Northern College gets $10.7m boost from province

Joe O'Grady
Local Journalism
Initiative Reporter

TEMISKAMING SHORES - A provincial investment of $10.7 million in Northern College is welcome news for Haileybury and all of the college's campuses, officials say.

Responding to news of the funding from the Ministry of Finance and Ministry of Colleges, Universities, Research Excellence and Security, Northern president Mitch Dumas said the extra funding will play a big role in the college's work across Northeastern Ontario.

"This investment in Northern College by the provincial government is an investment in every community we serve in this region and beyond," he told The Speaker.

"These dollars will contribute to our investment in establishing the highest quality educational options for northerners, developing and refining programs which reflect the direct needs of this region. Investments which are foundational to the health care and social services that support the well-being, liveability and safety of our communities, to the technology, trades and science programs which drive innovation, opportunity and growth for our economy."

As part of the province's revised funding model for post-secondary education, an additional $6.4 billion will go to colleges, universities and Indigenous institutes across Ontario to ensure long-term sustainability.

"Our role as an educator, community partner and critical talent pipeline for local and regional industry in the northeast is significant, and thanks to this funding increase, we can maintain and even expand that role," Dumas said.

Northern College serves an area of 210,000 square kilometres, providing educational support to dozens of rural and remote communities throughout this region.

Nolan Quinn, Minister of Colleges, Universities, Research Excellence and Security, said the funding is part of the province's commitment to economic growth.

"In order to protect our province, it is imperative that we continue to train a strong, highly skilled workforce for Ontario for decades to come," Quinn said in a news release.

"Through these changes, including $6.4 billion in new funding for the postsecondary sector, our government is not only ensuring the sustainability of our colleges, universities and Indigenous Institutes, but also preparing our graduates with the in-demand skills they need to meaningfully find good-paying, rewarding careers, while continuing to keep education accessible and keep costs down for students and their families."

Northern College, and the Haileybury School of Mines, are especially well-positioned as part of this commitment. As both the federal and provincial governments prioritize development of critical minerals and Canada's natural resource sector, expanded funding is crucial in allowing Northern College to fulfil its mandate to develop programming shaped by rapidly expanding industry need and job market demand in the region, Dumas said.

"Northern College is well positioned to advance the long-term objectives of the Ontario government. Located within the province's strong natural resource sector, the College delivers graduates whose impact is felt immediately by industry," he said.

The Knights of Columbus Council #10809 recently donated $1,250 to each of the Temagami Lions Club Food Bank, Haileybury Food Bank and the New Liskeard Salvation Army Food Bank. The money comes from the annual K of C cash calendar sales, with calendars becoming available sometime in October at various retail outlets. Salvation Army Major Gerry Lindholm thanked the Knights of Columbus saying, “We have never seen our food bank shelves this low. We are extremely thankful for this donation.” Seen here on September 20 are, from the left in the back row, Major Lindholm, Temagami Lions Club Food Bank volunteer Brian Koski and Haileybury Food Bank volunteer Lynda Thisdelle. Temagami “loadergate”

Maybe 30 or 40 years ago our waterways in this region were dumping grounds for cars, fridges, machinery and other garbage items. But when you know better, you do better, and nowadays anything that goes into a lake can pose serious issues for people living on the lake, using the lake for recreational purposes and for the fish and wildlife.

We have seen our newspaper report three stories on the front-end loader that went into Lake Temagami near Chimo Island on June 9 – and the loader is still in the lake waiting to be removed.

That is four months since the incident happened and yet no one has removed this heavy equipment from the lake.

Residents living near where the loader went in say they hope this issue is not precedent-setting in that without action taken to remove the loader, now anyone can just dump their garbage in the lake.

That is a fair assessment of the situation.

And the red tape around the Ministry of the Environment, Conservation and Parks, who are supposedly overseeing this situation, remains perplexing.

Why wasn't the owner of the loader given a fine or told to remove the loader as soon as possible?

Large equipment almost always contain toxic fluids like motor oil, gasoline, hydraulic fluid and battery acid.

A 20,500-pound front-end loader reportedly leaking fluids is still sitting in approximately 43 metres of water in Lake Temagami. Some would describe this as an environmental crime.

"Your normal day is someone else's dream. Be thankful every day." Unknown

The Thanksgiving weekend is upon us.

There is tons of evidence showing being grateful makes you more healthy and happier.

As world politics continue to concern us and we deal with a daylight savings time change coming up, this holiday gives us many blessings. The turkey, football and walks in the colourful woods.

I love them all.

Perhaps the Thanksgiving weekend brings an eye-roll to the average person who can't see the thankful forest for the trees.

But the answer to being thankful is found right in front of us, it's been there all along.

It is found in the small things, in gratitude for the small joys.

It's hearing a child's laughter or maybe it's that friend who makes your week a little brighter with their text messages.

Maybe you walked through the Boreal forest hearing bird-song and found peace and rejuvenation for your soul.

While our individual struggles may seem overwhelming, perhaps we forget to express our gratitude.

For many people dealing with struggles, we know there is an affordability crisis happening, people are going hungry and many can't find a decent place to live.

Let the knowledge that the recent Breault Family Fun Day on the Farm event will hand over significant monies to our local food banks this year.

That truly is a blessing as one food bank volunteer told me recently their shelves have never been so empty.

I know every night before I close my eyes for bed I go over the things I am grateful for in my day.

My blessings come from my canoe, nature, my humble lifestyle, my friends and the satisfaction of reaching out to you the readers each week with my column offerings.

Thank you all for tuning in each week, I offer my appreciation to you.

There are some hard truths in this world, violence towards women continues to grow and societal violence overall is concerning.

There are more and more things on the Internet that continue to melt our brains along with the ability to be empathetic, caring and kind.

Thanksgiving to me means to slow down, savour connection and remember the grace we still owe one another.

Appreciation for life is not limited to one weekend though.

I hope everyone enjoys Thanksgiving, enjoy the food, the company and the day off from work.

My hope and prayer for all of you is that whatever your situation is, ideal or not, that you make the most of it.

Happy Thanksgiving everyone.

I would like to extend a heartfelt thank you to friends and neighbours for your thoughtful sympathy messages following my Dad Joe's recent passing.

A special thanks also to Cobalters who stopped to chat with me downtown and shared stories about Cobalt and memories of my Dad. I am deeply touched by your kindness.

Cobalt will forever be "the best old town I know!"

With sincere gratitude,

Osteoporosis and Bone Mineral Density Testing

Osteoporosis is a condition that causes bones to become thin and porous, decreasing bone strength and leading to broken bones, especially the hip, spine, wrist and shoulder. Osteoporosis is sometimes confused with osteoarthritis. Just to be clear, osteoporosis is a bone disease and osteoarthritis is a disease of the joints and surrounding tissue.

Fast Facts:

- Osteoporosis can strike at any age and affects both men and women
- Building strong bones during childhood and adolescence can be the best defence against developing osteoporosis later in life
- Both men and women begin to lose bone in their mid 30s. As they approach menopause, women lose bone at a greater rate, from 2-3% per year
- At least 1 in 3 women and 1 in 5 men will suffer from an osteoporotic fracture during their lifetime
- Over 80% of all fractures in people 50+ are caused by osteoporosis

Testing

Bone Mineral Density (BMD) testing is very important. This test is safe, painless and accurately measures the density of your bones. A BMD test can tell you whether or not you have osteoporosis and how likely you are to develop it in the future. It can help you to make decisions that may prevent fractures or further bone loss.

Who Should Get a BMD test?

- all women and men 65 years or older
- postmenopausal women and men 50-64 with risk factors for fracture including:
 - low bone mass identified on x-ray
 - parental hip fracture
 - high alcohol intake
 - current smoker
 - low body weight, i.e. less than 132 lbs or 60 kg
 - rheumatoid arthritis
- younger men or women (under 50) with a disease or condition associated with low bone mass or bone loss:
 - high risk medication (steroid use, aromatase inhibitors, androgen deprivation therapy)
 - uncontrolled hyperthyroidism
 - early menopause (younger than 45)

For more information about osteoporosis, go to the Osteoporosis Canada website at www.osteoporosis.ca.

If you fall into any of the groups listed above, please schedule an appointment with your primary care provider to discuss BMD testing.

“Increased government support expands opportunities for northerners to build in-demand skills, strengthen regional economic drivers, and contribute to Ontario’s economy. This funding represents an important investment in Northern College and Northeastern Ontario.”

Following its new funding model, the Ontario government is investing an additional $1.7 billion to fund 70,000 seats for in-demand post-secondary programs. The aim is to expand enrolment in healthcare, skilled trades, teaching and STEM programs.

Northern College, meanwhile is continuing to invest in programming and facilities that ensure students have access to the latest in relevant technologies and experiences, rooted in an experiential approach to education.

Dumas said this expanded funding model will allow for investment in new facilities, training equipment and program development, ensuring the region has “localized access to a brighter, more productive future.”

Awareness, support and hope

The fight against breast cancer: a community effort

In October, government agencies, medical professionals and organizations like the Canadian Cancer Society join forces for Breast Cancer Awareness Month. During these four weeks, many initiatives take place to spread information about the latest scientific advances, risk factors and the importance of screening. It's the perfect time to learn and to get involved.

STATISTICS THAT REMAIN CONCERNING
According to estimates from the Canadian Cancer Society, more than a quarter of all new cancer diagnoses this year in women will be breast cancer. This statistic represents an average of 89 confirmed cases per day in Canada. Even though the mortality rate has been declining since its historical peak in 1986, research indicates that approximately one in eight Canadian women will develop the disease in their lifetime.

COMMITMENT MAKES A DIFFERENCE
It's hard to imagine what the situation would be like if the public didn't contribute to funding research and related activities. Everybody can get involved in the cause according to their abilities and means. You can:

- Organize your own fundraiser
- Make a one-time donation in memory of a loved one or sign up for a monthly giving program
- Attend or volunteer at local events, such as the Canadian Cancer Society CIBC Run for the Cure

Can't donate or volunteer? Your voice is just as valuable. Don't underestimate the positive impact of raising awareness among your friends and family. For more information, visit cancer.ca.

Breast Cancer Screening Saves Lives

- If you are aged 40 to 74, talk with your doctor or nurse practitioner about breast cancer screening.
- If you are over 40, you can self-refer for a mammogram. You do not need a doctor or nurse practitioner referral.
- If you think you are at high risk, screening can start sooner. Talk to your doctor or nurse practitioner. Those without a provider can call 8-1-1 for guidance.

The Ontario Breast Screening Program is offered FREE at the following welcoming locations in our area:

- Temiskaming Hospital (New Liskeard)

6 SIMPLE HABITS

to reduce your risk of a house fire

Negligence is involved in nearly half of all residential fires. However, by taking simple, practical steps every day, you can significantly reduce your risk. Here are six habits to adopt in your daily routine to help prevent a house fire.

1. Use a timer when cooking. It'll prevent you from forgetting to turn off a burner if you get distracted.
2. Clean the kitchen as you go. Grease buildup on the range hood, oven or nearby surfaces can catch fire if overheated. Clean them immediately after you've finished cooking.
3. Fry food in a deep fryer. Using a pot of hot oil for frying food is quite dangerous. A simple spill can cause a fire.

4. Be careful with electrical connections. Never connect multiple extension cords together. Discard any cords that look damaged or emit abnormal heat.
5. Maintain your dryer correctly. Empty the lint filter before each use and clean the dryer vent periodically to prevent dangerous lint buildup.
6. Handle ashes with care. Do you have a wood stove? Place hot ashes in a closed metal container with a raised bottom and keep it outside.

Finally, don't forget to purchase a fire extinguisher, if you haven't already, and check your smoke detectors regularly.

HOROSCOPE

Week of October 11 to 17, 2026

ARIES
Overtime boosts your income, but you'll quickly realize something is missing in your emotional life. This awareness will prompt you to restore balance between your professional and personal spheres.

TAURUS
You'll be in exactly the right place at the right time to shine. At work, praise and recognition highlight your efficiency. This strengthens your credibility and confirms that your endeavors haven't been in vain.

GEMINI
Your personal world can feel comforting, but it can also weigh you down. This is the ideal moment to declutter, give away or discard the things that no longer serve you. By lightening your environment, you'll also clear your mind.

CANCER
To resolve a delicate situation, dare to say out loud what you've been thinking. By asserting your authority, you unlock dead ends and restore harmony around you, both at work and at home.

LEO
Major expenses, such as buying a vehicle or a major piece of equipment, may be necessary to maintain your professional image and mobility. A precise, well planned budget will help you avoid unpleasant surprises.

VIRGO
Your desire to prove yourself is paying off. At work, your results will attract new clients and bring you closer to your ambitious goals. By applying an effective method, you'll see significant improvement.

LIBRA
If you're searching for the ideal job or a personal path, start by clarifying what really inspires you. Your fertile imagination may lead you to craft a promising project or piece of work in your field of interest.

SCORPIO
A sedentary lifestyle is beginning to affect both your mood and your body. Suggest active outings with your friends—such as walks, sports or other dynamic activities. When you're with others, motivation returns and your overall health improves significantly.

SAGITTARIUS
As you approach a career shift or retirement, organize your thoughts. By setting a plan, milestones and priorities, you'll have the clarity you need to design a future aligned with your real desires.

CAPRICORN
A new course of study or area of expertise will accelerate your professional progress. When you encounter challenges, your strongest allies will be patience and curiosity. You'll turn every learning opportunity into a career springboard.

AQUARIUS
Deep reflection will lead you to modify your living environment. You'll be better able to meet the needs of you and your family by making a change, such as reorganizing your space or possibly relocating. New surroundings will better support your projects.

PISCES
Your agreeability is causing the pressure to mount. Before making a new commitment, take time to consider the details, constraints and your own limits. Good decisions will spare you from overwhelm and regret.
