Sue Nielsen

TEMISKAMING SHORES — Just ahead of Remembrance Day on November 11, a travelling exhibition called When Daylight Comes: The Canadians on D-Day will be on display at the Little Claybelt Museum. This exhibition includes the stories of Canadians who took part in the Allied invasion of Normandy on June 6, 1944.

It also includes artifacts from World War I and World War II donated to the Claybelt by local families in the region.

Schools and the general public are encouraged to visit the exhibition just ahead of Remembrance Day.

The museum will have this exhibition on display October 28, 29 and 30 from 4 p.m. to 7 p.m. and it will be open on October 31 from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The exhibition is a bilingual six-part panel exhibit featuring the Normandy landings, which marked the important turning point in the Second World War. The Canadian military was credited with playing a significant role in both the success of the landings and the subsequent fighting in the West European Theatre of War.

SIX PANELS

Each of the six panels in the exhibition has its own story to tell.

The world at war: presents a map and timeline depicting the state of the Second World War as of June 1, 1944, just a few days before the D-Day landings.

The invasion of France: provides a brief overview of France during the WWII including a map showing how the country was divided by the Nazis from 1940 to 1944, until the Normandy landings.

The landings: examines the Normandy landings themselves, from their planning and

BRH unveils new PPE recycling program

Englehart (Special) - Blanche River Health (BRH) has introduced a new Personal Protective Equipment (PPE) Recycling Program across both hospital sites, making it easier than ever for staff to help reduce waste and support a healthier environment.

The initiative provides a simple way to recycle eligible PPE that would otherwise be sent to landfill. Items such as procedure masks, N95 respirators, disposable isolation gowns, gloves, hairnets, face shields, safety glasses, and certain blue wrap will now be collected in designated clear recycling bags throughout the organization.

Once collected, the materials will be processed and transformed into durable new products, including items such as park benches, extending the life of materials that have traditionally been considered single-use.

"Healthcare organizations generate a significant amount of waste, and while personal protective equipment plays a critical role in keeping our patients and staff safe, we're always looking for opportunities to reduce our environmental impact," said Mary-Ann Toppi, Manager of Environmental Services and the Medical Device Reprocessing Department at Blanche River Health.

"This program is a simple change that allows every staff member to contribute to a more sustainable future without adding extra work to their day."

The program has been intentionally designed to fit seamlessly into existing workflows. Staff will continue using PPE exactly as they do today. The only change is disposing of approved items in clearly marked PPE recycling bags instead of regular garbage. Environmental Services will then manage collection and recycling, with no additional sorting or processing required by frontline teams.

COMMITMENT TO THE ENVIRONMENT

Not all PPE is eligible for recycling. Items that are heavily contaminated with blood or bodily fluids, sharps, food waste, liquids, and regular garbage will continue to be disposed of through existing waste streams to ensure safety and compliance.

The initiative reflects Blanche River Health's ongoing commitment to environmental responsibility while maintaining the highest standards of infection prevention and patient care.

"As a healthcare organization, we're committed to improving the health of our communities in many different ways," said Toppi.

"Protecting our environment is part of that responsibility. Small actions, taken together, can make a meaningful difference, and we're excited to see our teams come together to support this initiative."

The PPE Recycling Program reflects Blanche River Health's commitment to continuous improvement and fiscal accountability by finding innovative ways to make better use of resources while maintaining the highest standards of patient and staff safety. By reducing waste and embracing more sustainable practices, BRH continues to make healthcare work for you while building a healthier future for our communities.

From the left are Christa Groves and Erika Tennant (BRH environmental services aides), Mark Pearce (BRH manager, Critical Care and Non-Urgent Patient Transportation), Mary-Ann Toppi (BRH manager, Environmental Services and MDRD), and Samantha Saudino (BRH VP of Clinical Services and Chief Nursing Officer). Build it and they will come

Affordable housing is a human right, not a privilege. In this region and further afield, the availability of housing is at an all time low. We are talking about housing for couples, families with children, single people, seniors, students, people sleeping on the streets and people with good paying jobs.

As the CAO of Electra Battery Materials Trent Mell said recently, they need housing for their workforce in order for the refinery to be successful.

They also need housing for their contractors and their employees who are working at the plant right now.

Mell said they may have to create housing and he said he would not be averse to working with a local contractor to build more housing in the area.

Isn't this a perfect time for construction companies to jump on board and build badly needed housing developments?

However, tariffs are real. Steel and aluminum costs are climbing. Hard costs on cement cast are up from eight to 12 per cent in the last 18 months and still moving.

And there are always the risks for the construction industry to attract enough tradespeople to build these homes.

Now is a challenging yet opportunistic time to build housing in the Temiskaming region.

If local municipalities can speed up building permit approvals and rezoning bylaws to help contractors move on creating housing, then this would greatly help the process along.

The many, not the few or the one

Sue Nielsen

They say you get the government you deserve, but I don't think Cobalters deserve what's been handed to them in terms of the town's politics.

The 650 households, mine included, who pay the highest taxes in the region, deserve a fully functional, literate, governance-minded council and mayor.

After the nomination period closed we had six people who will be acclaimed to Cobalt council without a single vote being cast.

So basically, they are not the choices of the people of Cobalt necessarily and we know very little about who they are and what they hope to accomplish.

We will be required to have an election for the mayor's job, thank goodness.

Good luck to both of the people in that race.

You have three out of six councillors without a single ounce of experience in municipal politics going to the table to decide the complexities of municipal governance, managing a multi-million dollar budget and creating public policy.

If you asked me if I am worried about what the future holds for the town, you would be correct.

With a tough financial path ahead, I understand why many didn't want to be the councillor piñata.

The municipal council you elect is basically the brain trust of your town, the people representing us should be upstanding, intellectually adequate and integral.

I don't think a lot of people understand the complexity of municipal governance and the huge responsibility it holds.

I served 10 years as a Cobalt councillor and the decisions you are honoured to make affect the taxpayers and the tax rate.

The highest priority for any council is to manage the municipal budget with the intent of keeping tax rates down.

It is a role that comes with huge responsibilities and it isn't for the faint of heart.

You check your anger issues at the door and keep in mind the fact you represent the many, not the few or the one.

This is a concept that has escaped many an elected official.

Acclamations have been realized across the region and those councillors should brush up on the Municipal Act, learn everything they can about the Act and let it lead the proceedings of council.

I hope council creates a Code of Conduct with which each councillor must sign and abide by from the first meeting forward.

The book 13 Ways To Kill Your Community by Doug Griffith should be required reading for any council member in any community.

I always felt representing the good and fine people of Cobalt was an honour and a privilege.

Osteoporosis and Bone Mineral Density Testing

Osteoporosis is a condition that causes bones to become thin and porous, decreasing bone strength and leading to broken bones, especially the hip, spine, wrist and shoulder. Osteoporosis is sometimes confused with osteoarthritis. Just to be clear, osteoporosis is a bone disease and osteoarthritis is a disease of the joints and surrounding tissue.

Fast Facts:

- Osteoporosis can strike at any age and affects both men and women
- Building strong bones during childhood and adolescence can be the best defence against developing osteoporosis later in life
- Both men and women begin to lose bone in their mid 30s. As they approach menopause, women lose bone at a greater rate, from 2-3% per year
- At least 1 in 3 women and 1 in 5 men will suffer from an osteoporotic fracture during their lifetime
- Over 80% of all fractures in people 50+ are caused by osteoporosis

Testing

Bone Mineral Density (BMD) testing is very important. This test is safe, painless and accurately measures the density of your bones. A BMD test can tell you whether or not you have osteoporosis and how likely you are to develop it in the future. It can help you to make decisions that may prevent fractures or further bone loss.

Who Should Get a BMD test?

- all women and men 65 years or older
- postmenopausal women and men 50-64 with risk factors for fracture including:
 - low bone mass identified on x-ray
 - parental hip fracture
 - high alcohol intake
 - current smoker
 - low body weight, i.e. less than 132 lbs or 60 kg
 - rheumatoid arthritis
- younger men or women (under 50) with a disease or condition associated with low bone mass or bone loss:
 - high risk medication (steroid use, aromatase inhibitors, androgen deprivation therapy)
 - uncontrolled hyperthyroidism
 - early menopause (younger than 45)

For more information about osteoporosis, go to the Osteoporosis Canada website at www.osteoporosis.ca. If you fall into any of the groups listed above, please schedule an appointment with your primary care provider to discuss BMD testing.

Matachewan FN hosts successful annual Pow Wow

By Xavier Kataquapit

MATACHEWAN - Matachewan First Nation hosted its Annual Pow Wow with a record turnout of over 400 participants, visitors, dancers, singers, and drummers.

"We were so happy to see the number of people that came out to our event (August 29-30). We are thankful to the organizers of this year's Pow Wow and we are grateful to the amazing performers, the drummers and the dancers who came out. It's important for us to hold these gatherings for our people as it is a way for us to celebrate our community, our culture and our history," said Chief Alex "Sonny" Batisse, Matachewan FN.

Marilyn Groulx, Pow Wow coordinator, led the event organization and performed her work on a volunteer basis. She was supported by community volunteers who helped with planning and development before the gathering as well as for all activities over the two days.

"Our annual event brings together everyone and it has become something our community looks forward to every year," said Groulx.

"This year's event was one of the best so far. It took a lot of hard work and we had some great drum groups and amazing dancers and it was very well attended. We are thankful to all the sponsors that supported us this year."

Visitors, community members and supporters arrived from all across Northern Ontario and beyond. Elders arrived from neighbouring Beaverhouse FN and Mattagami FN to show their support. Many members of Matachewan FN who reside far from the community also made it back to attend the Pow Wow on their homelands.

SONGS AND DANCES

"This has been the best turnout we've had since we started the annual Pow Wow. This is an important event for us because it provides an opportunity for our members who don't reside on reserve to come back and visit their families and friends," commented Jean Lemieux, executive director, Matachewan FN.

The daily program of events included special songs and performances for entries, welcoming and veterans. A special performance on the first day introduced three new Matachewan FN female dancers - Brianna Julien, McKenna St. Martin and Trina Boucher - who performed at a Pow Wow for the first time.

"I like seeing everyone in our community and meeting so many people. This annual Pow Wow gives us a chance every year to teach our children about our culture, our language and our history. I've met so many people who want to learn about our families, our history and where they come from. It makes me feel good to share what I know with others," said Elder Vina Hendrix-Landry, a life-long resident of Matachewan FN who was born and raised there.

The first day of events included a Grand Entry with flag carriers led by Chief Batisse with the community staff: James Bay Veteran Staff held by Clarence Trapper, Attawapiskat Staff held by George Rose, Lead Elder dancer; Matachewan FN flag held by Clara Hanson, Councillor for Matachewan FN; Nishnawbe-Aski Nation (NAN) flag held by Cynthia Hendrix; Wabun Tribal Council flag held by Bradley Batisse; Nishnawbe-Aski Police Services flag held by Constable Joshua Landry; Canada flag held by Jared Daley; Every Child Matters flag held by Damien Duchene; and the Two Spirit flag held by Miranda Deveau.

Five drum groups took part in the event. The host drum was Kitchissippi Rini Drum Group, the co-host drum was Ironstone and the supporting drum groups were Indian Road, Standing Pine, and Ghost Mountain. An all-women's drum group also performed on the first day.

The two-day event was led by Master of Ceremonies Gerald Chum of Moose Cree FN and arena director Craig Trudeau of Wiikwemkoong Unceded Territory.

Tom Batisse provided traditional teachings during the gathering. Batisse, a member of Matachewan FN and a traditional teacher, led sunrise ceremonies on both days.

The event has grown in size and organization since the inaugural event was held in August 2012, titled "Honouring Our Ancestors." Since then, the community has developed dedicated Pow Wow grounds with a central arbour that was installed just in time for this year's event. Overlooking the grounds is a small rise of land where a ceremonial tipi was set up to house a sacred fire that burned for the duration of the event. Firekeepers were Hubert Groulx, Alfred Groulx and Dean Miller.

The community-covered outdoor rink was also filled with vendors who sold merchandise or provided information kiosks for various organizations and businesses and food vendors who provided plenty to eat.

Event sponsors included Barrick Mining, GreenFirst Forest Products, Temiskaming Forests Alliance, Discovery Porcupine (Dome), Gold Candle Ltd., Ontario Power Generation, FNX Sudbury, Canada Nickel, Hydro One, Alamos Gold, LakeShore Gold, Georgia Pacific, Stllr Gold, Smith Customs, Neoen Renewables Canada Inc. and an anonymous U.S. donation.

October is

BREAST CANCER

Awareness Month

Awareness, support and hope

The fight against breast cancer: a community effort

In October, government agencies, medical professionals and organizations like the Canadian Cancer Society join forces for Breast Cancer Awareness Month. During these four weeks, many initiatives take place to spread information about the latest scientific advances, risk factors and the importance of screening. It's the perfect time to learn and to get involved.

STATISTICS THAT REMAIN CONCERNING

According to estimates from the Canadian Cancer Society, more than a quarter of all new cancer diagnoses this year in women will be breast cancer. This statistic represents an average of 89 confirmed cases per day in Canada. Even though the mortality rate has been declining since its historical peak in 1986, research indicates that approximately one in eight Canadian women will develop the disease in their lifetime.

COMMITMENT MAKES A DIFFERENCE

It's hard to imagine what the situation would be like if the public didn't contribute to funding research and related activities. Everybody can get involved in the cause according to their abilities and means. You can:

- Organize your own fundraiser
- Make a one-time donation in memory of a loved one or sign up for a monthly giving program
- Attend or volunteer at local events, such as the Canadian Cancer Society CIBC Run for the Cure

Can't donate or volunteer? Your voice is just as valuable. Don't underestimate the positive impact of raising awareness among your friends and family. For more information, visit cancer.ca.

Breast Cancer Screening Saves Lives

- If you are aged 40 to 74, talk with your doctor or nurse practitioner about breast cancer screening.
- If you are over 40, you can self-refer for a mammogram. You do not need a doctor or nurse practitioner referral.
- If you think you are at high risk, screening can start sooner. Talk to your doctor or nurse practitioner. Those without a provider can call 8-1-1 for guidance.

The Ontario Breast Screening Program is offered FREE at the following welcoming locations in our area:

- Temiskaming Hospital (New Liskeard)

Cobalt businessman Gino Chitaroni (from the left) recently presented a $5,000 donation to Mac Armstrong of the Historical Cobalt Corporation (HCC). The HCC is the registered charity that receives donations for the Heritage Silver Trail, which is managed by the Cobalt Historical Society, represented by Maggie Wilson. HOROSCOPE

Week of

October 18 to 24, 2026

ARIES

A spike in popularity puts you in the spotlight. By trusting your instincts, you can channel your creativity and bring an exceptional achievement to life. Those around you depend on you; your presence inspires, unites and soothes.

TAURUS

Despite your well-planned scheduling, certain situations demand more patience than anticipated. Instead of becoming frustrated, turn these pauses into opportunities for observation, reflection or inner recalibration.

GEMINI

The cold weather sparks your longing for sunshine. The thought of an escape to warmer climes will motivate you to work harder. By staying focused and organized, you'll soon secure an enticing offer to turn this dream escape into reality.

CANCER

Your artistic talent is taking on a new dimension and making a career in art a real possibility. Concrete changes unlock fresh opportunities. On the romantic front, a joint project strengthens your bond.

LEO

A vibrant social life strengthens your friendships and lifts your spirits. The idea of relocating grows more compelling: a new community, a new space and a warmer setting to welcome loved ones and enjoy a refreshed environment.

VIRGO

A project drags on and demands more of your time and effort than anticipated, but you persist. By seeing it through, you'll experience genuine pride in finally completing something you've been putting off.

LIBRA

An update to your wardrobe will help you align with your new responsibilities and professional goals. It'll also give you a self-esteem boost. This renewed confidence will be apparent in your interactions and support your success.

SCORPIO

You'll be consumed by an irresistible urge to sort, organize and declutter. By removing extraneous items, you'll declutter your living space and, in turn, clear your mind. This major purge signals a brighter new phase.

SAGITTARIUS

Disrupted transportation, delayed messages and misunderstandings hamper communication. Rather than pushing through, take the time to slow down, reconsider your path and be flexible. Patience will help you avoid preventable errors.

CAPRICORN

Overtime hours are building up, leaving you less time for loved ones. However, the coming bonus will enable you to pay off a debt or stabilize your budget. It's now up to you to reinvest your time in your family.

AQUARIUS

A new job or an ambitious project may appear unclear at first. By seeking advice from key people, asking questions and allowing time to do its work, you'll find your footing and achieve a smoother rhythm.

PISCES

After a strenuous period, your body and mind crave rest. Take a solo trip or a joyful break with good company. This shift in environment will revive your energy, creativity and inner peace.
