City prepping for winter's challenges

TEMISKAMING SHORES (Staff) – When winter will strike is unknown, but the city is trying to be ready.

Temiskaming Shores council has approved its 2023-24 winter operations plan.

The plan and associated bylaws run almost 100 pages. It details how the city will handle plowing, salt and sand use, sidewalk and snowbank clearing, and schedules.

It will kick in on or about November 5, and end about five months later in early April.

"Every winter season brings new, unique and unpredictable conditions and circumstances that the Public Works Department is tasked with dealing with," wrote Mitch McCrank, the city's manager of transportation services, in a report to city council earlier this month.

"Over the past several winters, conditions have varied from relatively mild to extremely cold and from light snowfalls to extended periods of heavy snowfall."

He said the department does its very best to stay on schedule and ensure all can use the roads and sidewalks safely.

He said higher priority events can occasionally force a change in the schedule, and asked for residents' patience "as we tackle all events and know that we will get there."

He said the department is at full complement, with one staffer on leave and a temporary seasonal patrol person called in once again. More on 3

Shoalts canoed from the shores of Long Point on Lake Erie to the Arctic Coast of Ungava Bay.

He will share photos and video clips of his three-month adventure as well as sign copies of his newest book.

EDITORIAL

Your community newspaper

The Friday night hockey games, the information on tax increases from local municipalities, plans for a major event on Canada Day, the opening of a new business and the death of a beloved community member.

This is all news important to the lives of people living in the Temiskaming Speaker's coverage area.

We are your local community newspaper bringing you a trusted, reliable source of news on a weekly basis.

We have been doing this for over 115 years.

During National Newspaper Week, The Speaker and Weekender newspapers celebrate the local content that fills our pages from week to week.

The news in South Temiskaming is not just a one-way street. We give you, the reader, an opportunity to have your say in the Letters to the Editor section.

We also promote not-for-profit groups in our area that need to get the word out about what they are doing to help the people in this region.

One of the biggest impacts newspapers have on the community is the fact that we are the paper of record for the Temiskaming region.

This means that whatever content goes into our newspaper is archived and will make its way to microfilm available for public research and perusal at the Temiskaming Shores Public Library.

When news items get posted on social media they may last a week or a few months, while newspapers act as the paper of record for a community.

When scholars, writers, archivists, historians, and genealogists come looking for information on this region and what happened 10, 25, 50 and 100 years ago, they won't find it on social media platforms.

They will find it in the pages of The Speaker.

When someone wants to read about the school they went to years ago or the community event they loved, it will all be found here.

Thanks to all the individuals, groups, sporting teams and community groups who call us for coverage and who trust us to provide accurate, informative news in a world often full of misinformation.

On ancient wings

Sandhill cranes (Antigone Canadensis) are migrating through our region and through Northwestern Quebec by the thousands.

These large birds have a distinctive call that you can hear from miles away.

My fascination began with these birds when on a clear spring morning three of them circled directly over my head and landed on Sharp Lake.

They were looking for a spot to rest and perhaps find food but the lake was still covered with ice.

I watched as they walked across the ice towards a small open section of the lake where beavers and otters appeared from time to time.

They drank water from the lake and then appeared to settle in for a brief rest period.

All the while I was snapping photos of these majestic birds with that special notch in their beaks, their orange eyes, red head feathers and large wing-spans.

According to the Smithsonian Institution, sandhill cranes eat mostly plant materials but will snack on crayfish, minnows and snails if available.

They typically fly a mile above the ground but, according to some sources, can soar up to 20,000 feet high or more.

During migration they may travel over 200 miles in one day reaching speeds of 35 miles per hour.

Nature got it right with these birds. They are prehistoric birds having been around for over two million years. A sandhill crane fossil was found in the Macasphalt Shell Pit in Florida, estimated to be 2.5 million years old.

Sue Nielsen

As I have observed these fascinating birds over the last few years I notice how they dance in the fields. This is their courtship dance where they jump up and spread their big wings, which can be up to seven feet wide.

Like common loons, sandhill cranes mate for life. The female is called a mare and the male is called a roan.

I think this must have been a good hatch year for the cranes as people in this region are seeing huge flocks of them landing in the fields this fall.

Perhaps climate change will force more of the birds to live in more northern climates like the bald eagle has done.

Not only are the sandhill cranes migrating through our area but hundreds of other species of birds are travelling to wintering grounds in the Southern United States, Mexico and South America.

Please take me with you, ha, ha.

Soon it will be Daylight Savings Time, the clocks will go back an hour and we will see increased darkness the first week of November. Ugh.

I do not understand the relevance of this time change at all.

Until then, I shall enjoy when the sun hits a flock of cranes flying up from the fields, all golden and glowing with beauty and light.

Now is the time to prepare your Christmas wines.

Spirometry Screening for Asthma and COPD

Spirometry is a common and effective diagnostic test that can easily be done in your health care provider's office. Spirometry is the most reliable way to test your lungs for COPD (chronic obstructive pulmonary disease) and asthma. The earlier it's done, the earlier lung disease can be detected and treated.

Who should have spirometry testing?

People with asthma

Spirometry is an important diagnosis and management tool for people with asthma. If you have asthma and have never had a spirometry test, please talk to our respiratory therapist about spirometry.

Smokers and former smokers

If you are over 40 and smoke or used to smoke, you may have COPD. Take this quick test:

	Yes	No
1 Do you cough regularly?	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
2 Do you cough up phlegm regularly?	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
3 Do even simple chores make you short of breath?	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
4 Do you wheeze when you exert yourself (exercise, go up stairs)?	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
5 Do you get many colds, and do your colds usually last longer than your friends' colds?	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>

If you answered "Yes" to one or more of these questions, you may have symptoms of COPD. See our respiratory therapist to find out what is causing your symptoms

Why should I see a respiratory therapist? Can't it wait?

If you get early treatment for COPD you can slow down the damage to your lungs.

If you are a patient of the Temagami Family Health Team and would like to have spirometry screening with our Registered Respiratory Therapist, please call (705) 569-3244 to request an appointment.

Early detection and intervention contribute to the best possible health outcomes!

Local artist is Learning To Try

ages that are blended together in a nearly abstract manner that softens the jarring contrasts of such diverse contents," said Greyson in his artist's statement.

"I have made beautiful paintings in a traditional manner that fully exploits the inherent qualities of oil paint. Despite their attractiveness the paintings depict the most dire interpretation of our failures but end with the obstinate invitation to keep trying."

Greyson related in a telephone interview that when he was a child living in London, Ontario, his mother frequently took the family to the London Public Library and Art Museum there. Among the gallery's collection were works by the Group of Seven. The family also attended curated art shows.

He said that in his late 20s he realized that "the Group of Seven made these iconic pictures of the Canadian landscape but they didn't really have much to say about how the landscape was changed."

He read letters and books with statements by the members of the Group of Seven and realized "they actually had a lot of sympathies with environmental ideas at that time." However paintings of the time did not tend to include that kind of content, he said.

Greyson resolved that his art would include content, and in particular content about "our dire environmental situation, particularly in the light of the past summer. We had all those fires." He said it is his understanding that the fires are "the result of the northern parts of Canada warming, and that we can expect that kind of thing to go on until we manage to change that particular dynamic and get things to stabilize."

Greyson works in oil on hardboard, masonite, and also on canvas.

"I love oil painting," he said, and added that he enjoys going into the outdoors with his paint supplies and a thermos of coffee and spending three or four hours painting what he's seeing.

Greyson said he intends to continue exploring and documenting the region and humanity's relationship with nature.

He studied painting at the Ontario College of Art (now OCAD University).

He has worked at the Isaac's Gallery in Toronto, and then as an artist working in advertising agencies and in interior decorating studios in Toronto. He has participated in a number of Toronto art shows.

Locally he has participated in a number of group exhibitions at the Temiskaming Art Gallery, and has also held a solo show at the Mezzanine Gallery at the Cobalt Classic Theatre.

Greyson's paintings are on display at the Temiskaming Art Gallery along with art works by Peterborough artist Rob Niezen and Englehart artist Chelsea Smith until November 3.

Cross Cut explores traditional folk songs

TEMISKAMING SHORES (Staff/Special) - Rob Niezen's art works continue to be shown at the Temiskaming Art Gallery in Haileybury until November 3.

His exhibition, Cross Cut: traditional Ontario folk songs revisited, is on a tour throughout Ontario. The exhibition includes a series of linocuts reflecting on traditional songs from Ontario with a contemporary perspective.

Niezen, who works mostly in oils, is a painter, printmaker and illustrator.

His art has been shown in solo exhibitions at Agnes Jamieson Gallery, Art Gallery of Northumberland, John M. Parrot Gallery and Art Gallery of Bancroft. He has also participated in over 40 juried exhibitions as well as the annual Kawartha Tour organized by the Art Gallery of Peterborough.

A songbook co-produced with music historian Dr. Allan Kirby, and a music CD with traditional music group Backwoodsmen, are also part of the Cross Cut project.

Notice of Study Commencement Highway 11 Pilot Project – Detail Design of the 2+1 Roadway Model

THE PROJECT

The Ministry of Transportation (MTO) has retained AECOM Canada Ltd (AECOM) to undertake the Detail Design Study and Class Environmental Assessment (EA) for a 2+1 Roadway Model Pilot Project on Highway 11, between the City of North Bay and the Municipality of Temagami. A 2+1 highway is three-lane highway that typically involves a passing lane that changes directions approximately every two (2) to five (5) kilometres. The two locations selected for the Project include the following as shown on the key map:

- GWP 5151-22-00: Highway 11 from Sand Dam Road northerly to Ellsmere Road (13.8 km) located in the Townships of Sisk, Olive and Law in the District of Nipissing in the Electoral Riding of Temiskaming-Cochrane.
- GWP 5033-21-00: Highway 11 from 4.6 km north of Highway 64 northerly 11.4 km to 340 m south of Jumping Caribou Road in the Townships of Merrick, Blyth, Notman and Lyman in the District of Nipissing in the Electoral Riding of Temiskaming-Cochrane.

The purpose of the Project is to reconstruct/reconfigure and widen Highway 11 in the two locations to accommodate a 2+1 facility, rehabilitate other elements including frost heaves and pavement distress areas, and complete various operational improvements.

THE PROCESS

This study will follow the approved planning process for a Group 'B' Project under the Class Environmental Assessment for Provincial Transportation Facilities (Class EA).

Alternatives will be generated and evaluated based on technical and environmental factors and in consultation with Indigenous communities, public, stakeholders, municipalities and government agencies. A Public Information Centre (PIC) will be held during this Study to provide interested parties with the opportunity to discuss the Study and provide input to the Project Team.

Upon Study completion, a Transportation Environmental Study Report (TESR) will be prepared and made available for a 30-day public and agency comment period.

Notifications advising of the time and location of the PIC and of the availability of the TESR for comment will be published in local newspapers, mailed or e-mailed to those on the Study mailing list, and information will be made available on the Study website.

HOW TO PARTICIPATE

We encourage your participation in the Study and are interested in receiving your comments regarding this Project. Please visit the project website for up-to-date Project information or to be added to the Project Contact List. If you have any requirements under the Ontarians with Disabilities Act in order to participate in this Project, please contact the Project Team directly by email or through the project website "Contact Us" page.

Cross Cut explores traditional folk songs

His work is in private and corporate collections across Canada, including Peterborough Regional Health Centre, SickKids Toronto and Siemens Canada, as well as in Germany, Netherlands, New Zealand, the United Kingdom and the United States.

Niezen stated that he is partly self taught and studied at Vrije Akademies in The Hague and Delft, Netherlands, (drawing and painting), at the Art School of Peterborough (painting), and at the Haliburton School of the Arts (printmaking). He was born in The Hague, the Netherlands, and lives and works in Douro, Ontario.

An amateur musician, local traditional music and its narratives interested him, he continued.

“The exhibition aims to connect our recent history and today’s society, and the issues we face as citizens of Ontario and Canada, and invites viewers to reflect on what’s happening with them and around them. Superficially things have changed, but the human conditions now seem not that different from 100 or 200 years ago.

Has life improved, or is progress only on a materialistic level? Folk songs make global issues accessible to everyone, as they are created and sung by real people telling real human stories.”

He continued that “the concept for this exhibition borrows a technique from film editing to illustrate a narrative action that happens in several places at the same time, or in one place at different times, known as ‘crosscutting.’ Crosscutting is also a term describing cutting wood perpendicular to the wood grain. The linocuts I made for Cross Cut use both the traditional method of carving, and contemporary and experimental ways of mark making, including drilling, scratching, laser engraving and etching - going against the grain of the traditional technique, as it were. Linocuts, originating around 1900, and initially used in school art classes, invoke the era of the chosen traditional songs. By using innovative techniques, and adding contemporary elements to historical scenes, I convey the parallels and juxtapositions of then and now.”

His work is on display at TAG along with the works of Haileybury artist Peter Greyson, and Englehart artist Chelsea Smith.

The luckiest signs this week:
Cancer, Leo and Virgo

March 21 - April 19

ARIES Make sure you have your smartphone and GPS fully charged and programmed before hitting the road. You'll avoid confusion and be able to keep in touch with important people.

April 20 - May 20

May 21 - June 21

GEMINI You'll have the opportunity to be at the forefront of an exciting experience. Your actions will help move things forward. At work, you'll have all the tools you need to obtain financing or get a raise.

June 22 - July 22

CANCER The week will start off chaotic. You'll probably need a second cup of coffee to avoid procrastinating. However, a little daydreaming could help boost your creativity.

July 23 - August 22

LEO Your colleagues or friends could ask you to organize most of the plans when you'd rather take a back seat. You'll impress others by trusting your skills.

August 23 - September 22

VIRGO If your company is undergoing structural changes, you could be worried about your future within it. However, you have a good chance of being promoted to an upper management position.

September 23 - October 22

LIBRA You could suddenly be inspired by a training program, which will lead to an exciting new career. If you're a spiritual person, you'll feel the need to deepen your convictions.

October 23 - November 21

SCORPIO You'll be more sensitive and easily moved than usual this week. Although change can induce anxiety, it can also be liberating. You'll take the necessary steps to purchase a property.

November 22 - December 21

December 22 - January 19

CAPRICORN You'll have a lot of work to do this week. However, you may come down with a cold that could compromise your productivity. Be sure to take better care of your health, and don't neglect your sleep.

January 20 - February 18

AQUARIUS You'll draw attention to yourself for a particular reason. Fortunately, you'll use your playful side to lighten the mood. You may be told a secret that leaves you perplexed.

February 19 - March 20

PISCES You may need to perform some home repairs before winter. If you're thinking about moving, make a plan to ease the transition. A family member may cause you concern.

Do you know the risk factors associated with breast cancer?

October is Breast Cancer Awareness Month across Canada. Even though this disease has many causes, several factors can increase the risk of contracting it. Here's an overview of some of those risk factors.

1. Previous conditions. You're more vulnerable to developing breast cancer if abnormal cells have been detected in your breasts in the past or if you've had previous abnormalities.
2. Age. More than 80 per cent of cases in Canada occur in women over the age of 50.
3. Alcohol. According to the World Health Organization (WHO), drinking one beer or one glass of wine per day is enough to increase your risk significantly.
4. Menstrual cycle. Early menstruation and late menopause are linked to the possibility of developing the disease.
5. Family history. Your risk of getting the disease is higher if your mother, sister or daughter has been diagnosed with breast cancer, especially if it was before menopause.
6. Pregnancy complications. Your risk increases if you've never carried a pregnancy to full term or if you've been pregnant after the age of 30.
7. Body weight. People who are obese have a higher statistical likelihood of getting breast cancer.
8. Taking hormones. Undergoing hormone replacement therapy for more than five years is associated with the onset of this type of cancer.
9. Physical inactivity. A sedentary lifestyle increases the likelihood of a breast cancer diagnosis.
