ACT OF VIGILANCE

The only surviving World War 2 veteran in the Temiskaming region, Rayburn Johnston (middle), 100 years, laid the first wreath at the Cobalt Remembrance Day ceremony on Wednesday. He was accompanied by his daughter, retired staff sergeant for the North Bay Police Service, Heather Johnston (left), flanked behind by Coleman Township Mayor Dan Cleroux and Canadian Military Peacekeeping Veteran John Williams of the Royal Canadian Legion Branch 44 in Cobalt. Hundreds of people attended Remembrance Day services at cenotaphs across the region to pause and reflect, paying respects to Canadian veterans who fought and died for their country. This year is also the 100th anniversary of the Royal Canadian Legion created in 1926 to advocate for veterans and their families. (Staff photo by Sue Nielsen)

DID YOU GET The Speaker THIS WEEK?

Here are some of the stories in our November 11 edition...

• A public information centre is scheduled for November 25 at the Temagami Community Centre to reveal three-laning plans for Highway 11.

• City of Temiskaming Shores has unveiled its new municipal loga and tag line as part of a major rebranding effort.

• Latchford is working on its official plan, scheduled to be completed by the summer of 2027.

• South Temiskaming and area is ready to light up with the Haileybury Night of Lights leading the way on November 13.

• A 78-year-old Chamberlain Township resident was killed following a November 5 late-morning collision involving an SUV and a commercial motor vehicle.

• he 2026 Royal Agricultural Winter Fair is well under way and this region's agricultural community is well rep- resented.

• Temiskaming Shores elite marathon runner Ben Drainville returned from the Detroit Free Press Marathon with a new personal best time.

• The New Liskeard Cubs made it to the semi finals of the 55th annual U18 AAA Kitchener Blue Line Tournament.

NOMA continues push for highway safety following federal budget

Maya Ekman
Local Journalism Initiative Reporter

"You can have all the critical minerals on the ground (that) you want, but if you're moving transports and people up and down the highways that are not safe, that's a major concern."

That's according to president of the Northern Ontario Municipal Association (NOMA), Rick Dumas, who said that one thing the didn't see in Canada's 2026 budget, released last week, is the highway corridor system they've been pushing for.

While NOMA pleased with their initial reading of it as there are some great opportunities for Northwestern Ontario to see some benefits from it, Dumas said the organization will continue to push for highway safety.

Dumas said a letter to Minister François-Philippe Champagne of National Revenue and to Prime Minister Mark Carney was drafted Friday "to see if we can have a discussion around that and what that might look like going forward."

"We know that they worked with the Ontario government and released the news on the $1 billion contribution from the federal government, working with the provincial government for the Ring of Fire road, which is great, but to get to the Ring of Fire, you need to travel the northern highway system," said Dumas.

He also referenced the movement of troops across Canada, an approach they took last year after the federal government committed 5 per cent of Canada's GDP by 2035 to NATO, to help ensure security.

"How do we put the movement of our troops across Canada and the sovereignty of our country with the Nipigon River Bridge into the actual build of the five per cent commitment that they made to NATO?" Dumas said.

"It's going to be a real struggle to spend those billions and billions and billions of dollars to meet that commitment to NATO. So why don't we put those monies into our roadways, make them safer for all our transports and our commercial and our residential people travelling on those, as well as putting a lot of people to work," he said.

Dumas added that thousands would have work from the highway corridor project over the next 10 years.

"So we're really going to keep pushing on that forefront and hopefully we'll get some traction."

Dumas said that looking at the budget through a Northwestern Ontario lens, they can see that impacts regarding mining and forestry sectors will be beneficial to the region.

EDITORIAL

The struggle

When we think about poverty and homelessness, the things that stand out are people with no roof over their head, a warm bed, regular meals, a place to bathe and somewhere safe to sleep.

We thought that Zack's Crib was going to help solve some of the homelessness in our region when it opened its doors, but it didn't pan out.

There is one element which cannot be seen but plays a big role in preventing poverty. It is hopelessness.

Imagine waking up without a roof over your head, not knowing where you will sleep that night or how you can safely store your meagre belongings.

Think about how people maintain their dignity when the things that most of us take for granted have become daily struggles.

Now imagine living like that for weeks, months or even years.

Here in the Temiskaming region, when we talk about encampments, emergency shelters and solutions, we must remember that behind every statistic is a human being with hopes, fears and dreams.

This is why we should support the agencies who reach out to help the most needy among us, the food banks in our region and the annual Christmas Wish Campaign, the NEOFACS Angel campaign and more.

Situational awareness

Sue Nielsen

I've been absolutely swamped with work lately. There has been a huge learning curve associated with taking over the Sports Editor role here at The Speaker.

I feel like I have been going non stop lately.

I was speaking with a friend recently who said, "Have you been out in your canoe lately?"

To which I replied,"No, I have not." It haunted me the way those words so easily rolled off my tongue.

My work isn't as much physical as it is cerebral and my head was in desperate need of clearing after a time change, the increased workload, car problems, less sunlight and onward.

When I wish to get away from work, from people and the craziness of the world I head to the lake and my canoe or I go watch birds at my friends feeders.

Don't get me wrong, I love my work but taking a break from the things you love is a necessity.

A change from our daily routines is important to our overall physical, mental and spiritual health.

Sometimes all it takes for me to destress is to sit in my car by a small marsh in Coleman Township, watching a wide variety of wildlife come and go.

On certain days if I receive a call from a friend or two who ask how my day has been I feel instant joy.

It's a hard thing in life to balance the daily grind with the reality of what keeps us grounded and focused.

However, a few world events of late have helped my beleaguered brain feel good.

The first was the blue wave that swept across America after the mid-term elections had ended.

The diversity of the Democratic governors and senators elected was truly inspirational.

The second love bomb came when I heard the news the spiritual guru/comedian Russell Brand had been convicted of rape and sexual assault and will serve 10 years in jail.

The judge said these important words, "Whatever women wear, wherever they go, indeed whatever they drink, they retain the right to say no and to demand justice from the criminal courts when sexual predators like you, Russell Brand, act without their consent."

It is long overdue that victims are to be believed and people are educated about consent.

It was priceless seeing Brand walking around clutching a bible to and from the courthouse during his trial.

There are many that still operate from the same entitled playbook as Brand.

And I still long for a canoe trip in the backcountry and the warmth and crackle of a campfire hearing the loon calling in a far off bay.

Ah, instant relaxation.

Not everyday is going to be wonderful, but there is always something to be thankful for.

Tips to Reduce the Spread of Respiratory Viruses

Every year many people get infections in parts of the body that affect breathing, such as the throat, airways, or lungs (respiratory infections). These infections are usually caused by viruses (germs) like COVID-19, Influenza, RSV, and colds. Other germs such as bacteria can cause infections in the lungs (pneumonia).

Many respiratory infections have the same symptoms but can cause very different illnesses and outcomes. No matter what the respiratory illness is, there are actions that can be taken to help keep yourself and others healthy and stop the spread of respiratory illness.

Preventing Respiratory Illnesses:

- Stay up to date with Influenza, COVID-19, and RSV immunizations;
- Wear a mask when recovering from illness or visiting high risk settings;
- Wash your hands often; avoid touching your eyes, nose or mouth with unwashed hands;
- Cough or sneeze into a tissue or the bend of your arm; be sure to dispose of the tissue and wash your hands immediately;
- Stay away from others when you're sick, unless seeking testing or medical care.

Everyone has a role to play to reduce the spread of respiratory viruses. The actions you take will protect you, loved ones and those most vulnerable in your community.

If you are experiencing mild respiratory symptoms and want the opinion of a health care provider, please call your primary care provider's office first before going to the Emergency Room.

The Temagami Medical Centre and Family Health Team is committed to keeping you as healthy as possible!

HOROSCOPE

Week of November 8 to 14, 2026

ARIES
A return to your studies brings a stimulating challenge that will align with your deepest aspirations. Keep pushing forward. Family support will boost your motivation and help you absorb valuable knowledge for a truly enriching future.

TAURUS
Evaluate each option carefully before making a decision. Joining a spiritual or wellness-oriented group will broaden your horizons and improve your daily well being. Analyze every angle for a calm, fulfilling commitment.

GEMINI
When you're facing a major decision subject to outside pressure, trust your intuition. Your patience will sharpen your ideas and reveal meaningful solutions. If you take the time to assess things, your inner clarity will help you make the right choice.

CANCER
Thorough preparation before your next negotiation will help you achieve optimal results. You'll unlock both finances and career prospects by securing the ideal position. Strategy and confidence lead to a long awaited professional victory.

LEO
Treat yourself to a luxury shopping session to elevate your appearance. A polished image will open the door to higher positions. Invest in your presentation; charisma and success will naturally follow this transformation.

VIRGO
Choose the comfort of home and remote work to increase your efficiency. By doing a major cleanup, you'll create a clear, uncluttered space that improves your productivity and enhances your serenity. Domestic harmony becomes your strongest ally.

LIBRA
Defuse family confusion without delay. Clearly define your roles and choices through honest conversations. Direct communication dispels misunderstandings and restores a smooth, peaceful dynamic among your loved ones.

SCORPIO
A surprise promotion or interim role may place you in a management position after someone's departure. You'll receive a raise in recognition of your hard work. Take the reins and get ready for your leadership to propel your career to new heights.

SAGITTARIUS
A series of problems will finally resolve at work. Your inspiration will guide you toward goals that you'll achieve brilliantly. With clear direction, success is within reach. Move forward confidently, as everything is aligning for your most ambitious projects.

CAPRICORN
Renewal is essential, and it will arrive through multiple transformations. Your well being is improving, thanks to inspiring changes. A form of spirituality is opening up, and this beautiful evolution will revitalize your body, mind and daily life.

AQUARIUS
Take the lead in organizing an unforgettable activity with your friends. With persistence, you'll overcome shyness, and your level of commitment will determine the extent of your success. Your leadership will strengthen your confidence and help forge warmer bonds.

PISCES
Your many responsibilities require you to reorganize your priorities. Cooperation with loved ones becomes the key to harmonious planning and success. Work together for greater efficiency.
