Rusty rails rile Latchford, ONR unmoved

Joe O'Grady
Local Journalism Initiative Reporter

LATCHFORD - The unsightly state of the Ontario Northland Railway (ONR) bridge through here is a dam shame.

That's the view of Latchford council, which is reaching out to fellow municipalities to support their bid to encourage the ONR to spruce up their structures, particularly the rust-coloured expanse over the Montreal River in the community which bills itself the "Best Little Town By a Dam Site."

"Ontario Northland's railway infrastructure is an important part of Northern Ontario's transportation network and has a significant presence in communities throughout the region," Latchford CAO Malorie Robinson said in a letter to the ONR.

"In Latchford, the railway bridge located along Highway 11 is highly visible to residents, businesses, visitors and the travelling public. Its current weathered and rusting condition affects the appearance of the Highway 11 corridor and the overall first impression of our community.

"The town continues to invest its resources in community beautification, economic development and tourism initiatives intended to create a welcoming and attractive community. The appearance of prominent infrastructure can either support or detract from these efforts, particularly in smaller northern communities where rail bridges and other structures are significant visual features.

"Council is respectfully requesting that Ontario Northland undertake the necessary cleaning, surface preparation and painting of the railway bridge located along Highway 11 in Latchford. Council is also requesting that an appropriate schedule be established for the bridge's ongoing exterior maintenance."

Robinson further encouraged the ONR to review its publicly visible infrastructure throughout Northeastern Ontario, particularly structures located along the Highway 11 corridor and within incorporated municipalities, to identify infrastructure requiring exterior maintenance.

"The town would appreciate an opportunity to discuss the condition of the Latchford railway bridge and Ontario Northland's anticipated plans and timelines for its maintenance," Robinson said.

Ontario Northland spokesman Nicholas Tibollo, however, said the Latchford railway bridge is up to snuff, as far as the Crown agency is concerned.

"Ontario Northland values its relationship with the communities it serves," he said in an email interview with The Speaker.

"We recognize and appreciate the community beautification initiatives the Town of Latchford is undertaking.

"Ontario Northland is currently undertaking extensive rail and grade crossing infrastructure upgrades along its corridor from Washago to Cochrane. Further, all structures are inspected and maintained in alignment with Transport Canada requirements.

"The railway bridge along Highway 11 in Latchford is in proper working condition."

Two in race for reeve in James Township

Joe O'Grady

Local Journalism Initiative
Reporter

JAMES TOWNSHIP - The top two elected officials in James Township will battle for the top chair in Elk Lake as James Township heads to the polls on October 26.

The following are their candidate profiles listed alphabetically. The length of each profile is determined solely on the amount of detail provided to an identical list of questions.

CHRIS CORMIER

After serving for the past four years as deputy reeve, Chris Cormier is seeking to become reeve of James Township.

The 41-year-old stepfather and husband works for Interfor in Elk Lake. He was elected in his first bid for council in 2022.

"I've always wanted to get involved with my community," Cormier said.

"I've lived here all my life and bought a house here and rebuilt it in 2011. I have served as deputy Reeve since 2022 and I am ready to take on my next challenge as reeve if the people are confident in me enough to vote me in."

Cormier said one major issue to be dealt with is transportation for seniors.

"I would aim to find weekly transportation services for people to get groceries and medications," he said. "This would be one of a few things I'd like to accomplish as reeve."

RODGER DONALDSON

A 61-year-old husband who enjoys the company of his wife, four dogs, kids and grandchildren, incumbent Rodger Donaldson is proud to have been a firefighter for 36 years both in a volunteer capacity in a large rural community, and as a full time airport firefighter. He was also the Fire Chief at Canada's ninth largest airport before opening his own business in the farming industry. Being a resort owner in Elk Lake has also given him "the opportunity to meet many great people." His other work experience includes contracting work for Interfor and Canada Clean Fuels.

Currently, Donaldson is the vice president of a bio-energy start-up, and works closely with the local lumber industry.

"I have had the privilege of being the reeve of Elk Lake for the past four years, during which time council has been able to keep property taxes in check, have our speed limits reduced, and become the first municipality in Ontario to create a fire break around our community, keeping it safer from wildfires," he said.

"I'm running for reeve for the next term because I still feel there is a lot to accomplish. I would like to see our town grow. I want to continue to support our local industries, and make Elk Lake a welcoming place for their employees. And I would like to continue to promote respectful tourism, so people from other places in the province can explore our beautiful area."

Sue Nielsen

I cannot imagine how I would feel if I had been taken from my home hundreds of miles away from my parents by strangers to live in a school that beat me, abused me and denied me the right to see my family.

There is great trauma associated with things from our childhood and the residential school experience is monumental for our Indigenous brothers and sisters.

This week on September 30 we marked National Day for Truth and Reconciliation and in New Liskeard the Keepers of the Circle held an Every Child Matters Walk.

How can one call those places schools when many children were beaten, starved, sexually abused and left to die horrible deaths?

The high mortality rates at the schools have been documented. How many of those children died of broken hearts?

They were not schools, many were places of torture and we have to own that as Canadians.

The First Nation children were told to forget their culture and their ways of living and adopt a Christian-based lifestyle.

Essentially, the schools weaponized education as a way to take the Indian out of the children.

I can't imagine how awful and criminal it was for someone to take away a child's identity like that.

It is part of our past and the real truth is we must never let this kind of horrific treatment of our fellow Canadians happen again.

I was recently told by someone in a position of trust and authority that residential "The most profound truth in the universe is this: that we are all one drum and we need each other."

Richard Wagamese

school trauma was false.

I believe residential school denialism is a hate crime.

I feel strongly about the Truth and Reconciliation Report (2015) and its recommendations.

The conundrum for many of us is how do we remember the awful truths as part of our collective past as Canadians because what we choose to acknowledge as truth is who we are.

When childhood innocence is stripped away, when you can't see your family, when your tribal ways are denied and pronounced as primitive and savage, people come to see themselves as less than human. That is a kind of hell no one deserves.

That is what the residential school experience inflicted on our Indigenous people.

It is important for each of us to learn to speak the truth, and to honour our collective humanity.

Teachings come from everywhere, said Indigenous author Richard Wagamese.

"That's the trick of it really, to open yourself to everything and everything opens itself to you."

Cervical Cancer—What You Should Know

Each year in Canada, more than 1,300 women are diagnosed with cervical cancer and over 400 die from the disease. Almost all cases of cervical cancer are caused by the human papillomavirus (HPV), which is preventable through the HPV vaccine. The publicly funded vaccine is provided to male and female students in every province and territory through school-based programs. Regular screening of adult women is also vital as cervical cancer caught at an earlier stage has a high survival rate. Most cervical cancer (67%) occurs in women aged 30-59.

Risk Factors

The main risk factor for developing cervical cancer is the sexually transmitted human papilloma virus (HPV) that infects the cervix.

Other risk factors for developing cervical cancer include:

- Becoming sexually active at a young age; having many sexual partners or having a sexual partner that has had many sexual partners.
- Smoking.
- The use of birth control pills for a long period of time.
- Giving birth to many children.
- Having taken diethylstilbestrol (DES), or being the daughter of a mother who took DES.

Who Should Be Screened:

- Cervical screening is recommended every 5 years for anyone with a cervix (women, transmasculine and non-binary people) 25 years old and older who are or have been sexually active.
- Women who have had a hysterectomy (an operation to remove all or part of the uterus) should talk to their doctor or nurse practitioner to see if they need to continue having cervical screening.

Regular screening can stop between the ages of 65 and 69 for individuals with a history of negative results.

You should still have cervical screening to check for cells that could lead to cervical cancer if you:

- feel healthy and have no symptoms
- are no longer sexually active
- have only had one sexual partner
- are in a same-sex relationship
- have been through menopause
- have no family history of cervical cancer
- have received the HPV vaccine

If you are due or overdue for cervical cancer screening, call your primary care provider today to schedule an appointment. Screening is the only way to find the early changes that might lead to cervical cancer.

Early detection is key.
