100 years of airmail started in Haileybury

HAILEYBURY - There's one more reason for the area to be proud of its role in the history of Canada.

"This summer is the 100th anniversary of the first airmail delivery in Canada and that actually flew out of Haileybury."

-- to Haileybury Heritage Museum secretary Sarah Johnston

"This summer is the 100th anniversary of the first airmail delivery in Canada and that actually flew out of Haileybury to Rouyn and we've done up a display case to commemorate that event," explained Haileybury Heritage Museum secretary Sarah Johnston on the first day of the new season at the museum.

Summer students Magalie Malette and Eric Lalande-Belanger will also be on hand this summer to greet visitors to the museum Wednesday to Sunday during the summer from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. until August 18.

A hot Sunday morning found the Bilows – five-year-old Paisley, at right, and six-year-old Daxton from Kerns Township – at the One Foot Forward Splash Zone at the Haileybury beach. It's activated at the push of a button, gently showering the kids below or dousing them from an overhead bucket. It officially opens at noon July 27. (Staff photo by Diane Johnston)

DID YOU GET The Speaker THIS WEEK?

Here are some of the stories in our July 10 edition...

- Ontario's police oversight agency has found no basis for criminal charges against police officers in a shooting in Coleman Township earlier this year that left one man dead and another injured.
- The news of a tentative sale of Thornloe Cheese and plans for the operation's redevelopment was welcomed.
- The North on Tap craft beer fest runs this weekend on the Haileybury waterfront. New this year is a Friday night slate of alcohol-free, family-friendly events as well as a mixed social golf tourney.
- Local workers were on the picket lines at the first strike in the LCBO's history. Protection for casual workers and opposition to the government's plans to further expand private retail sales are among the leading issues in the labour dispute.
- One Foot Forward announced more than $24,000 this year for a variety of initiatives supporting children's sports and physical activity.
- An Englehart High grad will play college ball at Loyalist College in Belleville. A Temiskaming Shores golfer, meanwhile, has been inducted into the Elmira College Athletics Hall of Fame in New York.

BUILDING PUBLIC AWARENESS

The Englehart Masonic Lodge opened its doors to visitors July 6, when members outlined the long history of the fraternal organization and its current work. Among the local members on hand were, from left, Jim McLaren, chaplain and past assistant grand secretary; Tom Henderson, secretary and past district deputy grand master; Ian MacPherson, immediate past master; Chuck Laurila, Master of the Lodge; Matthew McLaren, junior warden and past district deputy grand master; and member Blake McChristie. The Englehart lodge was constituted in 1915 and has about 48 members from as far away as Temagami and Kenogami. (Staff photo by Diane Johnston)

Graham Gambles checked out a newly planted Carpinus caroliniana, more commonly known as blue beech or ironwood, at the RockWalk Park in Haileybury. He remembered his grandfather in the Muskokas describing its use for sleigh runners or axe handles. It's actually rated for a slightly more moderate growing zone, and is among the more experimental species that will be tested in the arboretum that's now under development. TEMISKAMING SHORES – Haileybury's RockWalk Park is known for...rocks.

The outdoor geological garden at Northern College's Haileybury campus offers walkways lined by almost 200 large samples of ore from across Canada.

But shortly after its opening in 2001, Graham Gambles said there were discussions about adding an arboretum – a botanical garden devoted to trees.

"It puts the 'park' in 'park,'" said Gambles, who was a founding member of RockWalk Park Inc. and is still its president.

It ultimately hopes to add 75 trees from some 50 species.

Most will be native to the Haileybury area or be found here, and most are considered suited to plant hardiness zone 3B. (Zones take into account a variety of climate data factors over time, including rainfall, frost-free periods, temperature variations, snow depth and wind.)

About half of the rest will be rated for zone 3.

As for the balance, Gambles said planters want to push the growing envelope by testing the viability of some tree species that are rated for a warmer zone.

"TEST PLOT"

"This is a test plot. It's the only arboretum north of Orillia, with the exception of the one at Sault Ste. Marie, which is associated with Natural Resources Canada."

Gambles said a changing climate, diseases and pests may take their toll on existing native trees.

He pointed to ash trees, which are commonly planted along streets. They're being hit hard by the emerald ash borer, which Gambles said is now as far north as Sault Ste. Marie and North Bay.

He's seeing some local stands of balsam fir, which don't do well in heat, die out.

But other species may be

Elder Abuse Awareness

Elder Abuse is one of the most underreported crimes in Canada affecting hundreds of thousands of people every year.

Elder abuse comes in many forms:

- Psychological abuse in the form of threats, insults, or humiliation
- Financial abuse in which a trusted individual steals or misuses an elderly person's money, forges their signature, or pressures them to make or change legal documents. An example might be sharing an older person's home without paying a fair share of the expenses when requested.
- Physical abuse such as hitting, pushing, or restraining an elderly person
- Sexual abuse including sexual harassment and non-consensual sexual activity
- Neglect of an elderly person who requires care. Seniors most vulnerable to neglect, include those who are socially isolated and those with serious health conditions.

The truth is elder abuse is any action taken by someone in a relationship of trust with an elderly person that causes harm or distress.

People can engage in abusive behaviour without realizing it. Sometimes seemingly innocent or well-meaning actions cross the line. For example, someone might open an older relative's mail to save them stress of bill-paying, but if done without the elderly person's permission, that breach of privacy could be a form of psychological abuse. A caregiver who gives more than the prescribed dosage of medication to keep an elderly patient calm could be engaging in physical abuse.

There is no definitive list of everything elder abuse is and is not. We must be mindful of how elder abuse can take on different forms and be cautious of how our actions could cause harm.

Make sure to listen to your elderly parents, friends, or other family members and take their concerns seriously. If you suspect abuse, report it immediately to health care providers, social services, police, legal professionals and/or members of faith communities.

If you are an elder who is being abused, neglected, or exploited, tell at least one person. Tell your doctor, a friend, or a family member whom you trust. Other people care and can help you.

There is no excuse for abuse!

Hunger hurts

Everyday in our region, it is often cheaper. For some residents of the Nipissing-Timiskaming riding, which includes communities in our coverage area, the poverty rate is higher than the provincial average.

Poverty remains the root cause of food insecurity.

A Community Food Centres Canada report says the highest average of people in poverty in our riding are those 20 to 64 years of age where the population identifies as 97 per cent white and where the primary source of income is social assistance.

The average monthly amount given to people on social assistance is $1,250. Often it is much less than that.

Can you imagine paying the rent, heat, hydro and internet bills while then trying to find money for food on that amount of income?

There isn't a food bank in this region that isn't struggling to cope with the demand for food.

A lack of affordable housing and high inflation rates are causing people that would normally be able to feed themselves and their families, to seek help from food banks.

Better income supports is a way to alleviate the pain of hunger and to help those who are struggling with food insecurity.

We believe in a country and region where the right to food is realized for everyone and that there are places where people in need can to go get help within their own communities.

We see a food bank in our region that services three communities without a home. Yet the Cobalt Coleman Latchford Food Bank volunteers continue to find a way to help those in need.

Someone or some group needs to step up and help this group find a permanent location.

We all must work together to reduce poverty, homelessness and food insecurity.

Knowledge is power and access to localized data is vitally important to better advocate for change at all levels of government.

There is a Food Insecurity Now website aimed at empowering people, policy-makers and others to speak up about solutions to food insecurity.

You can be sure this newspaper is speaking up about food insecurity and being action oriented in hosting two food bank drives per year.

Loon preservation

Sue Nielsen

The mother loon, located on the shore of my favourite lake has been patiently sitting on her nest for a month now.

The incubation period for loon eggs is between 28 and 30 days.

The loon eggs should be hatching any day now and a dark brown, fuzzy loon chick will emerge, jump on mom's back and be gone.

I have not been able to determine if she is sitting on one or two eggs.

When the chicks are born they cannot swim so they jump on the mother's back and ride away from the nest, never to return to it.

They ride on mama's back to help regulate their body temperature and for protection from underwater predators.

The first week or two of the baby loon's life is precarious at best.

The likelihood of the baby loon surviving to adulthood is slim and getting slimmer all the time.

Between climate change, predation, lead poisoning, loss of habitat, overcrowding on lakes, pressure from humans and motorboats, the loon chicks have got to have luck on their side to reach the junior stage.

When the loon chick reaches the junior stage its feathers are mature enough to fly away with its parents in October or November when the weather turns cold.

The earlier the hatching of the chicks from the eggs the better as they have that much longer for their feathers to mature.

The later the process the more dangerous it becomes for infant loons to be able to migrate south for the winter.

I will never forget the junior loon I saw covered in ice on Clear Lake, near Cobalt one year in early November.

It was born late in the season.

As far as the loon chicks on area waterways, it is vitally important that boaters be aware of the loon families and the baby chicks.

The wake from motor boats and sea doo's can and does swamp the chicks and they will drown.

The loon parents will not dive when protecting chicks and the chicks can't dive out of the way of oncoming boats.

I don't think there has been a successful hatching of a loon chick on the lake in quite a while, perhaps well over 10 years.

Why do I care about loons anyway?

Loons don't write columns about their lives, but that does not mean they don't feel the pain of losing a baby chick.

I believe they feel and that is the purpose of which all consciousness sits.

May we always have respect for the loons as their world is our world, there is only one world.

Let us view all living things with the deepest respect.

That beautiful loon call is a symbol of our northern spirit.

100 years of airmail started in Haileybury

The summer students are also planning a scavenger hunt called "Journey of the Artifacts".

A yard sale on the museum grounds is also being planned for August 10.

Johnston says visitors to the museum will be able to see a small replica of the first airplane used by Laurentide Air Services for the first Haileybury to Rouyn flight which took place September 11, 1924.

Johnston related that the Laurentide Air Services flew a Curtiss HS-2L flying boat with a wingspan of 74 feet, powered by a single 400 horsepower Liberty engine, piloted by Haileybury resident Byron Broatch.

Previously the flight had been attempted from Angliers, Quebec to Rouyn, but obstructions and shoals on the Angliers waterfront made it too difficult.

Lalande-Belanger, who is pursuing a post-secondary education in Fine Arts, and Malette, who is studying history and communications at Cambrian College and Laurentian University, will be combining their skills this summer to create murals and events for visitors.

better suited to changing conditions.

A goal of the arboretum is to offer alternatives to municipalities and home gardeners – some of whom have not yet been born – as they consider landscaping, he said.

Among the new trees is a ginkgo biloba, or maidenhair tree.

Gambles considers it the most exotic of the arboretum's species. It's native to China but has been grown in Canada for a number of years.

It's rated for a warmer hardiness zone. But if it thrives, he said it offers potential as a street tree.

He said the arboretum can also be a teaching venue for students from elementary grades on up.

And while most arboretums are typically developed in open fields, he said the Haileybury project will incorporate a gully that's remained untouched as the town developed.

He said the arboretum will also focus on what's known as the understory, smaller plants such as pin cherries, chokecherries and saskatoons that grow under the tree canopy.

The arboretum has received $18,000 from the Chawkers Foundation, which supports projects in environmental research and protection, education and also long-form journalism.

(Gambles said the foundation had earlier provided a $5,000 grant to install new signage at the RockWalk Park, largely at a collection of distinctive samples re-established as the Queen's Courtyard in honour of Queen Elizabeth II's platinum jubilee.)

Conventional signs will identify the trees, as they do the rocks. But like the ore samples, they will also include QR codes, allowing visitors to use their smartphones to access more information.

Some of the trees will be dedicated to past instructors at the Haileybury campus.

Organizers are also seeking donors "to adopt these trees," he said.

SUPPORT

Gambles noted that Northern College is assuming maintenance of the park from the municipality.

"Our many thanks to the local taxpayers for supporting this project over its initial 25 years," he said.

He said the board is seeking people who are interested in trees, gardening and climate change. He said it would also like to have some bilingual expertise to provide info in both English and French.

The board is also looking for social media assistance as it prepares to launch a tree adoption program.

Anyone interested in the project is asked to contact Doug Clark, the board's secretary and dean of sciences at Northern's Haileybury campus.

EDMONTON WOMBATS CELEBRATE CANADA

The Temiskaming Speaker can make it to all corners of Canada and beyond. The Canada Day flag featured each Canada Day week in Temiskaming Speaker made its way to Edmonton with Jeff Pacey (fourth from left in front) who stopped by locally for a visit on his way to play with the Edmonton Wombats, an Australian Rules Football team, pictured here with the Canada Day flag from The Temiskaming Speaker. They were being hosted by the Calgary Kangaroos at their field at A.E. Cross school July 6 for their annual Stampede cup event. Pacey explains that the Australian Rules Football has spread out to the rest of the world and goes by the slang name "Footy", a mix of rugby and soccer. There are no offsides, The ball is passed by kicking or a volleyball-style hand pass. There are four score posts. Between the two centre posts is a goal worth six points. Hitting the two centre posts or getting between them and the outer two is a behind worth one point. There are eight players per team on the field and you can run end to end but have to bounce (and catch) the ball every 15 metres. Top players have been known to clock over 12 kilometres in a game. A game is four periods of 20 minutes. (Supplied photo)

HOROSCOPE

WEEK OF
JULY 14 TO 20, 2024

THE LUCKIEST SIGNS THIS WEEK:
CAPRICORN, AQUARIUS AND PISCES

ARIES

This is an excellent week to consider taking a holiday or changing your environment. Learning a new language could be a good idea, especially if you plan to travel or relocate.

TAURUS

If intense emotions arise, you may feel like isolating yourself. However, your friends will be there to support you and cheer you up.

GEMINI

If you feel unwell, talk to your doctor immediately. Your intuitive nature will help you create a harmonious atmosphere around you. Your protective and nurturing attitude will help improve workplace morale.

CANCER

At work, you must handle urgent or confusing situations before the holidays. Be careful while swimming so you don't catch an infection. If you're single, now's a great time to meet new people.

LEO

Spoil yourself by going to the movies or enjoying other forms of entertainment. You could find yourself in the limelight in one way or another. Use your creativity to showcase your talents.

VIRGO

You might have to travel frequently this week despite your love for staying home. Your family will ask for your help, and you won't be able to refuse them.

LIBRA

If you have a public speaking event, you must thoroughly prepare. Improvisation won't cut it. Use tact and diplomacy to resolve conflict.

SCORPIO

Be careful while interacting with certain people. Use tact and sensitivity to avoid misunderstandings. Be prepared for unexpected expenses.

SAGITTARIUS

You might need to take vitamins to maintain your energy levels. Your ideas may seem confusing at first, but staying focused will help bring them to life.

CAPRICORN

You tend to spend all your energy trying to do everything. Many people will need your help this week, and you'll devote yourself to them even if it exhausts you.

AQUARIUS

You'll be given important responsibilities. It's crucial to clarify roles to avoid confusion, even at home. Be patient with those close to you as you manage these challenges.

PISCES

If you're considering a career change, this is the perfect week to take a training course. Don't let this opportunity pass you by. It could help you land your dream job.

TDSRC Junior Craft Program

The Temiskaming Shores Public Library is very happy to be participating in the TD Summer Reading Club again this summer. Your child can register for our in person programs weekly here at the library but they'll also have the opportunity to participate on line from home to track their reading, play games and make new friends from across the country. We're looking forward to an out of this world summer here at the Temiskaming Shores Public Library!

Sphero Battle Bots

Registered participants shall construct their own battle bot and take turns against one another to determine the day's sphero battle bot champion. Using the minimum of the supplied items, participants will use their creativity to create a functioning "shell" for their sphero mini to act as their battle bot. This shell must be able to steer easily with the sphero mini without tipping over. The shell must also allow a balloon to be easily attached to the back that they must defend. The goal for each participant will be to attempt to pop your opponent's balloon before they pop yours. Last one standing wins.

Northeastern Catholic workers join CUPE

TIMMINS (Special) – About 200 formerly non-unionized employees of the region's English Catholic school board have voted to join the Canadian Union of Public Employees (CUPE).

"This is a great step towards improving wages and working conditions for registered early childhood educators, lunch monitors and paraprofessionals" at the Northeastern Catholic District School Board, said CUPE Local 4681 president Sue Cyr in a press release.

Cyr said CUPE is "thrilled" that all of the board's education workers "will now be unionized and have the power to advocate for improvements to working and learning conditions."

During the union organizing campaign, CUPE said workers brought forward a variety of issues they want addressed, including wages, staffing and other concerns about working conditions.

CUPE represents about 55,000 education workers across Ontario.
