Dancers stepping out and getting in line

Darlene Wroe

Local Journalism Initiative

DISTRICT - Line dancing is taking off in the area.

New Liskeard, Hailleybury, and Earleton are among the communities that have a growing number of participants lining up to learn the steps, have some fun, and get some exercise at the same time.

The activity is also popular in neighbouring Quebec communities.

Renée Lendt is the instructor for the line dancing courses offered under the City of Temiskaming Shores' Age Friendly activities.

With 30 years of experience teaching line dancing, she has been with the city for three years. She is providing beginner instructions at the Lawrence "Bun" Eckensviller Community Hall in New Liskeard on Tuesday mornings, and improver lessons upstairs at the Haileybury Shelley Herbert-Shea Memorial Arena on Thursday mornings from 11 a.m. to noon, where the dances are a little more complicated.

Lendt is also a line

dance instructor in neighbouring Quebec communities where the activity is also popular. She coordinates with presidents of seniors' clubs there to form a circuit where line dancing enthusiasts get together on Saturday nights in one community or the other, according to a schedule that takes them through the months from September to May.

"It's taken off quite well," said Lendt in a telephone interview.

"It's growing more and more."

While the Temiskaming Shores line dancing classes are known officially as an Age Friendly activity, it's open to adults of all ages.

"It works your body, and it works your mind," said Lendt. "You have to learn steps."

The classes are free.

In Earleton, line dancing has been getting a good reception since starting up in early January, led by Denis Loranger, with music assistance by Suzanne Gauthier, who are both students of Lendt.

In Earleton, about 35 people are attending each Monday night.

Leaders of this group are hoping to build up the line dancing opportunities in Earleton, and hopefully to join a circuit of communities where line dancing happens on a regular basis.

Gauthier said it is "good fun, no alcohol.... It's a really good activity. It's a form of exercise. It's not easy at the beginning. Your brain has to connect with your feet."

EASTER HOPPERS

The New Liskeard Downtown BIA created a fun way for hoppers and shoppers to get into the Easter mood on March 30. They could go to downtown businesses and collect stamps, and treats, and then turn in the filled card at the library to earn a chance at a gift certificate from a BIA business. Abby Ruddy (from the left) and Georgia Peters helped to check the stamps like those collected by sisters Jordyn, seven, and Jasmyn Durling, five. (Staff photo by Steven Larocque)

COMPETITION RULES

There was competition on the ice and off, as players and spectators at the recent AC 15 Alexa Corneil Memorial Ladies Hockey Tournament could learn how to do CPR, with the quality of their compressions assessed and ranked. Taking part in an educational session were Sam McCormick, left, and Julia Sayers from Batchawana Bay north of Sault Ste. Marie. Parkinson's Awareness Parkinson's is a neurodegenerative disease. Movement is normally controlled by dopamine, a chemical that carries signals between the nerves in the brain. When cells that normally produce dopamine die, the symptoms of Parkinson's appear.

MOST COMMON SYMPTOMS

- Tremor
- Slowness and stiffness
- Impaired balance
- Rigidity of the muscles

OTHER SYMPTOMS

- Fatigue
- Soft speech
- Problems with handwriting
- Stooped posture
- Constipation
- Sleep disturbances

A diagnosis of Parkinson's can take time. You may be referred to a neurologist – a specialist who deals with Parkinson's. There are no x-rays or tests to confirm Parkinson's so the neurologist will check your medical history, do a careful physical examination and certain tests to rule out other conditions that may resemble Parkinson's.

Currently there is no cure. You can live with Parkinson's for years. The symptoms are typically treated with medication, but some people with Parkinson's may benefit from surgery. The following therapies can also help manage the symptoms:

- Physical therapy helps mobility, flexibility, and balance
- Occupational therapy helps with daily activities
- Speech therapy helps with voice control
- Exercise helps muscles and joints and improves overall health and well-being

Every Parkinson's experience is unique. The symptoms and progression will vary from person to person. Living with Parkinson's requires an individualized approach.

If you are experiencing the symptoms noted above and are concerned you might have Parkinson's, schedule an appointment with your primary care provider to discuss your concerns. It is important for you to be an active participant in your health care.

Committed to keeping you healthy!!

EDITORIAL

The cruellest month

The poetic line "April is the cruellest month" is a line we remember each spring.

The line works well in Northern Ontario as the April weather can trick us into believing spring has arrived, and then in a flash change back to winter.

But aside from the weather, Northerners might feel a bit of cruelty from the rise in gasoline prices as of April 1.

The price increase was predicted when the carbon tax increase kicked in on the first day of the month.

Not only will we have to pay more for gasoline and diesel, but because of that, trucking companies and businesses that move goods will no doubt hike their prices.

It's a ripple effect.

Is the tax pitting people who are against the high cost of living with climate change promoters?

You can recognize climate change is real and still be anti-carbon tax because of the costs placed on people struggling to make ends meet.

Is the carbon tax something Northerners can afford?

The government rebates may not make a whole lot of sense if you think the government giveth and taketh away in the same breath.

The carbon tax raises the cost of 22 types of fossil fuel energy in all, increasing the cost of almost everything because almost all goods and services require fossil fuel energy to be produced.

Hats off to the local man who felt it necessary to speak up about the tax by singlehandedly organizing a local rally in New Liskeard on April 1.

Exactly how this all offsets climate change is a question on many people's minds.

The dreamers

“Dream on, dream on.” Aerosmith

Sue Nielsen

I have really been enjoying the NCAA women’s basketball finals where it is now down to the final four.

Caitlyn Clark, the Iowa Buckeyes superstar, led her team to a win over the powerful Louisiana team, which won the NCAA championship last year.

The cool thing about the games is that so many men, women and kids are watching the women’s game.

Whether it is women’s basketball, hockey, soccer or tennis, the women’s game has seen a huge jump in popularity and growth of late.

That’s because the narrative around women’s sports has changed.

We now see the major news networks reporting the scores and outcomes of women’s sports.

I have also been loving Professional Women’s Hockey League games and seeing a complete narrative change around women’s hockey.

Isn’t it about time the women’s games get the same coverage as the men’s sports?

I mean this isn’t the 1950s anymore.

I watched an interesting documentary the other day called The Barbie Dream Gap Project, where by age five the message sent to young girls is you can’t be the president or the prime minister, astronauts, scientists and great thinkers.

The challenges don’t exist in the hearts and minds of young women saying they can’t achieve, but rather it is a message that society sends that is the problem.

So essentially the dream gap is what exists between the aspirations of young girls versus what they can achieve because of limits placed on them.

The documentary pointed out that female children are less likely to receive a science-based toy than a boy and parents Google “How to tell if my son is gifted,” way more than “How to tell if my daughter is gifted.”

The Dream Gap Project says in order for young girls to be successful at whatever they choose to do in their lives, they need role models.

It is important to challenge the harmful messages about young girls by exposing them to positive role models.

And there certainly is no shortage of incredible female role models around our region and across the world these days.

I always told my daughter that she can do and be anything she wants in life and yet she would come home sobbing because her basketball coach had bullied her.

He called her a “dumb blonde” and said “you can’t run” when he himself had picked her for the Grade 7/8 girls team that year.

Do people really not understand how words can hurt children?

All kids, regardless of their gender, should be able to accomplish anything they set their minds to in this big wide world.

Tell your girls and boys they can dream big because this world will change for the better when their dreams become reality.

Recognizing fraud, scams and tax schemes

OTTAWA (Special) – The income tax season has opened, and it coincides with an international effort to prevent fraud.

In a news release, the Canada Revenue Agency (CRA) offers the following tips to help the public learn how to identify fraud, scams and tax schemes, and to keep their personal information safe.

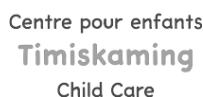

Scammers may insist that they need personal or financial information, like your social insurance number (SIN), credit card number or bank account number.

Often, they will try to get you to act quickly, in hopes of getting a refund or benefit payment in return.

On the other hand, they may attempt to intimidate you by using coercive or threatening language to get you to pay a false debt. Sometimes, they will lead you to a fake website asking you to verify your identity by entering your personal information or CRA log-in credentials.

Find more information on how to recognize a scam on the Scam Prevention and the CRA webpage. Stay up-to-date with trending scams by visiting the CRA's Scam Alerts webpage.

CRA COMMUNICATIONS

Knowing what to expect when the CRA contacts you can help you tell the difference between real communications from the CRA and scams.

Legitimate CRA employees will identify themselves when they call you, providing you with their name and a callback phone number.

When the CRA has a message or document for your attention, we notify you by email that something is available for you to view in your CRA account, which you access by using CRA's sign-in services.

It's just as important to know what the CRA won't do when contacting you.

The CRA will never demand immediate payment by e-transfer, cryptocurrency, prepaid credit cards or gift cards.

Call centre agents won't threaten you with arrest, deportation or sending the police.

The CRA doesn't leave voicemails that include personal or financial information, and we will never email or text you a link to your refund.

If you are ever unsure and want to confirm if the CRA contacted you, hang up and contact the CRA, at 1-800-959-8281 (for individuals) or 1-800-959-5525 (for businesses).

TAX SCHEMES

Unlike scams and fraud, tax schemes are plans or arrangements that go against the Canadian tax laws and are often advertised by "promoters."

Promoters are individuals or businesses who recruit taxpayers to their tax schemes by promising to reduce their taxes so that they receive large tax deductions or tax-free income.

Learn how to recognize tax schemes by visiting "Beware of tax schemes that promise to reduce your taxes" on the CRA's website.

If you think you may be the victim of a scam or fraud, or if you were tricked into giving away your personal or financial information, contact all of the following:

- your local police service;
- your financial institution;
- credit reporting agencies.

Contact the CRA if you:

- think your CRA user ID or password has been compromised;
- find changes to your banking, address, business, or personal information made in your CRA My Account that you did not request;
- find a benefit application made for you without your knowledge;
- want to disable online access to the CRA's sign-in services; or want to enable online access to the CRA's sign-in services after it has been disabled.

René Lacasse
Memorial Breakfast
Saturday
April 13th,
7:30 am to 10 am

Be an early bird and join us in memory of René Lacasse. René was born in Earlton on a cold January 26, 1941. Only son of Herve and Germaine Lacasse, he grew up on the family farm in Armstrong township with his 3 sisters. In his younger years, he was a very integral part of the Earlton Co-op, especially when it came to chemical & fertilizer. He made many friendships and always made himself available to give a helping hand to whoever needed one. In 1974, he took over the family farm where he worked countless hours with his wife and family by his side. René enjoyed working his land with pride and loved watching his crops grow. He was a silent man who had enjoyed the company of others and was always ready to lend an ear to listen. He had strong work ethics that he passed down to his children. He also had an infectious laugh that came from the heart. The homestead was always the hub for a chat and a cup of coffee or a coke. We would invite the community to join us to celebrate René's life and legacy.
