Watershed quality is topic of area research project

Darlene Wroe

DISTRICT - A Temiscamingue, Quebec, watershed organization is working with provincial and federal government bodies to learn more about the watershed, including the Blanche River and the Wabi River.

The Organisme de bassin versant du Temiscamingue (OBVT) is continuing to work to raise awareness in Ontario about threats such as spiny water flea in Lake Temiskaming, and also to raise interest in creating a Temiskaming area watershed conservation authority.

Biologist Akib Hasan can regularly be found on the Ontario side of the Lake Temiskaming watershed carrying out research projects regarding water quality in the lake and the water bodies that flow into it. The OBVT's current research project started with the Timiskaming First Nation whose traditional territory encompasses much of the Temiskaming region on both sides of the lake.

"We're responsible to implement a sustainable watershed here," said Hasan.

"According to United Nations, land needs to be managed by integrated watershed management."

COLOURFUL STROLL

Seven-year-old Jake Moore welcomed a dusting of blue from the Timiskaming Health Unit's Shujian Liu as he made his way along the STATO trail. The Cobalt boy was among those who took part in the August 1 colour ride (and walk) on the New Liskeard waterfront. Sponsored by Planet Youth Timiskaming and the Walk 'N Roll initiative, the event encouraged active transportation. (Staff photo by Diane Johnston)

DID YOU GET The Speaker THIS WEEK?

Here are some of the stories in our August 7 edition...

- Conservative leader Pierre Poilievre dropped by Three H Manufacturing Systems and TIME Ltd. in Temiskaming Shores on a swing through Northeastern Ontario.
- The death of a 38-year-old from Toronto on Twin Lakes from a possible drowning was under investigation.
- Police continued to search for a missing North Cobalt 89-year-old after the man's boat was found abandoned on Lake Temiskaming.
- A pet rescue shelter in New Liskeard feared financial shortfalls could force it to close.
- Ball tournaments returned to Elk Lake's Civic Holiday Weekend celebrations. Visitors also had the chance to tour the refurbished Alice's Wonderland Playground.
- The New Liskeard Cubs were preparing for their 71st season, with a training camp set for the Don Shepherdson Memorial Arena August 28 and 29. Temiskaming Shores Minor Hockey was also readying to return to the ice, with registration on August 13 in New Liskeard.

WONDERFUL WONDERLAND

Melanoma Skin Cancer Awareness

Melanoma skin cancer often starts as an abnormal mole on the skin. A mole is a common non-cancerous growth. It's normally a small, round, or oval spot that is usually brown, tan or pink. It may be raised or flat. Melanoma is most frequently found on the back of men and on the back and legs of women. It is the least common, but most serious, type of skin cancer.

Risk Factors:

- Personal or family history of melanoma.
- Presence of moles--especially if there are many, or if they are unusual or large.
- Sun sensitivity--sun burning easily, or difficulty tanning.
- Light colored skin, eyes, and hair.
- History of excessive sun exposure.
- Diseases that suppress the immune system.
- Occupational exposure to coal tar, pitch, creosote, arsenic compounds, or radium.

The ABCDE rule below can help you look for the common signs and symptoms of melanoma skin cancer:

A is for asymmetry – one half of a mole does not have the same shape as the other half.

B is for border – the edge of a mole is uneven (irregular). It can look jagged, notched, or blurry. The colour may spread into the area around the mole.

C is for colour – the colour of a mole is not the same throughout. It could have shades of tan, brown and black. Sometimes areas of blue, grey, red, pink, or white are also seen.

D is for diameter – the size of a mole is larger than 6mm (1/4 inch) across, which is about the size of a pencil eraser.

E is for evolving – there is a change in the colour, size, shape or feel of the mole. The mole may become itchy or you may have a burning or tingling feeling.

Other signs and symptoms of melanoma skin cancer include:

- an area that does not heal
- a mole or sore that oozes or bleeds
- broken skin with an open wound (ulceration)

Melanoma is an aggressive form of cancer that can be life-threatening. Schedule an appointment with your primary care provider if you have any of these skin changes.

Committed to keeping you as healthy as possible!

EDITORIAL

Dog days of summer

What a gorgeous long weekend we just had with plenty of sunshine and warm temperatures.

Here in Northern Ontario we had perhaps one of the best long weekends of the summer.

People in our coverage area were out and about enjoying all the fun that summer has to offer.

The Elk Lake Civic Days made a return this year with fastball and slo-pitch tournaments and the annual Bass Lake Ball Tournament attracted hundreds to Bass Lake in Coleman Township.

People were out across the region at local markets purchasing goods from local folks.

The heat can leave us feeling drained at times but we know we shouldn't complain because it will be minus 30 C before we know it.

And of course our thoughts are with the people in Alberta, British Columbia and Labrador who are dealing with, and have dealt with, deadly wildfires this summer.

Our Canadian Olympic athletes are bringing home medals and making us proud on the world stage.

Kudos to all our athletes, coaches and supporters because sport can and does bring the world together for a brief moment in peace and goodwill.

As conflicts far and wide shake the planet to its core, the Olympics promote a better understanding of differences, diversity and the understanding of human rights.

Every four years the goal of the Olympics is to contribute to building a more peaceful and better world through sport away from the political arena.

Thanks to all the Canadian athletes and coaches who are doing us proud in Paris.

And a special tip of the oar to hometown hero, Kristen Siermachesky, who is bringing home a silver medal as part of the Canadian women's eight rowing team.

The price of love

Sue Nielsen

I was paddling around a clear northern lake in the misty dawn listening to birdsong and thinking about events of the past week or so.

The disgrace brought to the Canadian women's soccer team makes us all feel disillusioned with the purity of sport.

How do we move from the despair and disappointment we feel about the drone issue to hope and joy concerning our athletes and the state of the world in general?

I think there is good and bad in everyone and I think we need people who believe in ethics more than ever in these challenging times.

Those would be the people who stand up and say, no, that is not how it will be and no, we will not play that way.

It is really up to all of us to have a moral code and to live by it each and every day.

Do the Olympics not show us that despite all the odds stacked against us, the challenges and disappointments in life, victory can be had in the least likely of places.

The world is fresh and promising every morning if we can only see it that way.

Instead of jumping on the despair bandwagon, let's look forward to goodness.

It may be especially hard for people who are dealing with immense loss, grief and sorrow to see the sunshine.

But let us remember, those we love never really leave us because when people we love become a memory, that is indeed a treasure of life.

There are certain things death cannot take from us and that is what is inside our hearts.

The sorrow we feel about loss and grief is the price we pay for loving people in our lives.

It is a price I will gladly pay because with great love comes great sorrow.

My friend, Russell Shelton, passed away.

The big man and I shared a love of canoeing and paddles.

I bought my first cherry-wood paddle from Russell and Audrey when they operated Teal Paddles.

I wrote a feature story on his paddle making business years ago when I first visited his shop.

I was in seventh heaven in that paddle making shop.

The Teal paddle brand was well known with canoeists across North American and beyond.

It stood for quality and functionality. My current Scott canoe has a gorgeous cherry-wood yoke that Russell made.

Just a short while ago, I met Russell at the grocery store and I saw a different man than what I had known him to be.

But he still had fire in his eyes and he reached out and shook my hand with that great big mitt of his.

I appreciated Russell for the kind of man he was, a good man, a family man, a community-minded man and a man of faith.

Rest easy Russell but give 'em hell.

HONOUR OUR VETERANS BANNER PROGRAM

The purpose of the Banner Program is to

- Recognize & honour Canadian Veterans
- Promote Remembrance in our community

The program is coordinated by Legion Branch 54 Haileybury, partnering with Branch 33 New Liskeard.

Each banner will include a photo, name, military affiliation, and the name of the sponsor. Banners will be proudly displayed throughout the City of Temiskaming Shores during the Poppy Campaign and Veterans Week, from October 25 to November 12.

Legion membership by the honouree or the sponsor is not a requirement for participation in the program. If you wish to honour a war veteran, or a retired or former member of the Canadian Armed Forces, request an application form and information sheet by email to rlegion54@yahoo.ca or contact the Branch 54 Service Officer, Hank Moorlag at (705) 650-2930.

Watershed quality is topic of area research project

However, there is no organization on the Ontario side of the lake that is implementing sustainable water management, he said.

The OBVT is working with the Ontario Ministry of Natural Resources on learning more about the water quality in the Blanche River, and is also working with Health Canada to measure pesticide levels in the Wabi River, the Blanche River, and also Dixon Creek and Farr Creek.

"We need more collaboration for managing the watershed," he said.

"We need people from different sectors to manage a watershed. In a watershed everything is connected."

Agriculture, mining, forestry, and recreation are among the factors which impact the watershed, he explained.

OBVT currently has a goal of drawing up a water master plan.

WATER QUALITY

Another of their goals is to raise awareness.

Pesticide has been detected in the Wabi and Blanche rivers, but did not exceed the threshold that could be harmful to human and aquatic life. There were several chemicals detected frequently in the rivers, said Hasan.

He stated that Health Canada has a website where information is available regarding contaminant levels found in 2023 in the Wabi and Blanche.

Mercury content is also a problem, and while it has not yet been officially confirmed for Lake Temiskaming, other studies in other lakes have found that dams are one of the factors that contribute to an accumulation of mercury, he explained.

The Quebec Ministry of Environment has published a guideline to limit the amount of fish that they consume. Location, species and size are all factors in recommendations for limiting fish consumption. On average, the chart is suggesting limits of about an average of four a month from areas with large amounts of mercury in the water.

"It's different for each species," Hasan said.

But if people eat more than the recommended guidelines, "it could affect their health." He said he is sure that people are eating more fish from Lake Temiskaming than the guideline recommends.

"We can assume mercury is produced in nature," he stated. "There are many studies that can confirm that dams increase mercury by bioaccumulation but we don't have that proof here because no one did the study for Lake Temiskaming."

Past historical log drives have also contributed to the higher levels of mercury in the lake, he added.

ALGAE BLOOM

Faulty septic systems are contributing to eutrophication and algae bloom, noted Hasan.

Excess nutrients are being released into rivers and lakes from shorelines that do not have sufficient vegetation, he explained. Twenty metres of vegetation is recommended as a healthy shoreline in Quebec.

Climate change is also contributing to the problem.

"We're having algae bloom more frequently here."

In many locations the natural shoreline is not present to filter out organic contaminants which lead to algae bloom and other problems, Hasan commented.

SPINY WATER FLEA

Invasive species is another big problem, said Hasan.

"Detection of invasive species is more frequent here close to Lake Temiskaming," he explained.

A North American map of locations where spiny water fleas have been located reveal a cluster around Lake Temiskaming, including Lake Temagami, and Larder Lake. Hasan pointed out that the sites in Quebec are only near Lake Temiskaming, suggesting the spiny water flea invasion of Lake Temiskaming is being brought in from the Ontario side.

He explained that the spiny water flea has a very strong spine which is a defense mechanism. The spiny water flea dominates the other food sources.

In lakes where they have invaded, "the lake fish growth decreased and the fish population also decreased."

When spiny water fleas are introduced to a lake, "in ten years or 15 years the fish population will be decreased dramatically," Hasan said.

For this reason, an effort is being made to increase awareness about the importance of washing a boat before and after it is in a lake.

"Only some eggs are enough to spread this species to a new lake," adding the best way to wash a boat is with a pressure wash at 2,600 psi or higher, he said.

All materials from the lake need to be removed from the boat, and the water has to be drained. All equipment that touched the lake, including fishing equipment, anchors, life jackets and any other parts need to be washed too, preferably with a pressure wash, he said.

"If there is no pressure wash they need to wash it with normal water, but it needs to be more than ten minutes for the washing. Then they need to dry the boat. It can be air dried or sun dried for five days if they don't use the boat for five days." Otherwise, a clean cloth needs to be used to rub the boat dry.

He noted that in Quebec it is law.

More information about the water quality in area rivers will be coming forward in the months to come.

To minimize the risk of fire and burn injury, the fire service recommends the following cottage fire safety tips:

Install smoke alarms on every storey and outside all sleeping areas. It's the law for all Ontario homes, cottages, cabins and seasonal homes to have working smoke alarms on every storey and outside all sleeping areas.

- Test smoke alarms at least monthly or each time you return to the cottage. Pack a new smoke alarm and extra smoke alarm batteries in case they need replacement.
- Install and ensure carbon monoxide alarms in your cottage if it has a fuel-burning appliance.
- Develop and practice a home fire escape plan to ensure everyone knows what to do if the smoke alarm sounds.
- Know the telephone number for the local fire department and your cottage's emergency sign number, in case of emergency.
- Clean barbecues before using them. Keep an eye on lit barbecues and ensure all combustibles, as well as children and pets are kept well away from them. Fires can happen when barbecues are left unattended.
- Keep barbecue lighters and matches out of sight and reach of children.
- Remember to bring a flashlight with extra batteries.
- Check heating appliances and chimneys before using them.
- Check with your local fire department, municipality, or Ministry of Natural Resources to determine whether open air burning is permitted before having a campfire or burning brush. If open burning is allowed, fires should be built on bare soil or on exposed rock. Remove leaves and twigs from around the fire to keep it from spreading. Always keep a bucket of water, sand, or even a shovel close by and supervise the fire at all times.
- If you must smoke, do so outside. Keep a large can with water nearby so cigarette butts can be safely discarded. If you drink, do so responsibly. Tobacco use and excessive alcohol consumption are contributing factors in many fires and can lead to serious injuries.
- Burn candles in sturdy candleholders that will not tip and are covered with a glass shade. When you go out, blow out!

HOROSCOPE

WEEK OF
AUGUST 11 TO 17, 2024

THE LUCKIEST SIGNS THIS WEEK:
CAPRICORN, AQUARIUS AND PISCES

ARIES

If a relaxing holiday wasn't in the cards this summer, you'll consider going on a refreshing getaway to recharge your batteries. This will be extremely rejuvenating.

TAURUS

You'll feel the need to please everyone. However, you'll realize that this is impossible. Follow your heart and trust your intuition. An extra dose of self-confidence would be beneficial.

GEMINI

After a long vacation, returning to work may leave you feeling exhausted. Your partner and loved ones will require more attention. However, you must take time to rest to get through the week.

CANCER

You'll be rewarded with success. This will clarify an unclear story. You'll receive heartfelt appreciation that will reinforce your position of importance.

LEO

You'll devote time to your family and enjoy the peace and quiet of your own home. Your relationship with your partner will be a priority. You'll demonstrate your creativity, even in simple activities such as cooking a meal.

VIRGO

You could be in the mood to buy a new car. You'll spend a lot of time negotiating and listening to endless speeches and presentations. At work, you could discover that you have hidden sales talents.

LIBRA

You'll have a strong urge to spoil yourself, get a new wardrobe or change your hairstyle. You must be social and hang out with your friends. At work, overtime will be on the agenda.

SCORPIO

You don't always listen to advice from others, especially if it's long-winded. Trust your instincts. They'll guide you in the right direction if you take the time to listen carefully. You'll have a guardian angel watching over you.

SAGITTARIUS

You may need to step back before a critical turning point in your life. You must think carefully about your passions and how to manage stress.

CAPRICORN

Your active social life could lead to overspending. Even though you're generally thrifty, you could find it challenging to manage your budget and pay off your debts.

AQUARIUS

You'll go to great lengths to impress strangers and family members. Your children will be a source of great pride. You'll seize opportunities of abundance that come your way.

PISCES

At work, a training course will bring about opportunities for advancement, bringing you closer to a career in line with your values. You'll redefine your ambitions with a newfound conviction.
