Call issued to help family with medical expenses for newborn

Diane Johnston
Speaker Reporter

TEMISKAMING SHORES – On December 27, One Light Diversity Centre will host a Winter ONE-derland Celebration at Riverside Place.

It'll feature children's activities and face painting, food from local restaurants, music and multi-cultural dance.

A $5 entry donation will support One Light's diversity programming, said Rammy Bining, the centre's executive lead.

She said donations will also be accepted to offset medical expenses for a family whose newborn is facing serious health concerns.

In an email, Bining said the newcomer family does not currently have Ontario Health Insurance Plan (OHIP) coverage, and is in urgent need of financial assistance after the birth of their baby.

"They are not in a financial position to cover the costs, and at this time, they are unable to access programs or resources that could alleviate the financial burden," said Bining in an email.

She's not disclosing the identity of the family to respect their wishes. They've requested not to be identified at this time, she said, due to cultural reasons and to protect their child from any potential negative impact of publicity.

One Light hopes that $10,000 will ultimately be raised.

CARE ELIGIBILITY

Who qualifies for OHIP coverage, and when, is a complex issue.

Bining highlighted some of the provincial guidelines.

In general in Ontario, newcomers who are not yet permanent residents or citizens can apply for OHIP once they've been living in the province for at least 153 days within a 12-month period.

Children born to parents who do not have permanent resident status typically face a three-month waiting period before

DID YOU GET The Speaker THIS WEEK?
Here are some of the stories in our December 23 edition...

- A community-based strategic plan presented to Temiskaming Shores council outlined broad goals and specific actions the city could undertake over the coming five to 10 years.
- Armstrong Township continued preparations to shift to a new residential recycling provider in April.
- A fast-charging EV station is expected to be installed in downtown New Liskeard by the fall of 2025.
- The Pavilion Women's Centre outlined its request for support from Temiskaming Shores council as it described its proposal for transitional housing for women and children fleeing violence.
- Several family doctors in Temiskaming were recognized by their patients and the Ontario College of Family Physicians for the care they deliver.
- A Lake Temiskaming watershed organization identified several issues in the Wabi River that could pose risks to public safety and the health of the ecosystem.
- Beaverhouse First Nation and Agnico Eagle sign an impact and benefits agreement concerning the Macassa Mine in Kirkland Lake.
- Check out some of the local newsmakers of 2024.

VILLAGE GREETERS

HALF AND HALF

Chris Lemire (left) of New Liskeard, was the lucky Coleman Township Fire Department 50/50 fundraising draw winner of $5,000, received from deputy fire chief Daren Ridley at Pop It Balloons in New Liskeard on December 18. Lemire's name was pulled on December 14 at the Coleman Fire Department Vendors Show, held at the Coleman Township office. Lemire said he purchased his two tickets at NAPA Auto Parts and didn't have any money on him. A salesperson said he would lend him the money for the tickets, but he said no thanks. He went to his car and found some cash and went back into the store and purchased the ticket, never imagining he would win the draw. He says he may purchase a new set of golf clubs as he is enjoying the sport. Ridley said this year's prize was the biggest ever given out by the department. (Staff photo by Sue Nielsen)

Season of Kindness

Kindness can mean different things to different people. The meaning is in how YOU choose to show it. Whether it's through empathy, acceptance, kind gestures, thoughtfulness, the possibilities are entirely up to you. Kindness might look like being helpful or showing empathy. It may mean doing nice things without expecting nice things in return. Being kind is doing intentional, voluntary acts of kindness. Not only when it's easy to be kind, but also when it's hard.

Has someone ever done something kind for you and all you wanted to do after was pay it forward? That's because kindness is a chain reaction. It's a wave that keeps rolling, and all it needs is one person to start it. One small kind act can cause a ripple effect that impacts an entire community. If we are all focused on being kind, we are creating a movement of change. You know that famous "be the change you wish to see in the world" quote? That quote isn't just about change, and it isn't only about one person being able to change their world. It's bigger; it's about a movement that can be started from one person acting with intention.

We're going to come in contact with a lot of people who are at their absolute breaking point this month. Friends, family, neighbours, co-workers, teachers, strangers in the grocery store, retail workers. While it may be the merriest time of year for some, it may be the saddest, most stressful, loneliest, most heartbreaking for others.

We're all busy, but we're not too busy to be kind, caring and patient. Remember the best thing you can give someone this season is your kindness. Even the smallest act of kindness can make a big impact!

committed to keeping you as healthy as possible!

Good news

Is Doug Ford playing so as the Ford-led Conservative government of Ontario gets a big high five from us this week.

They have introduced legislation to provide an additional $77 million to small municipalities to offset municipal policing costs.

Previously the government said it would increase the Ontario Municipal Partnership Fund (OMPF) to help smaller municipalities offset rising costs such as policing.

But, for example, the proposed OMPF increase for Cobalt would not cover the total rise in policing costs of $110,704.

So the government did the right thing and is providing financial relief to offset the costs of the Ontario Provincial Police (OPP).

Thanks to our Timiskaming-Cochrane MPP

John Vanthof for standing up at Queen's Park and speaking about the impact of those policing costs for small rural municipalities.

The OPP provide policing services to 330 communities in Ontario and those costs rose significantly for 2025 with Kirkland Lake receiving an increase in their costs of $700,000.

With small municipalities struggling to balance budgets and keep tax increases to a minimum, this is welcome news.

We applaud this action and further applaud the government's action on increases to the Northern Ontario Travel Grant.

Over the next three years, the province is investing $45 million to expand the Northern Health Travel Grant program to help people in Northern Ontario connect to specialized care and medical services they need.

The program will offer increased overnight allowances for accommodation while lowering distance requirement eligibility for the travel grant from 200 kilometres to 100.

The application process will be sped up as well and more healthcare providers will be included in the travel grant parameters.

The people of Northern Ontario are no doubt grateful for these changes.

Thank you!

Sue Nielsen

Sometimes it only takes two words to express oneself.

In terms of my year as a newspaper reporter/photographer with The Temiskaming Speaker and Weekender, I'd like to say thank you to all who have supported me.

Thank you for messaging me, calling me and speaking with me out in the community about what I do here at the paper.

Thank you for bringing me joy on the days that I felt less than enthusiastic.

Thank you for keeping me in your thoughts even if they were to tell me you disagreed with some of the things I wrote last year.

Because I don't profess to be perfect and I always welcome feedback on my work from you, the reader.

I have no religious affiliations or particular political passions and we should be able to discuss anything in a civilized, respectful manner.

I have always felt writing an opinion column for a weekly newspaper is an honour and a privilege and I am grateful.

My voice would not be heard if it weren't for you.

You see, I know that we need each other and that we do indeed lift each other up and we champion each other whether it be through writing, at church, in the sporting arena, in workplaces and out in the community.

We are each other's best and worst days and collectively, I thank you from the bottom of my heart for tuning in each week to this space.

In these challenging, divisive times, we need to have each other's backs more than ever.

When I was first hired here at The Speaker by Dave Armstrong and Gordon Brock, I told them being a reporter for The Speaker was my dream job.

And I still believe that.

I began working here on my mother's birthday, September 7, 2005.

I'd like to thank our current owner for believing in community newspapers and investing in what we do.

I'd like to thank my co-workers for the incredible professionalism they have concerning journalism and their dedication to the main tenet of the craft, which is "truth."

While journalists and journalism in general have been devalued due to social media, I have a core belief that we continue to make a difference in our community. In many ways we live in a "fishbowl" in the Temiskaming region and it is vitally important that credible news is presented to readers.

The internet has ravaged the economic foundation of journalism, first by stealing ads and then by stealing eyes. If you value it and what we do here, read our publications and support us.

News continues to be relevant, particularly local news, and that is what we are good at folks.

Wishing you all the best in the coming year.

becoming eligible for OHIP.

Under certain conditions, that waiting period can be waived if parents gain permanent resident status soon after birth.

Maternity costs can be high.

Bining cites data that, without provincial health coverage, the cost of a birth in Canada can range from $10,000 to $15,000 and higher still for a Caesarean section.

Newcomers who are not yet eligible for public health coverage often must pay for health care on their own or through private insurance.

But private insurance can be costly, and coverage may not be comprehensive, she said.

For more information, Bining may be contacted at onelight.diversity@gmail.com.

CMHA Cochrane-Timiskaming calling for more funding

TIMMINS (Special) – More funding is needed to meet surging demand for services and retain qualified staff, says the Canadian Mental Health Association (CMHA) Cochrane-Timiskaming.

"The community mental health and addictions sector is an integral part of Ontario's broader health care infrastructure," said CMHA Cochrane-Timiskaming executive director Paul Jalbert in a recent news release.

"Our sector must be adequately funded and resourced so we and the rest of the health care system can operate efficiently and effectively, and provide care to Ontarians where and when they need it."

His comments came earlier this month as the organization made a presentation to the Ontario government at a pre-budget consultation in Timmins.

The organization said Ontario is experiencing a drug-poisoning crisis, a homelessness crisis, increasing food insecurity, and more issues related to mental health and addictions.

It said underfunding has created challenges in keeping qualified staff to support people living through these crises.

In the past 11 years at least, it said the community-based sector has received only one increase in its base funding, while inflation has grown more than 30 per cent.

The CMHA is asking for an additional $133 million in 2025-26 for its 27 branches across the province.

The additional funding would include $33 million to stabilize the branches' operating costs and $20 million to expand crisis services, including new crisis hubs.

As part of the package, it's also asking for $60 million in each of the next two years to run an additional 5,000 supportive housing units.

HOROSCOPE

Week of December 29 to January 4, 2025

ARIES
Get ready to shine as the ultimate party planner. You'll arrange one of the most memorable events for your loved ones. Your enthusiasm will be contagious, especially when you get involved in the entertaining.

TAURUS
Feeling lucky? You may want to consider buying a lottery ticket with your family — you might just hit the jackpot! You'll solidify plans with your loved ones, quite possibly going on a spontaneous journey.

GEMINI
If family tensions arise, you'll be the master of defusing them with your creativity and problem-solving skills. You'll earn the title of family hero with your organizational finesse.

CANCER
You'll succeed in uniting family and friends, overcoming the challenge of bringing together two families that are sometimes at odds with one another. Your attention to detail and generous nature will work wonders in easing tensions.

LEO
During your next gathering, whether you're hosting or attending, your nurturing nature will shine through. You have a strong urge to be helpful, from serving to tidying up, you'll be the ultimate helper.

VIRGO
Gatherings, big or small, will be your stage to shine. Get ready to steal the spotlight with your captivating remarks. You'll be surprisingly charismatic this week.

LIBRA
Someone from a different background will join one of your gatherings. They'll stimulate your curiosity to learn about their culture and share more about yours. You'll introduce exotic tastes and music to spice things up.

SCORPIO
You'll be the life of the party, lighting up the atmosphere and getting everyone in the mood to celebrate. Be smart on your late-night adventures; don't get behind the wheel after indulging in certain vices.

SAGITTARIUS
Now isn't the best time to overspend, but your generosity will warm hearts, even those of strangers. You'll also spoil yourself a bit.

CAPRICORN
Parties and gatherings will be your playground because you'll feel the need to move, dance and relax. You'll come up with creative ideas and stimulating games to get everyone involved and participating in the festivities.

AQUARIUS
Avoid staying up too late so you don't spoil your enjoyment of the festivities. Take time to catch up on your sleep or get rid of a nasty cold or flu bug.

PISCES
Prepare for unexpected visits that might require extra effort and planning. You'll be fully committed to making it a memorable time for your loved ones. Remember to take care of yourself too!

WEEKENDER 2024 IN REVIEW

From the January 5 issue:
COLEMAN WILL CONTINUE TO DEVELOP IN 2024

COLEMAN TOWNSHIP — “We are quite happy with how things are unfolding in the township and we are excited for what will occur in 2024,” said Coleman Township Mayor Dan Cleroux in a recent interview with The Temiskaming Speaker.

Coleman is in its second year of the four-year term of council, recently adding a new council member in Patrick Rieux after a council resignation was accepted.

Cleroux said there are lots of new developments happening in the two-billion square footage area that makes up Coleman and the township is seeing more applications for building permits.

“The short Portage Bay Road has some homes going up and that area has quickly developed.”

He said continuing with lot development, the township will make lots available in 2024 on Girl Guide Road, located on Gillies Lake North.

“Staff will prepare a report that will come to council and then we will begin to market the lots. We will likely hire a real estate agent for that work.”

CHRISTMAS BIRD COUNT TAKES FLIGHT AT HMREC

HILLIARDTON — About 60 adults and children attended the annual Christmas Bird Count at the Hilliardton Marsh Research and Education Centre (HMREC) on December 30.

The count has been one of the premier events in the birding calendar across North America since 1900.

It is one of the largest wildlife surveys providing data to conservationists, naturalists and scientists about bird populations and behaviour.

It is citizen led, which means it is called citizen science in action as birders all over North America report the numbers of birds they are seeing at backyard feeders and in the wild.

From the January 12 issue:
NORTH COBALT RINK PREPPING FOR YEAR-ROUND USAGE

TEMISKAMING SHORES – Shaver Park, the city’s only community park in North Cobalt, will get a facelift in 2024.

Work will include paving the surface of the outdoor rink.

That will speed ice-making in the winter and open the venue to summer use, explained Temiskaming Shores recreation director Matt Bahm in a report to city council.

A bicycle training course will be painted on the new surface, and the facility will be available for other summer sports.

“There are currently no spaces offered by the city for summer ball hockey or roller hockey and having more spaces for unstructured play is important for the recreational needs of residents,” Bahm said.

Total cost of work is $95,000. A funder has stepped forward to help.

The Alexa Corneil Memorial Ladies Hockey Tournament, the AC15, is donating $50,000.

“This is a substantial, substantial donation for the city,” said Mayor Jeff Laferriere after council met December 19.

CHAMBERLAIN

WAGON RIDES COUNT

Cougar Ridge Farms provided wagon rides to the children and adults who attended the Hilliardton Marsh Research and Education Centre Christmas Bird Count on December 30. Feeding carrots to Pete, at the back, and Saga was Kenzie Hackett. About 60 people took a sleigh ride, watched birds being banded, made suet ball crafts and took a tour of the Visitor Centre and trails at the Marsh. (Staff photo by Sue Nielsen)

REEVE PLEASSED WITH IMPROVEMENTS

CHAMBERLAIN TOWNSHIP - The new year will be quieter for Chamberlain Township than the past few years have been.

Nearly all the bridges in the township have been repaired or replaced with only one remaining that will likely be a project in the years ahead.

Reeve Kerry Stewart says that he would look in the direction of ditches and drainage for future projects, and that work may begin in 2024.

Overall though, the projects outlined for '24 will be more in the direction of housekeeping.

From the January 19 issue:
PRELIMINARY ROADS PROGRAM ACCELERATES

TEMISKAMING SHORES (Staff) – Which city roads will be upgraded this year, and at what cost?

Temiskaming Shores is releasing a tender for its 2024 roads program, which envisions rehabilitating almost three lane kilometres of roads at a cost of $385,000.

At city council’s committee-of-the-whole meeting earlier this week, transportation services manager Mitch McCrank listed specific roads on the proposed work list.

But he cautioned that plan could change, depending on pricing and unforeseen circumstances that crop up during the work itself.

Selecting the roads for upgrading “is always a challenge,” said Mayor Jeff Laferriere after council met.

But Laferriere said the city’s asset management plan helps it prioritize road work.

“We’re going to continue to do as many as we can,” he said.

constraints, but living within the budget we’re going to try and get as many of those roads done and as quickly as possible.”

The list at this time include three projects in New Liskeard – 312 metres of Golding Street, between Whitewood and Broadwood; 210 metres of Wellington Street, between Cedar and Whitewood; and 300 metres of Market Street.

In Haileybury, rehabilitation is proposed for 152 metres on Amwell Street, between Rorke and Georgina.

The list includes the addition of a walking path on Wilson Avenue between Grant Drive and Hwy. 65 and single-lift surface treatment on some existing roads.

Also to be completed this year is Albert Street in Haileybury and some paving in the Dymond Industrial Park. Both projects, however, are separate items and not included in the annual roads program.

BOHEMIAN WAXWINGS FLOCK TO TEMISKAMING REGION

TEMISKAMING SHORES — Large flocks of Bohemian waxwings are being spotted in Temiskaming Shores of late as upwards of 300 or more birds in a flock are descending on area fruit trees with a vengeance.

These medium sized songbirds are feasting on hawthorn and mountain ash berries, wild grapes, crabapples and juniper berries found across the region.

Sometimes when large numbers of birds appear in an area it is called an irruption.

An irruption is not the same as a migration pattern for birds. It means that birds are moving from one area to another area, usually due to a lack of food sources.

From the January 26 issue: CITY ENFORCING ZERO TOLERANCE FOR BAD BEHAVIOUR

TEMISKAMING SHORES – An increase in inappropriate behaviour and vandalism has prompted the city to institute a new “R” zone.

The “R” stands for “Respect and Responsibility.”

Temiskaming Shores council has approved a new RZone policy that will apply to all city facilities and properties, the transit service, city-sponsored events and programs, and locations where city staff are working.

It also applies to communications, be they in person, in writing, over the phone or made electronically.

The policy adopts a zero tolerance approach to inappropriate behaviour and sets out consequences.
