Native Women's Group land transfer goes to next step

Darlene Wroe
Local Journalism Initiative Reporter

TEMISKAMING SHORES - Temiskaming Shores council has given its staff the go-ahead to continue working on the proposed transfer of land to the Temiskaming Native Women's Support Group.

The group is seeking permanent use of 10.03 acres of land at Laroque's Field by North Cobalt.

The property has been leased by the organization since 2020, and has been used as an area for traditional practices.

An open public meeting on the proposal was held prior to the regular council meeting September 16.

Temiskaming Shores municipal clerk Logan Belanger outlined for council that there had been no concerns expressed about the project by staff or utility companies. Public comments had been received that the Laroque Field is an access point for the local snowmobile club to reach Lake Temiskaming. A comment was also received requesting continued access for the public in the area around the site. Another resident recommended that city council should consider that the land is on prime waterfront and may be needed for development in the future. The resident proposed that the lease with the support group should be extended instead.

Councillor Melanie Ducharme expressed her support for the project, and commented that the transfer of the land to the group "meets a lot of our requirements and moral obligations." She also posed that the Temiskaming Native Women's Support Group might choose to use the land for development purposes itself.

City staff noted that the property does not currently have frontage on a municipally maintained road. It is accessed from Cobalt Avenue, which is an unpaved road.

"To support year-round access, upgrades are required," city staff stated in a report. Brushing, drainage, gravel resurfacing, turnaround construction, and winter maintenance integration would be required, staff outlined.

THIS WEEK?
Here are some of the stories in our October 8 edition...

- Kerns Township council voted to proceed with a bid to the IESO to be allowed to further pursue a wind turbine farm in Kerns Township.
- The city is taking the next step in preparations for the replacement of the roof of the Don Shepherdson Memorial Arena.
- Councillor Danny Whalen has stepped down as president of FONOM after eight years.
- A $74,000 grant from the provincial government's Ontario Trillium Foundation has been used to repair and upgrade features at the Blackbridge Pioneer Park in Charlton.
- Owning an exotic animal is now against the law in the town of Cobalt.
- Temiskaming Shores council has been advised that the city is "probably going to break the waterline repairs record for the year."
- Northeastern Public Health (NEPH) is continuing its annual fall vaccination campaign this week, offering free flu and COVID-19 vaccines to everyone aged six-months and up.
- Just over 900 boys and girls took part in the TDSS Cross-Country Invitational October 9.
- The New Liskeard Cubs dropped three games last week.

PROFITS FOR THE PLAYGROUND

The fifth and final Loud N Proud poker run and barbecue was held this year, with another $500 donated to the Latchford playground, bringing the event's total contribution to $1,000. The cheque presentation was made October 3 in Latchford. From the left are Latchford Mayor Sharon Gadoury accepting the ceremonial cheque on behalf of the town from Loud N Proud organizers and volunteers Bert Morin, Claude Gervais, Denise Bradford, Danny Gervais, Shane Niemi, Daniel Gervais and Suzi Roy. My groove

Sue Nielsen

Wasn't that an incredibly beautiful Thanksgiving weekend we just had.

Boy, if you wanted to count your blessings it could begin with the sunshine and warm temperatures we are enjoying of late.

I hope you all had a wonderful Thanksgiving!

I've been loving these first days of October on the water, albeit some days have been a bit windy.

I am not a winter person so somewhere in the back of my mind I dread the idea of putting my 16-foot therapist canoe away until the spring thaw.

I can never be accused of overthinking life because I am such an "in the moment" type person and I have my canoe to thank for that.

It's almost like I fall into a trance when I paddle and perhaps the repetition of the paddling enacts a meditative state of being.

Whatever it is, when I push off from shore I feel my heart rate slowing down, my shoulders come down from around my ears (newspaper headlines to blame) and my joy level increases tenfold.

Forget the service animal as my emotional comfort, my canoe, does it all for me and I don't have to pick up sh%$t after it.

Some mornings I am on the water early waiting for the fog to lift. Already I feel quieted by this place, my spirit place.

I hear a pileated woodpecker working the nearby branches and a raven complaining.

I hear a couple of loons flapping their wings overhead as they land on the lake.

Loons are not early risers I have come to learn.

And that is my cue to flap my own wings and push off from shore.

How I need the restoration and peace this place brings me.

"Nature doesn't wake you with noise, it wakes you with wonder." Anonymous

In a world of violence, noise and much conflict, this place offers to me its blessings of relaxation and calmness.

I am not high strung by any means but it is essential for anyone and everyone to find their groove, just like Stella did.

My groove is a lake, a canoe and a paddle. With my line of work I interact with a lot of people on any given day or week. I absolutely love that part of my job.

I am a walking contradiction, I love speaking and being with people, but I also crave alone and quiet time by myself.

I do not go to water seeking challenges or to conquer anything and adrenaline is not a hormone for which I thirst.

I simply vessel up for all the sacred beauty I find in nature away from the screens.

This is the way I wish to move in the world.

I am trying to figure out how I can move when there is six feet of snow on the ground and it is minus 30 C and I am driving home in the dark.

No, I can't go there, just yet! Om.

October is Occupational Therapy Month

What is Occupational Therapy?

Occupational therapy is a type of health care that helps to solve the problems that interfere with a person's ability to do the things that are important to them.

An Occupational Therapist (OT) may check:

Your physical abilities like strength, balance and coordination
Your mental abilities like memory, coping strategies, organizational skills
What materials or devices you use to participate in activities like furniture, utensils, tools or clothes
What social and emotional support is available to you at home, school, work or in the community, and
The physical setup of your house, classroom, workplace or other environment

Depending on the problem, the OT can help you solve it by:

1. Helping you overcome your disability. OTs do this by:
educating or instructing you on how to do things with the abilities you have - e.g. getting around your community in a wheelchair suggesting activities that will help you improve or maintain the abilities you have - e.g. improving your coping strategies

2. Adapting the materials you use. OTs do this by changing the things you use:

around the house - e.g. a special key holder to make turning keys easier in sports or leisure activities - e.g. a playing cards holder at work or school - e.g. special tools that help prevent injury to hands and back to take care of yourself - e.g. special bath or toilet seats to get from place to place - e.g. car modifications such as one-handed steering wheels

3. Recommending changes to the environments where you do your everyday activities. OTs do this by recommending that you:

change the physical layout of your workplace, home or school - e.g. lowering/raising desktops, countertops or cupboards find out about the supports in your community - e.g. specialized public transportation work with the people in your community - e.g. providing education about a disability to the teacher or employer work with the government to encourage health living - e.g. request funding for special equipment

For more information, go to <https://www.caot.ca/site/aboutot>. If you are a patient of the Temagami FHT, which includes the clinics in Cobalt and Latchford, and would like to see our Occupational Therapist, please call (705) 569-3244 to schedule an appointment.

HOROSCOPE

Week of October 19 to 25, 2025

ARIES

You'll allow yourself some well-deserved moments of relaxation and enjoyment this week. Additionally, you'll skillfully negotiate better payment arrangements, which will result in positive impacts for both your professional projects and your personal well-being.

TAURUS

You'll have to face a series of professional challenges this week. However, each difficult situation will turn out to be an enriching experience for you. These stressful moments will help you sharpen your skills and ultimately enhance your expertise.

GEMINI

You will have an experience that tests your pride. However, the situation will give you the perfect opportunity to set yourself apart from the crowd. By sharing helpful information, you'll build strong relationships that will support your personal and professional goals.

CANCER

You'll have to juggle various family responsibilities this week. This may put you in the position of needing to stay home to supervise renovation work or wait for a delivery. Patience will be essential, but you'll find some relief in the end.

LEO

You'll have to juggle multiple tasks this week, and your phone will be ringing off the hook. Whether you're interacting with your partner or others, you can maintain peace and harmony by taking care not to be overly critical.

VIRGO

Be vigilant about your finances and be careful not to spend beyond your means. Unexpected home or family expenses may arise this week. Take a disciplined approach to managing your budget, especially if you have young children.

LIBRA

The arrival of cooler weather may make you want to focus on your well-being. Getting a gym membership will be an excellent way for you to incorporate regular exercise into your winter routine.

SCORPIO

Take time to think things through before making an important decision. Don't rush into anything, but let yourself be guided by your intuition. Time will provide the answers you need; just go with the flow.

SAGITTARIUS

Be careful what you say and do this week, as you might unintentionally offend someone. Fortunately, the incident will have little consequence and may have the effect of lifting the mood and easing tensions around you.

CAPRICORN

Your time is precious, so avoid overloading your schedule. Arranging too many appointments could lead to scheduling conflicts. A well-deserved vacation could help you recharge your batteries and regain your energy.

AQUARIUS

As the days get shorter, you'll crave excitement. This sense of restlessness will prompt you to seek out more moments of pleasure and entertainment; they will feel like a breath of fresh air.

PISCES

Your emotions will be running high this week. A specific event might prompt you to rethink certain aspects of your life. You'll attract the attention of a competitor who will offer you better working conditions.

RECRUIT AND RETAIN

The Township of Armstrong recently made a $3,600 donation to the Blanche River Health Foundation (BRHF) to help specifically with physician recruitment and retention. The funds will support the work of the Physician and Recruitment Retention Committee (PRRC). From the left are Cassandra James (BRHF executive director), Councillor Peggy Harrison, Mary Ann Mavrinc (BRHF board director), Councillor Michèle Rivard, Norm Koch (BRH board director), John Sullivan (BRHF board chair), Dan Strasbourg (PRRC volunteer), Mayor Jean Marc Boileau, Councillor Daniel Perreault, Nancy Prince (BRHF board director), Jorge VanSlyke (BRHF secretary and BRH CEO and president) and Dan Thibeault (CAO - Clerk-Treasurer). Questions to ask about your first mammogram Mammograms are an essential part of preventative care for women over the age of 40. Although getting your first mammogram can feel overwhelming, being well-informed can help ease your anxiety and ensure that you make the most of your appointment.

1. WHAT CAN I EXPECT DURING THE PROCEDURE?

Understanding what happens step by step can make the experience less intimidating. Ask how long the test will take, whether it might be uncomfortable, and what you should wear.

2. WILL THE MAMMOGRAM BE 2D OR 3D?

Standard 2D mammograms are widely available and considered reliable for screening. A 3D mammogram can provide more detailed images and may be recommended for people with dense breast tissue.

3. WHEN AND HOW WILL I GET MY RESULTS? Make sure you know when to expect your results and how you'll receive them. Your clinic may provide results by phone, mail or online portal. Ask if a follow-up appointment is necessary.

4. WHAT HAPPENS IF SOMETHING ABNORMAL IS FOUND?

It's good to be prepared. Most abnormalities aren't cancer, but it's wise to know what additional steps might be needed, such as more imaging or a biopsy.

5. HOW OFTEN SHOULD I HAVE A MAMMOGRAM?

Guidelines can vary based on age, family history and risk factors. Typically, women aged 40 to 74 should have a mammogram every two years. Ask your provider for a personalized screening schedule.

Temagami council accepts report on donation policy

Joe Hornyak
Speaker Reporter

TEMAGAMI - Temagami risks running afoul of Canada’s money laundering and terrorism rules unless it changes its policies on donations, grants and flow-throughs.

At the September 25 council working session, it considered a staff report that recommended repealing and replacing the municipality’s current donation policy. The existing framework combines donations (incoming gifts) with grants (outgoing municipal expenditures), exposing the municipality to Canada Revenue Agency (CRA) and Public Sector Accounting Standards (PSAS) compliance risks.

Deputy Mayor Jamie Koistinen said she was concerned because to her, as she read the policy, it amounted to letting staff make decisions.

Council should set the principles first, she said.

But Chief Administrative Officer Laala Jahanshahloo said, “no, I’m not a decision-maker here. This is a recommendation for the council as advice that is in my job description.”

The municipality doesn’t have a donation policy and “you need to have a regulation that flow-through needs to be controlled, otherwise it’s going to be considered under the money laundering act and the terrorism act. I’m not trying to set any law or create any decision criteria,” but the CRA requirements for donations need to be applied.

“So this actually addresses the issue and the real problems with the flow-through,” said Councillor Jo-Anne Platts.

The CRA does not allow flow-throughs if the municipality acts as a conduit.

ability.”

Council agreed to accept the report.

SEPARATE STREAMS

By separating donations and grants into distinct policies, and by establishing clear rules for flow-through arrangements, Temagami can ensure CRA-compliance; strengthen financial transparency and accountability; reduce risks of misclassification, misuse of funds and reputational damage; align with Ontario municipal best practices and provide staff with delegated authority for routine decisions while escalating high-risk or complex cases to council. This updated framework will protect the municipality while supporting community partners fairly and consistently.

The municipality’s current donation policy does not clearly distinguish between donations received by the municipality (incoming gifts), and grants provided by the municipality (outgoing expenditures). This lack of clarity creates CRA compliance risks and leaves Temagami exposed to anti-money laundering/counter-terrorism financing risks.

The recommendation is to replace the current donation policy with three a donation acceptance and receipting policy for incoming funds; a community grants policy for outgoing funds; and a policy that defines and regulates flow-throughs. The last would only be permitted if the municipality retains full control.

Otherwise, they would be prohibited.

The treasurer/CAO will be allowed to approve routine donations and small grants up to some to-be-determined threshold. Council approval would be required for higher-value or higher-risk cases.

Flow-throughs receive special attention under the proposed framework. High-risk but manageable flow-throughs occur when a donor provides funds to the municipality with the intention they be redirected to another organization or project. Normally this is prohibited as CRA does not allow receipting if the municipality simply acts as a conduit. The permitted exception is where the municipality retains full direction and control (for example, defines the project, manages delivery and requires reporting). In such cases, the donation may qualify for a receipt. However, a written agreement must be in place defining the scope, deliverables, reporting and accountability. If municipal control cannot be proven, the donation must be declined and no receipt issued.

“Quite a good year” at Hilliardton Marsh

Darlene Wroe
Local Journalism Initiative
Reporter

HILLIARD TOWNSHIP - The Hilliardton Marsh Research and Education Centre was the scene of the Ontario Field Ornithologists Northern Convention September 19 to 21.

Jacob Lachapelle, lead bander at the marsh this season, said the participants were able to see an owl being banded, and also see smaller birds up close, and released.

Among the group’s activities, they gathered at the marsh Saturday morning.

Lachapelle said that while it was too cold for an early start with bird-banding, there was banding later in the morning, and they also got to see the marsh.

“They are enjoying at least seeing the birds up close.”

Lachapelle said of this year’s bird-banding season that “it’s been pretty productive but it has definitely slowed down in the last two weeks. The month of August was phenomenal.”

In August alone well over 3,000 birds were banded, said Lachapelle. In total, this season saw about 4,000 birds banded, he said.

“That’s about the same as last year - maybe a little bit lower but it’s still turning out to be quite a good year.”
