Arc has donated $10,000, including metal products that contractors are going to need.

The New Liskeard Lions Club has kicked-in $5,000 and EastLink has donated five years of internet, telephone and cable service.

Gutter Man has donated material and installed an eavestrough on the building as well.

Construction underway for Zack's Crib

The United Way Reaching Home has approved funding Zack's Crib (with certain criteria needed to be filled) with a grant of $125,000.

"Now we have started an operations sub-committee,"

he said.

Zack's Crib will be one of the recipients of the funds which will be raised this summer through the annual North on Tap event, and funds will also be raised for Zack's Crib with the return of the Elk Lake Civic Holiday Ball Tournament.

Volunteers are being requested to assist at both events.

People interested in volunteering for these or other activities can go to zackscrib.org where there are forms to fill out and indicate the ways in which they could assist, said Lianne.

Monetary donations are still being accepted, and donations of construction materials are also still being sought.

The storage units are currently filled with goods and clothing, although donations of food and clothing will be needed once the shelter starts operating this fall, Yves said.

Ontario marks International Francophonie Day

TORONTO – To mark International Francophonie Day March 20, Francophone Affairs Minister Caroline Mulroney issued the following statement:

It is with great pride that our government marks International Francophonie Day and acknowledges its symbolic importance for the Francophones and Francophiles of Ontario, Canada and the world.

With its rich heritage and a history spanning more than 400 years, Ontario's Francophonie is an invaluable asset to our province. We salute Francophones' commitment, energy and know-how as they work passionately to bring about a modern Francophonie and secure a promising cultural, social and economic future.

As evidenced by Ontario's participation in the 18th Summit of the International Organization of La Francophonie, our government is actively striving to promote Ontario's French-speaking community and to highlight its institutions, its businesses and its associations.

In fact, the signing at the Summit of a memorandum of understanding with the Francophone community of Belgium was Ontario's first international agreement to advance the Francophonie.

French-speaking Ontario, which is a choice destination for the broader Francophone community, is more dynamic than ever, and its openness to the world bodes well for the increasing reach of the French language in Canada and beyond.

EDITORIAL

Give us a break

Most of us can agree that the economy is in a mess right now.

Food prices are at an all time high and individuals and families are making tough decisions whether to pay the rent or put food on the table.

Gas prices are placing strains on businesses that deliver goods and it is placing limits on drivers' abilities to get to essential services like medical appointments.

The housing crisis is pushing the dreams of home ownership right out of reach for so many.

Without a doubt, Ontarians and Temiskaming residents are feeling the pinch.

All these challenges are causing tough times for us all.

While the rich are going to ride out these economic glitches, the little guy or gal is being beaten down by it all.

Credit card debt is at an all time high as Canadians are using credit for everyday essentials.

Isn't it time municipal, provincial and federal governments help people out?

Governments can do this by eliminating or reducing income taxes, carbon taxes, sales taxes, license and other renewal fees, photocopy fees and fees for providing documents such as receipts for tax purposes, etc.

Premier Doug Ford got it right when he eliminated the license plate sticker renewal fees for Ontarians.

And on the federal government side, the GST tax credit was boosted for a six-month period to give Canadians a much-needed break.

We would like to see more of those boosts so the average person gets a break.

With billions of dollars of taxpayer monies in government coffers, now would be a good time to use them to benefit the people who pay the bills.

All levels of government are maintained and funded by citizen tax dollars.

Nature's potency

“Walk as if you are kissing the earth with your feet.” Thich Nhat Hanh

I threw the covers over my head and went back to bed.

I had just read an article that said Ontarians have just experienced the darkest winter in more than 80 years.

I knew I had been popping Vitamin D supplements for a reason.

Throw in that darned time change and things seemed unusually dreary.

If there was a reason to head south for a couple of weeks, this winter was it.

I broke up the winter by house sitting for a friend who was indeed in the sunny south enjoying all that sunshine.

Apparently, the worst month for a lack of sunshine was January, says the European Centre for Medium Range Forecasting.

The facts can speak for themselves, but I prefer to view the winter with the words of poet Mary Oliver in mind. “Still, what I want in my life is to be dazzled — to cast aside the weight of facts and maybe float a little above this difficult world.”

The floating aspect - I can hardly wait to push off from shore in my blue canoe.

I leave all the drama and the negativity of our hurried, harried world behind me. I am opening the door to the temple.

This idea of sacredness about the land, the water and the sky is how our Indigenous brothers and sisters live. The Algonquin people of our region have lived on the land for countless generations. Their ingenuity created the canoe and their spirituality has wisdom beyond our comprehension.

Indigenous people understand the land is not a commodity to be bought and sold, but a living entity on which life is sustained.

The age of the canoe is no longer one of trade and commerce but of a deep connection to the wild.

I think we have, in many ways, forgotten what the wild is. It is a place of silence and solitude.

It is about connectedness to the natural world around us that perhaps we have all forgotten.

We are all connected, all one and we need each other.

I can hardly wait to take my shoes and socks off and stroll through dew-soaked grass in the early morning hours when the light is golden and the loon is calling for its mate.

Nature holds space for the fullness of life, the unexplainable, the feelings of awe.

The water, the earth and the sky are the salve badly needed in these troubling times.

These days, screen-addicted Canadians are more stressed out than ever.

Getting close to the land requires no scripture, no dress code, no crystals or essential oils, no plan A or B, no flowing robes, it just is.

To the “spiritual not religious” folk like myself, I feel extremely blessed to live in this wild Temiskaming region.

Sue Nielsen

Investing in crypto?

OTTAWA (Special) – With tax season underway, the Canada Revenue Agency (CRA) is clarifying filing and cryptocurrency.

And what is cryptocurrency?

In a news release, the CRA explains that cryptocurrency is a type of virtual asset that is protected using cryptography. It typically uses a system called a blockchain to record and keep a history of transactions.

Cryptocurrencies, such as Bitcoin and Ether, are independent, meaning they do not rely on governments, central banks, or other central authorities for backing.

You can obtain cryptocurrency in many ways, and new methods are being developed all the time. You can use cryptocurrencies for a wide range of activities, such as buying goods, paying bills, or investing.

Transactions involving cryptocurrencies often have tax implications.

The value of a cryptocurrency usually changes with supply and demand. It can go up and down in value, similar to a stock investment or currency exchange rate.

You can buy cryptocurrency through an exchange and hold

Call 1-844 POISON-X number to reach poison centres

OTTAWA (Special) – Each year in Canada, more than 1,500 people lose their lives and nearly 8,000 are hospitalized due to unintentional poisoning from medications, cleaners, cannabis products, and many other household items.

Health Canada has launched a new toll-free number –1-844 POISON-X, or 1-844-764-7669 – to make it easier for people in Canada to access critical medical advice for poisonings.

“Through this new toll-free number, it will be easier to reach a poison centre when it is most needed and help prevent severe illnesses and death,” said Health Minister Jean Yves Duclos in a news release. “As a result, this will also add a layer of resilience to the health care system by reducing unnecessary visits to emergency rooms, clinics, and the doctor’s office.”

The federal agency said there are currently nine different phone numbers to access five poison centres in Canada.

But many Canadians don’t know the phone number for their local poison centre or even that the service is available.

Callers can now use the new number and be rerouted to their local poison centre regardless of where they are calling from.

The current provincial numbers remain in service and Canadians can continue using them.

Health Canada encourages everyone to save the number in their phones, and include it in their action plans in the event of a poisoning.

“Accidental poisonings can happen to anyone at anytime – including from over-the-counter medicines, prescription drugs, illicit substances, alcohol and cannabis,” Carolyn Bennett, minister of mental health and addictions.

“This new toll-free number will help to save lives, while also helping more Canadians access quality, timely, and evidence-based poison prevention education and related health care expertise.”

“A single toll-free number to access the essential services of poison centres across Canada has been a long time coming and has been the vision of the Canadian Association of Poison Centres and Clinical Toxicology for over 20 years,” said the association’s president, Dr. Margaret Thompson.

“Health Canada has embraced our vision and has made this possible for all Canadians with funding and hundreds of hours of work. We are grateful and excited to see its institution.”

Poison centres are 24/7 access points for medical professionals and the public to access treatment advice for exposure to drugs and chemicals.

They manage almost two-thirds of cases remotely without the requirement to enter a health care facility.

In 2020, they handled 215,589 cases. More than one-third involved a child aged five or younger.

The most common substances involved were medications for pain relief (analgesics) and household cleaning products, such as bleach.

The federal government is working with all provinces and territories for the implementation of 1-844 POISON-X.

Quebec will continue using its current provincial toll-free number. If a caller indicates that they are accessing the national toll-free service from Quebec, they will be instructed to contact the Centre antipoison du Québec (1-800-463-5060).

it in a digital wallet. Each type of cryptocurrency has its own value and is held separate from others.

Generally, cryptocurrency holdings are not taxed.

However, you need to keep records on the cryptocurrency that you buy and hold so that you can report them on your income tax return when you dispose of them.

You may sell your cryptocurrency for a profit or loss.

Selling cryptocurrency is called disposing of it. And when you do, there can be tax implications.

The profit that you earn from its sale or trade is taxable as either capital gains or business income, and you need to report that income on your tax return. To ensure correct reporting, you must keep accurate records of your purchases and sales of cryptocurrency.

If you didn't report your income or capital gains from transactions in cryptocurrency, you may have to pay tax, penalties and interest on that income or capital gain.

You can avoid or reduce penalties and interest by voluntarily correcting your tax affairs. To correct your tax affairs (including corrections to GST/HST returns) and to report income that you did not report in previous years, you may:

- Ask for a change to your income tax and benefit return.
- Adjust a GST/HST return.
- Apply for a correction through the Voluntary Disclosures Program.

The CRA is currently updating the Guide for cryptocurrency users and tax professionals. Make sure to stay informed by checking in for the most up-to-date information.

Information on how to report your income or capital gains from cryptocurrency transactions in your tax filings can also be found in CRA guides T4037 Capital Gains and T4002 Self-employed Business, Professional, Commission, Farming, and Fishing Income.

March is Liver Health Month

The liver is the largest internal organ in the body. It's located in the right upper quadrant of the abdomen, immediately under the diaphragm. It is divided into lobes; a large right lobe and a smaller left lobe that tapers to a tip.

It is estimated that 20% of Canadians have non-alcoholic fatty liver disease (NAFLD). NAFLD often has no symptoms and may be living silently in your body until it reaches an advanced stage, where cirrhosis, liver cancer and liver failure can be developed.

Nutrition

- A change in diet plays a significant part in how NAFLD may be treated and certainly how it can be prevented. Consuming too much sugar and saturated fat in your diet can have a similar effect as too much alcohol—fat build-up in the liver.

Added Sugar

- The World Health Organization (WHO) guideline recommends adults and children reduce their daily intake of added sugars to less than 10% of their total energy intake. That's less than 50 grams of added sugars per day!

Physical Activity

- Recognizing the difference between physical activity and exercise is the first step to living a lifestyle filled with more movement! While exercise is something best done with a moderate to high intensity and a structured routine, the goal of physical activity is to do anything you can that gets you moving and can be physically demanding.

Sleep and Your Overall Health

- If you were to weigh how important sleep is to your liver health, how far high up or down would it fall on the list? Sleep affects so many parts of life like our mental health, and it should be valued just as much as eating right and getting enough physical activity throughout the day. Many Canadians do not get enough sleep, and the impact can be seen on their liver health.

Prevention is the best way to ensure your liver is functioning at peak performance. Be sure to see your health care provider for regular checkups so she/he can identify potential problems before they start. Take extra care by asking your provider for a liver test if you have any concerns.

4 tips for a winning marriage proposal

Has the subject of marriage come up in conversations with your sweetheart? Does it feel like the right time to pop the big question? Here are four tips to help you make your proposal unique and unforgettable.

1. Think about your personalities

If you or your partner are shy, a public proposal with lots of people watching might not be the best idea. Instead, choose an intimate moment. For example, in the comfort of your home, while taking a walk or during a romantic picnic. If you don't want it to be entirely private, consider including a few of your closest friends to make it meaningful.

2. Plan your proposal

Ideally, choose a moment when you won't be too pressed for time to avoid needless stress. While it may seem there's never an ideal time to propose, it's in your best interest not to rush it.

3. Pay attention to your presentation

Even if an engagement ring isn't essential to you, the moment of presentation is the heart and soul of the marriage proposal. Choose the ring carefully, subtly taking note of your partner's tastes while passing a jewelry shop window, for example.

4. Consider the element of surprise

Even if you and your partner frequently talk about marriage, the element of surprise is key to a memorable proposal. Make your plans discreetly, and be sure that the loved ones you enlist help keep the secret safe.

Start exploring your area to find the perfect ring and plan the perfect place and time for your marriage proposal.

WE DON'T BREW OUR BEER FOR THE AWARDS.

BUT HE DOES!

Our brewmaster, Andrew Kohlen, threw away a successful career in logistics to pursue his dream of reconnecting with the brewing roots of his family. This carried him to the UK's prestigious Brewlab in Sunderland, England, where he procured the alchemy that would drive his signature brewing style.

He took what he could from there and ventured to Scotland, Cornwall, and ultimately to Krefeld, Germany, working in the same brewery that had belonged to his ancestors. He came home to Canada for Hockley.

You could call it dumb, but we call it destiny.
