HARLEY TOWNSHIP — An eighteen-wheel tractor-trailer truck collided with a van on Highway 11 at approximately 2:45 p.m. on Wednesday, September 7, resulting in the closure of Highway 11, both north and south.

According to an Ontario Provincial Police news release, Highway 11 was closed between North Quarry Road and Maybrook Road. The road had not yet been reopened to traffic by the time this issue of The Weekender went to press.

The four occupants of the truck were not injured but the woman driving the van was transported by ambulance to Temiskaming Hospital, said eyewitness-observer Mel Bastien.

KERNS TOWNSHIP — Kerns Township has decided to turn everything off in the Milberta church, which the township owns, and begin thinking about the future in which the building will be demolished.

It is anticipated buyers can be found for some of the salvaged materials, such as the tin roof and the siding.

In the interim, the Kerns Township Fire Department has been given permission to use the building for non fire related practices, such as learning to negotiate stairways in the dark, and looking for objects using the fire apparatus.

No date has been set for the demolition of the building. Utilities are being cut off only, and the water is being drained from the building. The furnace, which quit working last spring, is not being repaired.

Council met Tuesday evening, September 6, to discuss the matter.

It was noted that one family had expressed an interest in renting the building as a home. But several factors, such as a lack of a bathing area, water inspection, and TEMISKAMING SHORES — City council has approved a rezoning application that would permit the addition of a retail store to an existing business in the Dymond Industrial Park.

In doing so, Temiskaming Shores councillors turned down a recommendation from the city planner that the application be refused.

The application seeks permission to locate a 2,500-square-foot store, operated by another business and selling outdoor recreational equipment and supplies, inside the existing Brownlee Equipment building.

In a September 6 report to Temiskaming Shores council, city planner Jennifer Pye said the municipality's official plan and existing Dymond zoning bylaw identify other areas for commercial development.

She said retail establishments are permitted in manufacturing industrial zones, provided they're clearly subordinate to the main industrial use of the property and do not change its industrial nature.

In this case, she said the proposed retail store is a separate business from the main industrial use and does not require location in an industrial area.

OPP actively recruiting new officers

Darlene Wroe
Speaker Reporter

DISTRICT -- The Ontario Provincial Police (OPP) are actively recruiting people who are interested in embarking on a career as a police constable.

In the North, there is a particular interest in recruiting Northerners who would remain in the North during their career, explained Timiskaming Detachment Inspector Brent Cecchini.

At this time, across the province, the OPP are looking at growing numbers of the OPP force members who are approaching retirement age.

At the Timiskaming detachment alone, among the administrators and supervisors, "we have five people who can retire in the next two years," said Inspector Cecchini.

This will lead to possibilities to advance for younger staff members. On the Timiskaming detachment the frontline officers have anywhere from one to 15 years of experience, he said.

The retirement of senior officers will create openings for them, and more opportunities for constables coming on to the force.

"The OPP is very much in

INSPECTOR
BRENT CECCHINI

tune with succession planning," said Inspector Cecchini.

To become a constable with the OPP, there is orientation training, police college, and then front line experience on a police detachment, outlined Inspector Cecchini.

EVENTS

Right now, there are a series of events planned to provide closer insight for anyone interested in the career.

On Friday, September 9, there will be a virtual ride-along with the police at the James Bay detachment. Then on Friday, September 16, a similar event will be taking place at the Kirkland Lake detachment. On Saturday, September 24, a Northeastern Ontario region OPP recruitment symposium will be taking place at Cambrian College in Sudbury.

More information on the career can be found at opp.ca under careers.

"There's always a push for recruitment," said Inspector Cecchini. "We are looking particularly for people from the North who want to stay in the North." He added that while there is a minimal age of 18 for young people interested in the career, there is no upper age limit. "We are always looking for people who have a varied life experience."

The OPP also have a community safety officer who attends the local schools to speak with the students about the career.

Obtaining Northern people to work in Northern communities is helpful to the police detachments, because of the concern that people from southern communities will work in the North for a short period of time only before moving away, or quit policing entirely, which would be even worse, commented Inspector Cecchini.

Council OKs rezoning for retail store in business

No other examples of this arrangement have been approved for the park, she said.

Council heard a different interpretation from a consultant planner retained by property owner and applicant Brian Brownlee.

Consultant Jeff Celentano argued that the project is consistent with the city's policies and the Provincial Policy Statement that guides municipal planning.

"The proposal contemplates a commercial retail use within an existing industrial building, rather than a free-standing Commercial land use," he wrote.

It would add only a retail store and a small number of complementary service commercial-type uses to those now permitted under the existing zoning, he said.

In the end, councillors approved the rezoning.

Councillor Doug Jelly said the issue was discussed at length at a recent meeting of the protection to persons and property committee.

COMPONENTS

There are already commercial and retail components to some of the enterprises in the park, he said.

"We feel we would be remiss if we didn't get the message out that we are open for business," he said.

"We have spent hundreds of thousands of dollars in services into the industrial park in Dymond. We are not full, we are not half full, we may be quarter full. That's a lot of taxpayer money," said Councillor Mike McArthur, who also supported the rezoning.

The city is beginning the process of drafting a new comprehensive zoning bylaw, said Mayor Carman Kidd.

It may look at moving to a business park model, rather than an industrial park designation, for the Dymond development, he said.

A formal bylaw approving the zoning bylaw amendment will be presented to council September 20.

The pizza run – STATO style

Surrender to the muse

“They shot a movie once, in my hometown,”

-- The Tragically Hip

Sue Nielsen

Each time the director yelled, “action” I had to pinch myself.

I was on the movie set of a film being shot in the backcountry of Temagami recently.

There are times when the job of journalist is incredibly exciting.

That is what I love about my job: the people I meet and the stories they tell.

I was reminded of the value of storytelling recently when I read this Ray Bradbury quote— “Stories are a safety valve. They keep society collectively, and us individually, from coming apart at the seams.”

Movies do the same thing.

They tell a story on a screen and offer an escape from the daily grind.

A Reuters/Ipsos poll says one in four people across the globe go to the cinema to suspend reality, if only for a few hours.

The movie, Keely and Du, being shot by Dykon Films Inc. on Narrows Island at the beautiful, rustic Arrowhead Lodge involved primarily a cast of three.

But the support cast involved everyone from camera people, lighting, prop man, hair and makeup people, producer, directors, cinematographer, editor etc.

There were some very prominent people on that set who are well-known in the Canadian and international film scene.

The co-directors, Toronto-based Laurie Colbert and Dominique Caradona, are internationally recognized film and documentary makers.

Their work has been screened at film festivals all over the world, including the Berlin Film Festival and the Toronto International Film Festival.

It was a pleasure to meet and speak with them.

They were gracious enough to take time away from their work to talk about their film and the themes of feminism, reproductive choice, captivity etc.

I was most impressed with the logistics of the location, which were challenging at best.

How do you provide internet access, a power source, food, travel and accommodation for so many people in such a remote location?

Thanks to the help and expertise of Temagami’s Cathy Dwyer, Mike Walton, John Harding, Caryn Colman and others they managed quite well.

Thank you for inviting me along for the ride Cathy and Mike.

What I appreciated most was when they told me there is nothing that can or should stand in the way of art.

They surrendered fully to the muse.

I kept thinking about why people sacrifice so much for their art.

It is true, if you believe in your art, then you must do it, regardless of the barriers you face.

I admire people who have the passion to pursue what makes them come alive.

And certainly on another level, it would seem this region has the potential to be another Hollywood North.

EDITORIAL

School bus safety

The big yellow school buses are back on the road this week as area students return to class.

Now is a perfect time to think about school bus safety.

It is important for motorists, parents, caregivers and students to know how to keep children safe when they are on and around school buses.

Perhaps the most important thing about school bus safety is the fact that vehicles must stop when a school bus has flashing red lights.

You can never pass a school bus with flashing red lights.

Drivers can be charged with a first offence of between $400 and $2,000 and six demerit points.

Each following offence brings a $1,000 to $4,000 fine, six demerit points and possible jail time.

Hopefully, no one ever gets to that point because this indicates a complete lack of understanding of red flashing light safety.

It is always a good idea to slow down near school zones and be on the lookout for children either walking along streets or perhaps heading to board or unload from a school bus.

And you must wait until everyone has crossed the street at crosswalk zones located near schools.

You must wait until all children and the crossing guard arrives safely to the other side of the road before moving your vehicle.

There are several large billboards in the region reminding drivers of what happened to little Adam Ranger when he was killed by a truck that failed to stop for a school bus flashing red light.

We mustn’t forget Adam Ranger’s death or the fact that accidents can and do happen in the blink of an eye.

Watch carefully if you find yourself travelling behind a school bus.

U in Community

Englehart resident Fred Deacon, who died last week at the age of 77, was one man who put the “U” in community.

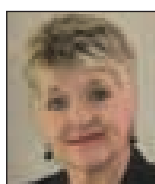

He went above and beyond for the town he loved so dearly.

As not-for-profit organizations struggle to attract and retain volunteers, perhaps Mr. Deacon’s life could be a model for those who say they don’t have time to give back.

He always had time for his community and for others.

City organizations plot 150th birthday festivities

TEMISKAMING SHORES (Staff) – The city wants to join Canada’s 150th birthday party next year.

Temiskaming Shores is seeking provincial funding to offset celebrations – combining food, history, art and fireworks – to mark the milestone in 2017.

The events would be staged in partnership with several community organizations.

The municipality is supporting a proposal by the Centre culturel ARTEM, which would work with the Temiskaming Art Gallery on a community celebration May 6 dubbed “150 years in Temiskaming.”

It would feature re-enactors playing the role of such historical figures as Laura Secord, William Lyon Mackenzie and Robert Baldwin, John A. Macdonald and George-Etienne Cartier, Louis Riel, Cree leader Big Bear and Blackfoot leader Crowfoot, and Nellie McClung.

Musicians, actors and dancers would perform in a venue decorated with banners created by artists. Foods from local producers and reflecting different cultures would also be available.

ARTEM is applying to the Ontario 150 Community Celebration Program for funding to cover 75 per cent of the event’s $13,750 budget.

The municipality and art gallery would each contribute $1,719.

SECOND

A second funding application is being made to the same program by the city, in partnership with ARTEM and the New Liskeard Business Improvement Area (BIA).

It covers a couple of events, including a New France food fair on July 1 showcasing the foods of different culture. In conjunction with the Village Noël Témiskaming, a historical re-enactment and fireworks display would be staged at the end of November.

The municipality hopes to tap into the Ontario 150 program for $32,420 to cover 75 per cent of the project’s $43,225 budget.

The city, ARTEM and New Liskeard BIA would each contribute $3,600.

INSPECTION

Inspection of Approved Slash Pile Burning Timiskaming and Abitibi River Forests

The Ontario Ministry of Natural Resources and Forestry (MNR) invites you to inspect the MNR-approved prescribed burn plan for slash pile burning that will be carried out in the Timiskaming and Abitibi River Forests (see map).

As part of our ongoing efforts to regenerate and protect Ontario's forests, some recently harvested areas have been selected to be burned under the strict guidelines of the MNR Prescribed Burn Planning Manual. The prescribed burn will reduce the area covered in slash piles while increasing the area available for regeneration and reducing the fire hazard. The burn is scheduled for ignition between October 1, 2016 and December 24, 2016.

Information about this prescribed burn project, including specific locations and maps, is available for public viewing at the offices of First Resource Management Group Inc. during normal business hours and the MNR public website at ontario.ca/forestplans beginning September 1, 2016. ServiceOntario locations within the Timiskaming and Abitibi River Forests provide access to the Internet:

Efforts underway to re-establish wildlife rehabilitation service

Darlene Wroe
Speaker Reporter

DYMOND TOWNSHIP -- Liz Cowell is looking to start up her wildlife rehabilitation service once more.

Over the past 15 years she has tended and rehabilitated hundreds of animals including most mammals, birds including raptors and waterfowl, and lizards. Authorized as a wildlife custodian, she is also a trained veterinary technician, although the work she has done has been as a volunteer, and she has paid for the cages and almost all of the care received by the animals.

A flood of her former Uno Park property put an end to that era of her services however, sweeping away or destroying cages and other items she was storing in sheds on the property.

Now at her new home in Dymond Township, she would like to start again, but this time with a different approach. With a job and two children, she would like to establish a network of foster caregivers who could care for the animals on their own properties as they are gaining strength to be returned to the wild.

RULES AND REGULATIONS

She emphasized that there are rules and regulations, provided by the Ontario Ministry of Natural Resources and Forestry (MNRF), which have to be followed during the rehabilitation.

Under the proposal, people would first bring the injured or orphaned animal to an office and triage area she would establish at her home.

"I would do the triage and rehabilitation planning, and then transfer the animal to a foster caregiver," she says of the outline.

"They'd be authorized to be a foster caregiver under my authority."

She said she would train the caregivers, and there are also online training courses available for certain aspects of the work.

BOARD

Local efforts are also underway to establish a board for the wildlife rehabilitation service so that it can become a registered charity, she explained.

Harry Cooper is heading up that aspect of the proposal.

Ms. Cowell also has an account with the Temiskaming Veterinary Services, which has provided her with discounted medical services for wildlife. She said people could help financially, by donating to her account at the Temiskaming Veterinary Services for the medical services needed.

Ms. Cowell stated that the next nearest wildlife rehabilitation service is located in North Bay, and another in Sudbury. "I don't know if there is one north of me."

This past year she has been turning away requests to aid wild animals since the loss of her Uno Park property. "I get anywhere between 50 to 100 calls from spring to fall," she said.

She said of the work that "the best part is releasing" the animal back to the wild. She attempts to involve the person who first brought the animal to her, so that they can experience that as well, she said.

She stated that she works well with the MNRF in Kirkland Lake and North Bay districts.

About Arthritis

What is Arthritis?

The word arthritis means inflammation of the joint. Inflammation is a medical term describing pain, stiffness, redness and swelling. Arthritis is a disease that can involve any of the joints in the body, often occurring in the hip, knee, spine or other weight-bearing joints, but can also affect the fingers and other non-weight-bearing joints. Symptoms of arthritis include joint pain, swelling, stiffness and fatigue. Untreated inflammation can eventually lead to joint damage, destruction and disability.

Arthritis consists of more than 100 different conditions ranging from mild forms of tendinitis and bursitis to crippling forms like rheumatoid arthritis. It includes pain syndromes like fibromyalgia and arthritis-related illness such as systemic lupus erythematosus that involve every part of the body. Other forms of the disease, like gout, are almost never thought of as arthritis.

Arthritis affects people of every age, gender and ethnic background. Genetics, age and lifestyle can all play a part in increasing a person's risk of developing arthritis. For example, the likelihood of developing osteoarthritis increases with age, a physically demanding job (e.g. athlete, heavy machinery operator) and/or previous joint injury.

DID YOU KNOW:

- There are two main types of arthritis:
 - Inflammatory Arthritis
 - Osteoarthritis
- Arthritis is the most common chronic condition reported by women and the third most common by men
- There is no cure for arthritis
- Within a generation, there will be a new diagnosis of osteoarthritis in Canada every 60 seconds
- Joint damage caused by osteoarthritis accounts for more than 80 per cent of hip replacement surgery and over 90 per cent of knee replacements in Canada

Treating Arthritis

Early diagnosis is critical to the outcome of the disease, since it only gets progressively worse and therapies work best when started as early as possible.

Rehabilitation service

Ms. Cowell first became involved in wildlife rehabilitation as a high school co-op student, working with Salt Haven Wildlife Rehabilitation and Education Centre in Mount Brydges, Ontario.

When she was studying as a veterinary technician, she would return to the centre during the summers to continue to work there.

She moved to the Temiskaming area in 2006, and began providing wildlife rehabilitation services in Temiskaming in 2008.

Anyone wishing to become involved as a foster caregiver for wildlife can contact Ms. Cowell at liz.cowell@gmail.com.

Anyone interested in becoming involved as a board member to establish a registered charity for the service can contact Mr. Cooper at hlcooper@personainternet.com.

its proximity to the ball diamond, make the building difficult to rent as a home, council agreed.

It was noted that one individual had proposed moving the building, but council was advised that is not going to happen now.

MONEY

Clerk-treasurer Michel Lachapelle stated that the township is now at the point where it is pouring money into the building without any purpose.

Reeve Terry Phillips said the township should shut everything off, and noted Councillor Mark Lenover had suggested the fire department would like to use the building for its practices.

Councillor Lenover noted that the township has made it public for a year that they were looking for solutions for the building, but nobody has come up with a proposal for it that could work.

The money the township is putting into the building could be used for gravel for the roads instead, he noted.

ITEMS FOR SALE

Councillor Dennis Jibb proposed that the township should sell some of the items in the building before the fire department starts using it.

Roads superintendent Guy Godmaire stated that the fridge and stove are already gone. The chairs and tables in the building could be added to the township's collection at the hall, he continued.

There are two pianos in the building, but he commented that it is difficult to find homes for pianos. There are also pews in the building.

Councillor Jibb noted there are also windows in the building, which "probably have some value."

Councillor Carter Seymour also noted the church bell.

Councillor Aitchison commented "the church group that put it there should have the first crack at it."

But council also noted that the congregation had turned the building over to the township because of the high costs of maintaining it.

Reeve Phillips proposed most items should be advertised as available for sale, but he said the township should save the bell.

Councillor Seymour cautioned against allowing the windows to be taken out immediately, to keep weather damage from occurring inside, and for security.

Mr. Godmaire agreed the windows could be kept in the building until it is time to demolish it.

Councillor Lenover said it has been close to two years since the building has been in use.

Councillor Seymour commented that once the building has been removed, the township can "make a decent parking lot for the diamond."

Temiskaming hospitals get $2.7 million for repairs, upgrades

Diane Johnston
Speaker Reporter

ENGLEHART – The district’s three hospitals are getting more than $2.7 million for repairs and improvements to their buildings and properties.

The money is coming from Ontario’s Health Infrastructure Renewal Fund.

It covers projects ranging from replacement and repair of roofs, windows and ventilation systems to the purchase of back-up generators.

Funding is up substantially, said Gary Sims, chief executive officer at the Englehart and Kirkland hospitals.

In the past, he said small hospitals had been disadvantaged under the fund’s criteria.

He said they expressed their concerns to the North East Local Health Integration Network (LHIN) and the Ontario Ministry of Health.

The new formula recognizes smaller hospitals and exceptional circumstances, he said.

Across Ontario, the North East LHIN said the province added another $50 million to the fund to help address the critical need for hospital repairs. About $11 million of that went to 22 hospitals in the Northeast.

At Englehart and District Hospital, Mr. Sims said its original allocation of about $68,835 increased to $355,828.

While the list of work has not yet been finalized, he said a number of projects are under discussion.

They include repairs to the exterior brick, helipad and pedestrian sidewalk, a hot water tank, water softener and conditioner, ambulance area flooring, and parking lot paving.

The list is even longer at Kirkland and District Hospital, where its original allocation of just under $204,000 was increased to $2.077 million.

Temiskaming Hospital is receiving $321,575.

Part of the money will be used to expand emergency power distribution to several areas of the hospital, said chief executive officer Margaret Beatty.

She said the region experienced “significant” power outages and brownouts in the past year, and the hospital was left without power for an eight-hour period in August, 2015.

It has installed a new, more powerful generator. DISTRIBUTION SYSTEM

It’ll use infrastructure funding, she said, to extend its distribution system to provide lighting in washrooms, for example, and the kitchen.

It’ll avoid the need to use flashlights and long extension cords, she said.

Improvements to patient and public entrances and to prevent water back-ups and the subsequent risk of flooding are also scheduled.

Ms. Beatty too was pleased at the level of investment in the district’s three hospitals.

She said the work improves the environment for patients and hospital employees.

The funding is also good for the local economy, she said, because hospitals tend to use local contractors.

Transport rollover closes Highway 11

Ms. Bastien told The Speaker she was picking up a friend coming off shift at the nearby KBR Wabi Ltd. business and she “saw the whole thing.”

Ms. Bastien said, “I have emergency first aid response training so I immediately ran over to the guys in the truck and the lady in the van and checked their vitals. The guys seemed to be okay, in shock and the lady was definitely in shock. She was lucky.”

Ms. Bastien said she’d never seen anything quite like that before.

“It was scary, when the truck tires grabbed, the whole thing (the transport) rolled over.”

She mentioned the woman was turning off the highway to a road where she lives and the truck collided into her from the back end.

“It could have been much worse,” she added. “It is amazing how well that van stood up.”
