AND SO IT BEGINS

Because 2026 started off with colder temperatures, a number of ice huts have appeared on Lake Temiskaming in recent days off the New Liskeard waterfront. Louis Belanger hauled his ice hut onto the lake on January 4, hoping to lure in some fish in the coming days and weeks. Anglers say there is at least 10 to 12 inches of ice on the lake at this point in time. (Staff photo by Sue Nielsen)

2025 Year in Review

FROM THE JANUARY 3 ISSUE: Optimism is the theme of Hopes for 2025

DISTRICT — Hope is a word that is badly needed in our tumultuous world.

International strife and wars, an overburdened health care system at home, an opioid crisis, political uncertainty and people struggling financially and spiritually.

We badly need a big dose of hope and inspiration in these hard times.

This year we asked Temiskaming Shores Mayor Jeff Laferriere, Temiskaming Speaker general manager Lois Perry, Temiskaming Foundation executive director Brigid Wilkinson, Hilliardton Marsh Research and Education Centre's Bruce Murphy and One Light Diversity executive director Rammy Bining for their Hopes for 2025.

RAMMY BINING

"As we step into 2025, our journey toward inclusivity and community growth continues to unfold with vibrancy. The multicultural landscape of Temiskaming Shores is evolving with fresh perspectives, diverse talents, and new opportunities.

"At One Light Diversity Centre, we supported 725 individuals in 2023, and we are on track to engage nearly 800 people in 2024. This growth reflects not just statistics, but the richness of cultural exchange, shared experiences, and deepened connections.

"Our hope for 2025 is to solidify One Light as a central knowledge hub - a safe space where the community can come together, learn, and grow. We also aim to elevate Temiskaming Shores as a beacon of multicultural success on the national stage.

JEFF LAFERRIERE

"As we enter the holiday season and reflect on the year I realize that I live in the best place in the world.

"The people of our community are passionate, compassionate, empathetic and giving. My hope for the New Year is a continued engagement from our residents to have and build the best community we can possibly have."

BRUCE MURPHY

"My main source of inspiration seems to come down to a few things.

"Every time we see the wonder in kids and adults when they help us release a banded bird back into the wild is life changing. The wonderful thing is that it is a shared experience by all who are there as they can see it in the eyes of one another.

"We all seem to crave a connection with nature which brings me to another source of inspiration - parents, grandparents and significant adults. When people decide to bring someone young to the marsh, in some way it is a recognition that we need to be outdoors and that it is important to young people's development. Which is not a surprise being in Northern Ontario."

LOIS PERRY

"As I enter a new stage of my life in 2025 my hopes are much different than they were 50 or even 10 years ago.

"I look at things much differently now, I try to hear what people around me are really saying and I say things that I never would have said before.

BRIGID WILKINSON

"There seems to be a wonderful growing sense of collaboration in our community, with local agencies partnering with non-profit organizations, learning and sharing and supporting one another.

"In 2025 I hope that we can continue this collaboration, inspiring a new generation to commitment to our community, celebrating our resilience, proving that nothing is impossible when we work together to achieve it."

JANUARY 2025- FIRST TIME SNOWBOARDER

Danika Charlebois and her three year-old daughter Layne Charlebois were snowboarding at the Tri-Town Ski and Snowboard Village on January 26. It was the first time Layne had been on a snowboard and she was excited about taking her first lesson at the club. Her mom said it is never too early to start to learn a sport like snowboarding. EDITORIAL

The silent killer

New rules came into effect on January 1, 2026, concerning carbon monoxide alarms in homes.

The alarms will have to be placed on every floor of a home with gas-burning appliances, like a furnace, a water heater or stove.

The update to the Ontario Fire Code comes as part of an effort to better protect residents against carbon monoxide poisoning, also called the silent killer.

Previously, carbon monoxide alarms were only required outside every sleeping area. Under the new code, those will remain in place but the extra alarms are intended to add an extra layer of protection, according to the Ontario Association of Fire Chiefs.

The association says 88 per cent of all homes have something that poses a carbon monoxide poisoning threat.

On average, 11 deaths per year in Ontario are caused by carbon monoxide poisoning, mostly occurring during the fall and winter months.

Changes are also coming to multi-residential buildings including apartment buildings and retirement homes.

If in doubt about where or when to install a CO2 alarm, contact your local fire department.

For more information on carbon monoxide requirements in Ontario or for CO safety, visit Ontario.ca/CarbonMonoxide or cosafety.ca.

Our future thinkers

Sue Nielsen

As we begin a brand new year, I'm reminded of a time when the angst of the world stood still for a brief period at the Hilliardton Marsh Research and Education Centre.

It was during the Christmas Bird Count, held on December 27.

When I went to the Marsh to attend the Christmas Bird Count for kids there were about 200 people in attendance that day, mostly parents with young children looking for a way to connect with nature via birding.

I have been to the Marsh many times to cover events there but this year something was different.

It was most likely parents eager to have their kids take part in a wholesome outdoor activity.

With technology encroaching on our lives, and artificial intelligence ever present, being in nature is a healthy antidote.

There is nothing artificial about birds and birding.

Let us not understate the importance of green space for a child's development.

Nature has been scientifically proven to reduce depression and to lower cortisol levels in the body (stress hormone).

More than one in five children worldwide will experience a depressive episode, with childhood depression on the rise, says John Hopkins Medical.

I have noticed, since the 2000 pandemic, that people are seeking ways to connect with nature and birding has taken flight like never before.

It has been a rough year for so many people and there is much to worry about here in our region and beyond.

The holidays can also be a challenging time for so many, with illness, financial worries and so on.

For a short while, being around the people at the Marsh that day watching Dennis Peddie take visitors for sleigh rides with his horses, the uncertainty of the world went away. All those eager children laughing and having fun lifted up the heaviness I felt.

I thought of how easily I may have caught COVID or the flu being in a large crowd like that but somehow it did not matter.

When Pope Leo called for peace in the world during his Christmas message he sent a message that was meant to uplift.

I guess the only people that didn't heed his message are the American president, Donald Trump, and the U.S. military.

I wanted to hug all those parents who visited the Marsh trying to bring their kids up with a connection to the land knowing our world can be a scary place. The surest way to foster thinking young people is to have access to land-based learning. It will change the world for the better.

Making 2026 a Better Year for You!

This year, it's time to put you first.

Cook one new thing each week: Choose an easy dinner recipe you've never tried before at least once a week.

Read more books: January is the perfect time to snuggle up with a new book.

Drink less alcohol: Doing so could improve your mood, sleep, skin, and immune system. Plus, it'll also help you save money.

Quit smoking: Smoking is extremely harmful for your health, particularly your lungs — but tobacco products in general (including vapes) pose a serious threat. If you're interested in quitting and are a patient of the Temagami FHT, give us a call to enquire about our STOP program. The program includes free nicotine replacement therapy and individual consultation with our respiratory therapist to help you achieve your goal.

Eat vegetables regularly: Whether you're slimming down or just want to be healthy, vegetables are your friends.

Take the stairs: Take 10 minutes to run up the stairs at your office or home.

Become a plant owner: Just the presence of indoor plants can lower human stress levels.

Sanitize your phone weekly: Phones carry a lot of bacteria. Use a non bleach disinfectant wipe that kills viruses and bacteria.

Play upbeat music: Research shows that blasting any happy-making tune can work multiple mind-body wonders including reducing pain during exercise, elevating mood, and lowering stress.

Take more walks: Keep yourself moving on a simple walk around the neighbourhood. Spend as much time moving each day as possible.

Get as much sunlight as you can: Even when the weather becomes frigid, sunlight is crucial to regulate your mood throughout the day.

Add more citrus to your grocery cart: Citrus fruits are rich in multiple nutrients such as vitamin C, flavonoids, and fiber which can reduce inflammation, improve gastrointestinal function and health, and play an important role in preventing conditions like diabetes, cancer, neurological disease.

Happy new year, happy new you!!

HOROSCOPE
Week of January 11 to 17, 2026

- ARIES
Your health remains a priority this week. Your doctor may finally determine the cause of your discomfort and recommend a treatment to speed up your recovery. If you trust their expertise, you'll notice a big improvement in your well-being.
- TAURUS
You'll have to act as a mediator at work or in your personal life. Your diplomatic skills will help you ease tensions and find effective solutions, whether you're handling a union dispute or dissatisfied customers.
- GEMINI
Work is piling up, and messages are coming in non-stop. However, you'll catch up by doubling down on your efforts. At home, you'll also put a lot of your energy into maintaining a clean and tidy living space.
- CANCER
You'll be congratulated for your accomplishments, and your success will earn you widespread admiration. This recognition will fill you with a deep sense of personal pride and boost your confidence. You'll feel empowered to fearlessly tackle any project.
- LEO
Since you couldn't see all your loved ones over the holidays, a wonderful opportunity to get together is on the horizon. You're doing a great job at work and at home, even if some people prove to be difficult to please despite your best efforts.
- VIRGO
You'll feel a strong urge to talk and communicate with others. Whether you're sharing holiday memories or family stories, your words will flow freely. At work, your sociability will help you reach particularly good agreements.
- LIBRA
A touch of refinement will brighten your world. You may unexpectedly be offered a promotion at work. However, this advancement may bring with it added stress, fatigue and moments of confusion.
- SCORPIO
Your energy is magnetic and will draw the attention of others. You'll express your creativity brilliantly or find real joy in appreciating art, even if it's simply pausing to admire a work that inspires you.
- SAGITTARIUS
If your career path feels uncertain, you could have a revelation that will light the way and guide you in the right direction. A loved one may ask for your help, giving you the chance to offer meaningful support.
- CAPRICORN
With the festivities behind you, it's time to get back into a routine. However, you'll manage to keep an active social life, both in person and on social media. Just remember to set aside time for rest.
- AQUARIUS
Amid professional changes, you'll be asked to step into a role where your skills will produce outstanding results. At home, you'll take the initiative to start a major clean-up involving the whole family.
- PISCES
You'll feel a strong urge to get away from it all and plan a holiday, whether alone or with your partner, to an exotic destination or a cozy chalet. Your social life will also get a boost this week.

2025 Year in Review

FROM THE FEBRUARY 7 ISSUE:

Network provides shelter when there is no warming centre

TEMISKAMING SHORES - A network of community partners in New Liskeard are on alert when cold weather hits and they set off a call-out to homeless people to go to certain locations in the community where they can keep warm during the day.

Even though there is no official warming centre in the city, the partners open their doors so they can to try to ensure people have a place to go.

New Liskeard Salvation Army Lieutenant Robbie Donaldson is the co-chair of the Community Safety and Well-being Housing and Homeless Pillar, which he says is a passion for him.

Previously, when stationed in Kirkland Lake, he was involved with helping with the establishment there of Hope Haven - the six-bed transitional house for men, which he said has been very successful.

Now in New Liskeard for three years, Donaldson is one of the main people involved in collaborating to make spaces for people to keep warm during cold snaps.

A.J. Davey named ACFO Youth Personality of the Year

TEMISKAMING SHORES — They have been involved in the community sharing their time and talents since the age of five.

A.J. Davey, 17, a Grade 12 student from Ecole secondaire catholique Sainte-Marie (ESCSM), accepted the L'Association canadienne-francaise de l'Ontario (ACFO) Youth Personality of the Year Award at the annual ACFO luncheon, held at Riverside Place in New Liskeard on January 19.

Davey has been volunteering since the age of five, including completing 500 hours at the secondary school level.

“When I found out I had won the award I said ‘whoah.’ I thought there would be someone else that had done more meaningful volunteering than me,” said Davey in an email interview.

“I knew I had done a lot but I was really surprised to hear the news.”

Over the years Davey has volunteered at Village Noel Temiskaming, at the Paula Davey Dance Studio, Small Pond Theatre, NEOFACS Angel Program, the Northdale Manor, Open Studio Libre, Centre de santé Témiskaming, One Light Temiskaming, the Temiskaming Lodge, at Ecole catholique St-Michel and more.

Davey is humble about the work they have done to benefit others.

And that trait of being humble and ready to help out whenever needed is rare these days.

Davey is also immensely proud of the francophone community and its vibrant culture.

I want more people to learn French so that they have the same opportunities as bilinguals."

City library goes fine-free on many materials

TEMISKAMING SHORES - For the past year and a half, forgetful borrowers have enjoyed a break at the Temiskaming Shores library.

For 18 months, the library issued no fines if some materials were not returned by their due date.

It's now making the fine-free experiment a permanent part of its collection.

"We believe libraries should be spaces where everyone feels welcome," said library CEO Rebecca Hunt in a media release announcing the policy.

"By going fine-free on many items, we're removing barriers that may have prevented some members of our community from using the library.

"Our mission is to provide access to resources and learning opportunities for all, and this policy is a major step forward."

The fine-free pilot ran from July 2023 to the end of December 2024.

During that time, the library charged no late fees when some materials – books, audiobooks, DVDs, magazines and puzzles – were not returned on time.

Board forecasts electrical system improvements

TIMMINS – The region's English public school board credits a new partnership with improving the safety of its schools' electrical systems and saving money.

In a media release, District School Board Ontario North East said it faced challenges in updating its aging infrastructure to meet current safety standards and improve energy management.

It hired CircuitIQ, which is based in Sudbury, to map power systems in its facilities.

The board said the collaboration provided it with comprehensive circuit mapping and streamlined reporting.

As a result, it said it achieved significant savings in safety compliance, operational efficiency and costs.

"First and foremost, it's about safety," said Lesleigh Dye, the board's director of education, in the release.

CircuitIQ highlights the board's story on its website. In a short video, board officials said up to 15 per cent of the 500 work orders staff responded to each month were related to electrical issues.

FEBRUARY 2025 - NEXT GEN VOTERS

New Liskeard Public School students learned about the provincial election and the voting process as well as learning about each candidate in the Timiskaming-Cochrane riding. Then the various classes visited the polling stations to mark a ballot for who they thought would be the best candidate for the riding. From the left casting the first vote is Emmett Addison, with Andrea Boudreault and Owen Bitroff posing as election workers. (Staff photo by Sue Nielsen)
